Training Birds as 'Spies' New Army Research Plan

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is wondering whether the job of scouting out a hidden enemy may be for the birds. It is paying something more than chicken feed to find out.

The research program already has winged into its second phase.

The results of an initial feasibility study on birds' reconnaissance potential so encouraged Army scientists at the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground that a $174,472 contract has been signed with the General Atronics Corp. of Philadelphia.

When the Army awarded the contract, it would say only that it was a "research program of training birds for field surveillance" and that "the project is classified."

A spokesman went a bit farther today in answering questions. "The initial program was a study of the learning ability of birds. In this case, the study was to determine whether a bird can be taught to recognize the presence of a person and, if so, would the bird perform characteristic action indicating such recognition," the spokesman said.

"The feasibility study indicated positively that a bird can be taught and that a bird will perform a characteristic response indicating recognition of the presence of a person.

"On the basis of this, a further study is being initiated."

This was about as far as the spokesman was willing to go.

Hunters have long believed that crows, and perhaps some game birds, have a system of surveillance and communicate warnings of perils to the flock.

The Army and General Atronics Corp. apparently are attempting to reduce this to a science in which birds warn of the presence of a man by a certain recognizable call or flight pattern.

If the study is successful, the Army's lowly yardbirds may have to make room for the real thing in the military pecking order.

Strike Fails to Stop Newspaper Publication

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A skeleton crew of 30 supervisory personnel was to attempt to publish the strikebound Youngstown Vindicator again today.

The supervisors spent the night in the building, sleeping on couches or cots they had brought in. They published an estimated 3,200 copies of an 8-page edition Wednesday that were sold over the counter in the lobby of the building.

The Vindicator, only daily and Sunday newspaper in Youngstown, has never lost a day of publication due to a strike. Failure to make home deliveries however, occurred Wednesday for the first time in the paper's 75-year history.

A management spokesman said there were several picket line incidents early Wednesday when non-union employes tried to enter the downtown plant.

The American Newspaper Guild, representing 110 editorial, classified advertising and circulation employes, struck Tuesday night in a dispute over a new contract for circulation department employes.

About 100 pickets, including 37 from the circulation department who joined the guild in May, were posted at entrances and loading docks. No members of other crafts or unions at the newspaper crossed the picket line.

The guild called the strike after negotiations which began June 11 failed to gain a contract for the circulation department employes who supervise delivery of the paper and carriers.

Normally the paper, which publishes six editions daily, prints 102,000 copies daily and 159,000 on Sundays.

Anti-Poverty Bill Signed Into Law by LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today the $947.5-million anti-poverty bill intended to improve living conditions for millions of Americans.

The ceremony climaxed a long fight for the most important piece of legislation originating in the Johnson administration after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The President gave it highest priority on his 1964 program behind the civil rights and tax-cut bills.

Sponsors said it would supplement the civil rights measure because many of the beneficiaries would be low-income Negro families and jobless Negro youths.

The poverty measure wraps up a bundle of programs designed to give jobs to idle youth, help low-income families get off relief and provide literacy and job training.

Some of these, such as the

TONOPAH, Nev. (AP) — A twin-engine DC3 airliner carrying 35 persons on a flight from Burbank, Calif., to Hawthorne, Nev., crash-landed on a desert lake 10 miles southeast of Tonopah Wednesday night.

A Federal Aviation Agency spokesman said 20 of the 32 passengers and three crew members aboard were injured. At least two, the pilot and copilot, were seriously hurt.

Capt. Harold Hopkins, of the Burbank area, was reported in critical condition. He was pinned in the wreckage for two hours.

The craft was a scheduled airliner of Hawthorne-Nevada Airlines. Most of the passengers were on a trip to the big El Capitan Casino in Hawthorne.

Lindsay Smith, president of the airline corporation, operates the casino.

The FAA said one engine failed when the plane was north of Beatty, Nev., 114 miles northeast of Las Vegas.

The FAA said Hopkins tried to reach Tonopah, but trouble developed in the other engine. The plane then lumbered for a landing on an unlighted strip outlined on a dry lake for emergency X15 rocket ship landings.

The DC3 cartwheeled as it came into the lake and skidded an estimated 150 to 200 yards and overturned, said Richard Blakemore, Tonopah Air Service operator who was first on the scene. The impact ripped off the left wing and both engines.

The copilot was Stan Neilson. The stewardess, Kay Hall, was cut but not hurt badly. They also are from the Burbank area, Smith said.

U. N. May Be Forced To Abandon Cyprus

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — Secretary General Thant warned today the United Nations force in Cyprus will have to be withdrawn before its scheduled date of departure unless additional financial aid is forthcoming.

"I consider it essential that action be taken immediately to obtain additional financial support for the force," Thant told a news conference.

"If this is not forthcoming in the immediate future it will be necessary that the force be withdrawn before its scheduled departure date of September 26."

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — United Nations troops, fed up with two weeks of useless talks, today tore down Turkish Cypriot sandbag barricades near Nicosia's truce line.

It was the first real show of strength by the United Nations toward either side in this strife torn island's smouldering civil war.

U.N. soldiers placed their automatic weapons in the stomachs of six rifle-carrying Turkish Cypriots who tried to push past them, and ordered them

Auto Workers To Pick Target For Big Strike

By GENE SCHROEDER

CHICAGO (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union — backed by a $66 million strike fund — is expected to select its prime target today for a possible nationwide strike in the auto industry.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther and union officials scheduled a series of meetings to discuss the status of negotiations over three-year contracts covering more than a half million assembly line workers.

Out of the talks is expected to come a decision on which of the Big Three automakers — General Motors, Ford or Chrysler — will be tagged as the No. 1 target for a possibly crippling walkout.

The union is taking a strike vote among its members in all three companies.

A UAW spokesman estimated that the strike fund, providing an average of $25 per week in benefits to each worker, would support a strike up to eight weeks at GM, longer at Ford or Chrysler.

All the big three contracts are due to expire at midnight Aug.

'Private Clubs' Few in Dixie Racial Dispute

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Only a small percentage of businesses in the South have turned into private clubs to avoid integration since enactment of the civil rights law.

An Associated Press survey showed scattered instances of restaurants — and one hotel — changing to restricted memberships as a means of keeping out Negroes.

In Mississippi 13 businesses have been issued private club charters by the secretary of state since the new law was signed by President Johnson last July 2.

"If I took Negro customers, I would go out of business," explained one businessman. "If I didn't, I would be in trouble with the government. This way the club selects its members and we avoid trouble."

In Jackson, Miss., the Robert E. Lee Hotel obtained a private club charter but has not disclosed details of its planned op-

Pacific Ocean Red Tide Looks 'Like Root Beer'

The red tide, an overabundance of tiny creatures called plankton, moved south to Newport Beach Wednesday, and stretched sticky fingers all the way to Laguna Beach, seven miles down the coast.

The red tide has been plaguing beaches in the Los Angeles area for several weeks.

Buddhist Chief Blasts Viet Nam President

By MALCOLM BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A top Buddhist leader publicly assailed President Nguyen Khanh today as the government sought to avert an explosion on the first anniversary of the bloody pagoda raids.

Addressing a rally of 4,000 Buddhist youths, the leader, Tich Tan Chau, sharply criticized Khanh's assumption of additional power last Sunday, when he ousted Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh as president and installed himself.

The rally — held in the grounds of the Buddhist Association headquarters here — was in commemoration of last year's pagoda raids by police under orders from the late President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Anxious to avoid an outbreak, police did not interfere during the rally and it ended without incident. But several Buddhist high school teachers said during the rally that they have been invited to police headquarters for questioning.

Buddhist monks said that if the teachers are detained, massive Buddhist demonstrations probably will be held in front of police headquarters.

Trouble was also anticipated in the central Vietnamese city of Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, where Buddhist demonstra-

Tshombe Ousts Opponents While Rebels Succeed

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe moved today to oust thousands of citizens of nations accused of undercutting his regime, as fighting raged in the east Congo city of Bukavu invaded by rebel forces.

As the spreading Communist-backed rebellion seemed to take a turn for the worse, Tshombe said he believed a report that Peking-trained rebel leader Pierre Mulele, 33, was dead. Diplomatic sources, however, believe the former Congolese education minister was alive in Brazzaville, the former French Congo.

Government forces in Bukavu were reported pushed back to the city's European quarter, but Col. Leonard Mulamba said he believed he could retake the rebel-held part of the city if reinforcements were available. U.S. cargo planes airlifted two loads of troops and supplies to the besieged city during the night.

The U.S. Embassy said that its seven or eight-man staff in Bukavu fled to neighboring Rwanda after heavy street fighting erupted Wednesday. A planeload of 40 refugees, mostly U.N. personnel, arrived in Leopoldville Wednesday night.

A government garrison of some 800 troops was fighting to salvage the city, capital of central Kivu Province and the only important city in the turbulent northeastern Congo still under government control.

The rebels, who hold an estimated 25 per cent of this vast

LBJ's Fortune Double That of Sen. Goldwater

Total net worth — Johnson and family, $3,484,098. Goldwater and Mrs. Goldwater, approximately $1.7 million.

Individual shares — Johnson $378,081; Mrs. Johnson, $2,126,298; Lynda Bird Johnson, $490,141; Luci Baines Johnson, $489,478. Goldwater, $470,420 in stocks; Mrs. Goldwater, $615,446 in stocks and bonds. Other major assets not listed by individual.

Reporting source and date — Johnsons: Haskins and Sells, accountants, Wednesday. Goldwaters: Valley National Bank, Phoenix, Aug. 13.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch indicates he believes President Johnson and his family are a lot richer than accountants say and that Republicans intend to make a campaign issue of how the first family accumulated its wealth.

Burch, who was handpicked for his job by GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, told a news conference Wednesday that the accounting firm's estimate of the Johnson's wealth at $3,484,098 was "incredibly low." The accounting was made at Johnson's request and the report was released by the White House.

Burch complained that assets were listed on the basis of cost to the Johnsons. He said this was "like listing the value of Manhattan Island at $24." He insisted the fair market value ought to be the basis for assessing the family wealth.

"I don't think the figures, as I've seen them, make any sense," he said.

Some published reports have placed the Johnson family worth as high as $14 million, contending the market value of the Johnson holdings far exceed their book value.

Burch said he found it peculiar that "the bulk of the fortune was made in areas subject to government regulation" over a period when he said Johnson was making an average of $12,000 a year in public service.

350,000 Acres Rangeland Lost In Huge Blazes

By RICHARD E. MEYER

Behind them, they leave:

— More than 350,000 acres of charred rangeland. Much of it was valuable to northeastern Nevada stockmen for grazing their cattle.

— A Boise, Idaho, pilot dead when his plane crashed Sunday after bringing a fire crew to Elko, and two Elko County ranchers seriously burned trying to stop a blaze.

— An undetermined number of cattle lost, fences burned and minor ranch buildings damaged.

Paychecks started going out today and four-engine Forest Service planes were ready to fly the fire crews home to points throughout the West. Many of the men had been on the line since Saturday.

A crew of 111 men was still posted on the worst and most stubborn blaze, the 200,000-acre Boulder Flat-Maggie Creek fire which burned a stretch of grass and sagebrush 75 miles long to the west and northwest of Elko.

It was controlled Wednesday afternoon by an assault team of

Demos to Fight Counterfeiters Of Tickets

By TOM SEPPY

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Officials are making it difficult for counterfeiters who would like to duplicate tickets for the Democratic National Convention which opens Monday.

The tickets won't be distributed until the weekend. Officials will not release any details on the ducats beforehand, including where they are being printed.

"We didn't want to give people a week or two to figure out how to counterfeit them," said Samuel C. Brightman, deputy chairman of public affairs.

Counterfeiting has always been a problem at national political conventions.

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater was described today as willing to face President Johnson in a television series proposed by the National Broadcasting Co.

Goldwater's press secretary, Paul Wagner, said the Arizona senator wouldn't be interested in a format that would have the presidential contenders appear separately.

Johnson was silent on the NBC invitation to put him and Goldwater — jointly or separately — on the air in a full hour

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson threw a lavish party Wednesday night to sing the praises of the 88th Congress, but Sen. Barry Goldwater and most GOP leaders chose not to sing along with Lyndon. They didn't show.

Johnson invited all members of Congress — Democrats and Republicans — to join him in watching a fast-paced musical extravaganza on the White House lawn, then mix under lantern-festooned trees for small talk and vittles.

In between, he delivered a 15-minute speech praising the current Congress as constructive, compassionate and cooperative.

"This session of Congress," he said, "has enacted more major legislation — met more national needs — disposed of more national issues — than any oth-

First Rights Bill Fine Applied in Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge has applied the financial lever of the Civil Rights Act for the first time by assessing two men found guilty of contempt $600 to be paid the plaintiffs' attorneys.

U.S. Dist. Judge Bryan Simpson ordered William Chew of St. Augustine, manager of Palms Congress Inn, and his corporation to pay $400. Charles M. Lance Jr., timber dealer, service station operator and nonpaid deputy sheriff of St. Johns County, was ordered to pay $200.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs said they would donate the $600 to the legal defense fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Chew and Lance were held in violation of injunctions ordering operators of 17 restaurants and motels to serve Negroes and prohibiting other persons from interfering.

Businessmen Learning Foreign Languages

NEW YORK (UPI) — There was a time, said Robert Strumpen Darrie, when businessmen came to his schools to learn enough of a foreign language to get them through a vacation trip abroad.

But in the past 10 years, he said, they show up in droves, expenses paid by their companies, for a dollar-and-cents reason: Learning a language to aid their campaigns for foreign trade.

"Many years ago," said Strumpen-Darrie, "they'd come come in for a hobby. Now they are here for an entirely different purpose. And the wives who must go overseas with them come along to school also."

Strumpen-Darrie is president of the Berlitz Schools of Languages of America, Inc. Recently it was given the President's "E" certificate for outstanding services to the increase of United States trade abroad, one of the rare occasions on which it has been given to a service organization rather than to an industrial concern.

The Berlitz organization was cited not only for tripling the dollar volume of its services and teaching aids sold overseas, but for "providing the tools of languages to help facilitate the flow of world trade."

Strumpen - Darrie noted that English is almost a "universal" language, and that in Berlitz schools in Europe about 60 per cent of the demand is for English courses.

"But the American businessman, more and more concerned with the export expansion program, has known for a long time that he will have advantage in dealings abroad if he can speak the language of the country in which he wants to trade. Knowledge of the native tongue may make all the difference in landing an order and missing it."

In the Berlitz schools in the United States, the most popular language is Spanish, with about 40 per cent of the students seeking to learn it. French, Russian and German follow in that order. Instructors in the Berlitz schools must be natives of the countries whose language they are teaching.

Utah Ranch to Pay Fine for Grazing

DENVER (UPI)—The Interior Department said today a Utah ranch had agreed to pay the Bureau of Land Management $4,480 for overgrazing and trespassing on federal range lands near the Utah-Colorado line west of Durango, Colo.

Lowell M. Puckett, Colorado State BLM director, said the settlement involved two charges against Redd Ranches and Paul D. Redd of La Sal, Utah—for grazing 1,777 sheep, horses and mules on federal range land without a specific license or permit, and for running 4,484 sheep on federal range under a license that allowed grazing for only 1,744 head.

Puckett said the ranch also agreed to remove its livestock permanently from the trespassed land and to get their sheep off the licensed range until it can be restored.

New Zinnemann Film Reported Important One

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Behold a Pale Horse" falls short of being a masterpiece by Fred Zinnemann, but any film by the Vienna-born creator is an important event.

This is Zinnemann's first movie in four years, the last one being the poignant study of family survival, "The Sundowners." He then tried to fashion a filmable tale from James Micheners' massive "Hawaii." He wanted to make two movies from the novel: United Artists wanted one. Impasse.

The director interested himself in the Emeric Pressburger novel, "Killing a Mouse on Sunday." It was a story of the aftermath of the Spanish civil war.

The project brought trouble from the start. The Spanish government placed a ban on all activities within the country of Columbia Pictures, which was sponsoring the film. The Spaniards didn't like the book, and now Zinnemann reports they don't like the movie. Columbia is still banned.

The director claims "Behold a Pale Horse" is no more political than movies that show American police in a bad light. But the division of good and evil is plainly evident.

The good guy is Gregory Peck, an aging, irreverent guerrilla who has continued the war long after his side has lost, making forays from his exile home in France.

The Bad guy is Anthony Quinn, a corrupt, adulterous commandant of the Guardia Civil, Spanish national police force. For years he has been bedeviled by Peck's raids across the border. Now, with the guerrilla's dying mother as bait, he sets a trap.

The confluence of opposing forces was masterfully portrayed by Zinnemann in "High Noon," perhaps the perfect Western. He uses the same technique in "Behold a Pale Horse." The pace at first is deceptively slow, filled with seemingly extraneous incident.

Then the pace begins to quicken and the incidents fall into a pattern. The buildup comes to a violent, shattering climax.

It is in the climax that "Behold a Pale Horse" seems to fail to achieve greatness. Peck's final show of defiance appears a pointless waste of life, including his own.

Peck creates one of his finest characterizations since "The Gunfighter," in which he had a parallel role. Quinn is his blustery self, and Omar Sharif is sympathetic though passive as a priest caught in the crossfire.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time was when the do-it-yourselfer struggled with the tools and techniques of the professionals. Now, the professional often uses a product created originally to simplify the home repair labors of the amateur.

The paint roller, for instance, initially scorned by the professional, now is a commonplace. The small propane torch, spray paints and many other easy-to-use paints, stains and repair products are bought by professionals.

Buddhist Chief Blasts Viet Nam President

tions and a torchlight parade were scheduled tonight and Friday.

Authorities in the Hue area sought to meet the Buddhists halfway by declaring Friday a holiday with time off for Buddhist soldiers and officials.

Khanh — who is a Buddhist — had ordered his armed forces to avoid entanglement with political and religious groups. He also warned students to stick to their books rather than demonstrations, or they might find themselves in the army.

At the Saigon rally, Chau praised Khanh and Minh for ousting Diem last November, describing the takeover as "the work of true revolutionaries."

But Buddhist leaders have voiced fear that Khanh, now that he has pushed Minh into the background, may create a regime similar to that of Diem.

Students attending the rally carried banners which claimed: "The Buddhist faith is still being oppressed and the struggle must go on."

For the first time students openly denounced alleged U.S. interference in the internal affairs of Viet Nam, charging that Khanh had assumed total power at the instigation of the Americans.

Current unrest appears to extend to wide segments of Viet Nam's civil service and even to top government officials.

The Viet Cong overran a government outpost in the Mekong River delta province of Kien Hoa Wednesday night. First reports from U.S. officials in Saigon indicated that 10 of the post's 37 defenders were able to escape.

1,000 fire fighters. Skeleton crews mopped up five other blazes. The crews had totaled 2,300 men.

The Bur[illegible] of Land Management is w[illegible]ng on a proposed rehabilitation plan officials hope will get quick approval by Congress. It calls for reseeding much of the burned range.

"We hope to get funds at an early date so we can do land treatment work before we suffer losses from erosion and noxious weeds," said J.R. Penny, state BLM director.

Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada and the state's congressional representatives have urged speedy federal action to help distressed stockmen. The director of emergency planning, Edward McDermott, said president Johnson had promised all possible assistance.

However, it will be two years before cattle can graze any restored land. As Peter Marble, state cattle association president, put it: "What is burned is burned."

Youth Conservation Corps, has been pushed in previous sessions but never cleared both branches of Congress.

The new law is an authorization measure. Johnson already has asked Congress to appropriate the $947.5 million in a supplemental money bill.

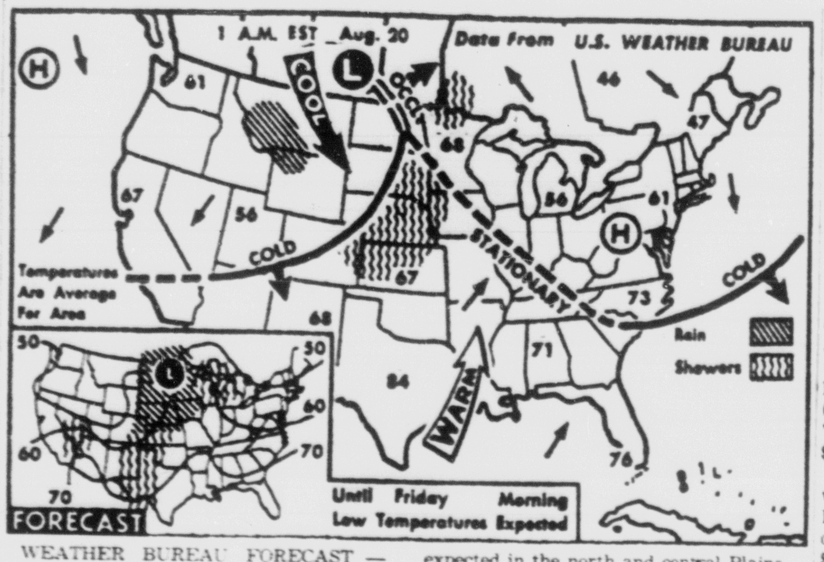

The authorizations are for fiscal 1961 which ends next June 30. If the program is to continue beyond that date, Congress will have to vote new allotments.

Some sponsors of the measure at the Capitol privately expressed doubts as to how effective it could be in the trial period ahead.

Many Republicans argued it was a politically inspired measure which would make little dent on poverty.

However, Sargent Shriver, who served as assistant to the President in drafting and advocating the program, told Congress it should reach 600,000 persons directly the first year and up to 7 million families through community action projects.

Johnson has announced Shriver will be named director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the official title of the program.

U. N. May Be Forced To Abandon Cyprus

back. The Turkish Cypriots complied.

The sandbag barricades, only several hundred yards from the U.N. zone headquarters, were pulled down because a U. N. spokesman said they were "an eyeball to eyeball irritant and a provocation."

Before today's action was taken, the United Nations had negotiated without success for two weeks to have the Turkish Cypriots destroy the barricades.

This positive U.N. action and earlier decisions by both Greece and Turkey to restore military units to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) helped cool the crisis here.

Turkey withdrew air force units from NATO Aug. 10 for possible use over this strife-torn Mediterranean island. On Monday Greece retaliated by pulling out army, navy and air force units.

But Turkey informed NATO headquarters in Paris Wednesday that its units were being reassigned to the Western alliance. Greece followed suit within hours, although Premier George Papandreou said NATO had a "clear obligation" to prevent Turkish intervention in Cyprus.

(In Moscow, the Communist news agency Tass said Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios praised Russia and criticized the United States and Britain for their stand in the United Nations debate on Cyprus. Tass said Makarios sent Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev his thanks for Russia's "favorable and mighty support" during the crisis. Makarios also said in an interview it was "noteworthy" a lot of the arms captured by Greek Cypriots during the fighting on the island "belonged to NATO," according to Tass.

(In Ankara Wednesday, Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin said Turkey might close Russia's naval gateway to the Mediterranean "if there is a danger of war" over Cyprus. Turkey controls the Straits of Bosphorus and the Dardanelles, both waterways which must be navigated by ships sailing into the Mediterranean from the Black Sea.)

and mineral-rich nation, captured the key city of Stanleyville two weeks ago.

The Bukavu uprising came after a government order in Leopoldville to deport citizens of Brazzaville, Burundi and Mali whose governments are accused of backing the revolt.

Denouncing the governments as accomplices of Communist China, Tshombe told a news conference that his order would be lifted only if their support of the rebellion ends. He accused China of moving to use the Congo as a base to take over all of Africa.

It was not known how many persons would be deported but some estimates were as high as 50,000. Authorities began a mass roundup for the 20-minute ferryboat ride across the Congo river to Brazzaville.

Commenting on the Mulele death report, Tshombe said he was satisfied with evidence that the rebel leader had been killed. Leopoldville radio carried a brief announcement of the reported death.

Tshombe said several thousand Watusi refugees from Rwanda were trying to move through Bukavu to invade their homeland. Rebels and Watusi slaughtered two French U.N. officials north of Bukavu on Monday.

In North Katanga, government forces reportedly recaptured the farming town of Kapona. Reports from Europeans in Baudouinville, 60 miles west of Elizabethville, said 40 rebels were killed in the assault.

A dispatch from Brazzaville said that Congo Republic has called on the Organization of African Unity to name a committee to investigate deteriorating relations between the two Congos.

Auto Workers To Pick Target For Big Strike

Union strategy, if precedent is followed, would then be to halt production with a mass walkout at the target company's plants, while extending contracts with the other two firms on a day-to-day basis.

The strikebound company would be hit when it hurts the most — just when 1965 models are beginning to roll out of the factories. Its competitors, meanwhile, would have the auto sales field virtually to themselves.

In 1961, GM was the primary target. Ford was singled out in 1955 and 1958.

Bargaining talks between the UAW and the Big Three have entered their eighth week.

The union rejected as "miserably inadequate" and "terribly disappointing" parallel offers by the companies Monday calling for higher wages, earlier retirement and larger pensions.

UAW leaders contend that all three firms have chalked up fantastic profits in the past 18 months that should be shared with their workers.

The Big Three's economic offer would increase basic wages from 18 to 36 cents over a three-year period, boost pension payments from $2.80 monthly for each year of service to $3.25 and make 60 years the normal retirement age instead of 65.

No proposal was made to raise the pension payments for workers already retired, as demanded by the union.

The average hourly wage in the auto industry is estimated by the bureau of labor statistics as $3.01. All three companies contend, however, they are averaging a higher figure.

18 Maintenance Students Finish Army Course

Eighteen soldiers were graduated from the fourth, 120 hour Maintenance Course on Ft. Carson's new Observation Helicopter (OH-13S) this week, under the Army Aircraft Mobile Technical Assistance Program (AAMTAP).

Certificates, indicating graduation, were presented to the graduates by Maj. Charles E. Benedict, aviation maintenance officer. Spec 5 Glenn L. Wildberger, Headquarters Company, U.S. Army Garrison, and Spec. 5 David P. Lewis, Headquarters Troop, 4th Squadron, 12th Cavalry, received top honors and were congratulated by Maj. Benedict for their achievement of 95 per cent.

The major commended the students and instructors, Henry E. Beard and Royce D. Galyen, under contract from Bell Helicopter Company, during his brief address, for an outstanding job.

LBJ's Fortune Double That of Sen. Goldwater

cer must avoid not only evil but the appearance of evil," he said the Republicans want to know whether there was any "influence aired in the government- regulated field."

The accounting firm of Haskins and Sells, directed by the President July 7 to make an audit, reported that on July 31 Johnson, Mrs. Johnson and their two daughters, Lynda Bird and Luci Baines, had assets of $3,682,770 and liabilities of $198,672. This placed their net worth at $3,484,098.

Most of the Johnson holdings were in the name of his wife, Lady Bird. She had a net worth of $2,126,298 compared with $378,081 for the president. Lynda Bird's net worth was $490,141 and Luci Baines' $489,478.

The audit showed that during the last 10 years Mrs. Johnson had drawn $570,856 in salary as an officer of Texas Broadcasting Corp. while her husband was getting $409,730 in salary and expenses. The family interest in the broadcasting company was valued at $2,543,838.

In arriving at the figures the auditors fixed the value of real estate held by the Johnsons at cost, less depreciation for the improvements on the land.

Haskins and Sells said in a letter to the President that the audit "conformed with generally accepted auditing standards." But it added that the amounts listed for holdings in the broadcasting corporation, ranch properties and real estate outside of Texas "are not intended to indicate the values that might be realized if the investments were sold."

A week ago, the Valley National Bank, Phoenix, Ariz., reported the wealth of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and his wife at $1.7 million.

The Republican vice presidential nominee, Rep. William E. Miller, was asked at a news conference at Roslyn, N.Y., Wednesday if he thought the Johnson family would be a campaign issue.

Miller, referring to published estimates of Johnson's wealth, replied: "I would hope always that integrity in office and morality in office would be an issue.

"There would be some question about the integrity of a man who has been on the public payroll in a full-time job for 30 years and during that time be accumulating a personal fortune in excess of $14 million."

convention, red-white-and-blue ribbons were issued entitling holders to admission to any part of the hall. They were easy to duplicate and a lot of gate crashers got in.

A delegate or alternate to the convention here will get an honorary badge, complete with decorative ribbon, that will be good only to get through the front door of Conventin Hall. Inside the building he must display another credential, called a security badge and labeled "convention floor" to get through turnstiles to join his state's delegation.

There are 5,260 delegates and alternates.

Spectators among the 18,500 expected to join the hall will get tickets admitting them only to seats behind a fenced-off barrier. There will be other tickets for the balcony seats, which the officials call "arena" seats, and for the 6,000 news, television and radio men who will cover the convention.

All sections of the auditorium are called "reserved" but there are no individually reserved seats.

"Once inside a reserved section, it's first-come, first-served as far as the best seats are concerned," said J. Leonard Reinsch, convention director. "This goes for governors, senators and everybody else."

er session of this century or the last."

He emphasized that the record of the 88th Congress was written by "votes from both parties."

All the top congressional Democrats were on hand. But only Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the GOP whip, was present to represent the Republican hierarchy.

A temporary stage was set up on the lawn for the Broadway-style show produced especially for the occasion. In quick tempo, the professional cast socked out campaign songs of history, from "Tyler and Tippecanoe" to "I Like Ike."

One number was interrupted by a burst of spontaneous applause, when the singers and dancers came forward with Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaign anthem, "Happy Days Are Here Again."

There was another emotional interruption, during Johnson's talk. That was when the President expressed the wish that the late President John F. Kennedy could have been present to thank the legislators "for helping see that his dreams came true."

Johnson himself said "thank you" for congressional passage of a string of Kennedy-initiated measures: the civil rights law, the biggest tax cut in history, hospital and education legislation. He also mentioned passage of his own "war on poverty" program.

The President said the record of the 88th Congress shows that "there has been this year no stalemate in our system, no deadlock in our democracy."

He said he and the Congress have not been locked in battle but "locked arm-in-arm instead, battling for the people we serve together."

series of "Meet the Press" television programs.

NBC Board Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff outlined the offer in identical telegrams to Goldwater and Johnson. He said the plan was designed to substitute for actual television debates.

Goldwater could not be reached for comment, but Wagner said the Republican nominee "would accept on a face to face basis only."

"Separate appearances is hardly a debate," the press secretary said.

Meanwhile, Republican National Chairman Dean Burch charged Senate Democrats obviously were operating on instructions from Johnson when they rolled up a party line majority Tuesday night to kill legislation aimed at paving the way for debates on radio and television by suspending the "equal time" requirement for the presidential campaign.

"I can understand why President Johnson desires to avoid debating Sen. Goldwater, having seen the President on television several times," Burch said.

He said the Republican National Committee is willing to put up half the cost of television time if Johnson will agree to appear with Goldwater.

Goldwater, in a speech at the Illinois State Fair Wednesday, declared: "I am willing to debate and I'm willing to pay for the time."

Later, Goldwater told reporters "the Republican party will pay for it. We'll buy the time."

He estimated it would cost about $500,000 to air a debate on three television networks.

"Of course, with his connections, he ought to be able to get us a discount on it," the senator said of Johnson.

Burch said the Republicans would agree to avoid national security matters in any debates. He added they would reluctantly eliminate foreign policy as a debate topic, if Johnson insisted.

But Goldwater said foreign policy is what he wants to talk about.

"I only wish it could be debated by both candidates for the presidency," he said.

Sarnoff proposed a series of six programs, two of them for appearances by Rep. William E. Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee, and the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

He said the programs would be scheduled Sunday nights on the NBC radio and television networks, between early September and Election Day.

NBC offered to make them available to other networks.

Sarnoff said the programs could be joint appearances, or, if Goldwater and Johnson preferred, they could be split into half-hour segments, with the candidates appearing separately.

The NBC president said the format would be identical to that of the current "Meet the Press" series, with newsmen questioning the nominees.

Sarnoff said he made his proposal because of the Senate's rejection of the equal time suspension.

It was a suspension of that rule that cleared the way for the Kennedy-Nixon debates in 1960.

TROPHY FOR TOP SHOOTER—Thanks to the Pikes Peak Gun Collectors Guild, this handsome trophy will go to this year's top pistol shot in the Colorado Springs police department. Sgt. Jim J. Coster (at lower left), one of the eagle-eye shooters in the department, appears to have the edge in 1964 competition, and, if he wins, his name will be inscribed on the trophy. At lower right is Lee Short, president of the Pikes Peak Gun Collectors Guild. Looking on are Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick (top left) and Bill Smith, vice president of the Guild. Next year, if Guild membership approves, the organization will present three trophies for the top three police department shooters. Guild members are firm believers in the rights of individuals to own guns and to utilize them in any safe and sensible way they see fit within the framework of the law.

eration.

In Little Rock, Ark., the state Capitol cafeteria was incorporated as a private club shortly after the civil rights law was enacted. An aide to Gov. Orval E. Faubus serves as corporation president.

The AP survey showed only half a dozen switches in Alabama which Negro leaders last spring labeled a major desegregation target.

In Mobile, only two small restaurant-tavern businesses have been organized into private clubs. A Montgomery restaurant went to a private club basis; two Birmingham businesses have asked for charters and a Tuscaloosa recreation club was organized the day the civil rights act was signed.

A restaurant near Rocky Mount, Va., became a private club but the owner said the decision had nothing to do with the law. A tavern in Norfolk turned private more than a year ago to avoid serving Negroes.

In Georgia, segregationist Lester Maddox closed his Atlanta restaurant rather than comply with a federal court order to integrate. Maddox said he had been considering a private club operation but no decision has been made.

Another Atlanta restaurant operator, James Kilgore, has applied to the city aldermanic police committee for a private club permit.

A city attorney, Lewis Slaton, said he would advise the committee at its next meeting that the city repeal or amend its 1959 ordinance requiring private clubs to get permits from the city. Charters are issued through the secretary of state's office.

"There is no need for the city to have to get in the middle on this," Slaton said.

Negroes have gone to court against private clubs in Texas and North Carolina.

Texas has long had a large number of private clubs because of a state law against sale of liquor by the drink. Dallas has more than 300 such clubs which provide a built-in barrier against integration of taverns.

One Dallas restaurant and bowling alley turned private as a result of integration efforts and two Negroes filed suit seeking damages and a restraining order against segregation at the business.

In Charlotte, N.C., a Negro leader has filed a complaint under the new law against a YMCA which refused a room to a Negro civil rights worker. The YMCA contends it can exclude Negroes because it requires transients to join the organization and pay about 70 cents weekly dues.

Some restaurants in St. Augustine, Fla., were considering a switch to private club status after persistent racial trouble, said Frank Upchurch Jr., an attorney for the restaurant association.

Lewdness Brings Man Suspended Sentence

Richard Jack Chiddix, 19, 520 Violet Dr., Security, received a six months suspended sentence in County Jail and $10.20 costs from Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Wednesday for open lewdness.

The incident happened Aug. 3 in the vicinity of Violet Drive, according to the charge filed against the defendant.

French-Made Japanese Rifle Now in Museum

A French-made Japanese Arsaka rifle has recently joined the arms collection at Ft. Carson's Army Museum, Bldg. 1641. The 1938 weapon, which is currently on display along with bayonet, was manufactured by France in 1938 and used against the Allies during World War II.

Other additions to the Post Museum include an 1898 Krag Jorgenson rifle, donated by Maj. Gen. W. H. Gill, of Colorado Springs, and a two-handed sword used by German Knights during the 15th century.

Capt. T. G. Hines, who donated the sword to the museum, also loaned for display a Belgium Muscat, dating from 1832, and an 8 caliber Swiss Vetterli rifle.

The museum is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Sunday and closed Monday and Tuesday.

Man Gets Suspended Sentence in Court

Eloy Romero, 35, 816 E. Cucharras St., received a suspended sentence of 90 days in County Jail and was ordered to pay a $25 fine and $7.64 costs after he pleaded guilty Wednesday to Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane to defrauding the Colorado Springs Unemployment Department.

According to the charge filed against the defendant, the incident happened Jan. 11. The judge also told him he must make full restitution.

Elizabeth Romero, 39, 610½ S. Baltic St., was given a 30 days suspended sentence in jail plus a $25 fine and $7 costs for shoplifting.

She was accused of stealing items worth $3.98 from F. W. Woolworth and Co. Aug. 7.

Watch Valued at $400 Reported Stolen Here

A man's gold wrist watch worth $400 was stolen from Charles P. Grandgerad of New York City while he was staying at the Broadmoor Hotel, the sheriff's office said Wednesday.

According to Broadmoor Police Officer R. J. Weide the watch was in Grandgerad's room and the theft happened sometime between Aug. 5 and Sunday.

Pair Admit Thefts, Sheriff's Office Says

Two Ft. Carson men who have admitted stealing various items from at least seven cars are being held in County Jail, the sheriff's office said Wednesday.

The pair are Martin Decker, 22, and Buddy Vern Price, 20. They were first picked up by the police department who then handed them over to the sheriff's office as the bulk of the thefts happened in the county.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Franklin T. Ripley and Ray Carey, the two soldiers took them to the various places where they robbed the cars and freely admitted their guilt.

Band of Cold Air to Plummet Temperatures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A band of cold air marched slowly eastward today behind a cushion of thunderstorms and temperatures were expected to plummet sharply.

With official autumn more than one month away, most of the nation took a fall like quality.

A series of widely spaced, but unusually vigorous, summer storms mushroomed slowly eastward through the Dakotas. To the east of the storm, hot, humid air was being pulled to the northern border and to the west temperatures dipped as cold air drained from the far north.

In Bismarck, N.D., residents sweltered in 100 heat Wednesday. Early today the mercury had dropped into the 50s.

Thunderstorms leading the cold front stretched from eastern Nebraska to southeastern New Mexico. Hail reported 1 inch in diameter bounced off an area north of McCook in south-central Nebraska.

Showers and thundershowers roamed through Minnesota and Wisconsin and a few showers fell in the mid-Atlantic states.

Club, Church Report Burglaries to Sheriff

Two burglaries were reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday.

The first happened at the Garden of the Gods Club, Mesa Road, Deputy Sheriff Charles White said. The store room and walk-in meat locker had been forced and an unknown quantity of meat and other food taken.

The second incident occurred at the Good Shepherd Church, 1201 Leta Dr. where someone entered by an open window. Nothing appeared to be missing, Deputy Sheriff Harry Orvis reported.

Cub Scout Pack 37 Holds Summer Picnic

Cub Scout Pack 37, of Security, held its summer pack picnic Sunday at Lazyland, Austin Bluffs. The following awards were made:

Larry Delezal, Wolf badge, with silver and gold arrows; Aubrey Righter, silver arrow; Martin Aragen, Year pin. Awarded at a previous picnic: Garry Bonner, Year pin.

The last picnic of the summer will be held Sunday, Sept. 20, at Lazyland.

Malicious Mischief Cases Reported

Two cases of malicious mischief were reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday.

W. A. Richey, 518 Solano Dr., told Deputy Sheriff Larry Hollen that two people in a car had ran down the sign outside his gas station at 555 S. 8th St. causing $60 damage.

The second incident was reported by J. Y. Tyree, 2538 Ivanhoe Dr., who said that the screen door on the back of his house had been ripped out.

Cardinal Tisserant Greeted in Mexico

Apportionment Remains in Talking Stage

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate keeps talking, but the House votes today on what has become a key issue in the fading session of Congress — apportionment of state legislatures.

A Senate filibuster is holding back action on a proposal by Seante Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois that would permit states to delay court-ordered reapportionment. But a bill much tougher on the federal courts is up for a vote in the House.

Offered by Rep. William M. Tuck, D-Va., it would remove jurisdiction over state-reapportionment cases from the lower federal courts and prevent the U.S. Supreme Court from reviewing such cases decided in state supreme courts.

Both the Senate and House moves are aimed at undoing a Supreme Court ruling that both houses of a state legislature must be based on population.

There is strong opposition in the House to the Supreme Court ruling, but the very toughness of the Tuck bill is causing some misgivings among those who would like to see the ruling overturned.

They feel there is more question of the constitutionality of the Tuck bill than there is of the Dirksen proposal and thus more likelihood that it might be vetoed by President Johnson.

There is also the probability that it would attract even more opposition in the Senate than the Dirksen proposal has, making it more difficult to stop the filibuster that would certainly greet it.

Dirksen, for one, has shown no indication he will change or withdraw his proposal should the Tuck bill pass the House. He is talking of sticking it out into October if that's what it takes to get a vote on his proposal.

An attempt may be made in the House to substitute something similar to the Dirksen proposal when the Tuck bill is brought up. But one member who would like to see that happen said it is difficult to get supporters of the Tuck bill to go for such a move.

"They sense a total victory," he said, "and don't realize that in winning this battle they may risk losing the war."

The member, who asked not to be named, is a leader in the effort to preserve the present apportionment systems in the states.

Jail Terms Accepted For Illegal Sit-in

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The wife and four sons of attorney Vincent Hallinan, onetime candidate for president on the Progressive party ticket, have refused probation and accepted 30-day jail terms and $150 fines for sit-in activities.

Vivian Hallinan and sons Con, Terrence and Matthew were convicted by a jury of unlawful assembly, trespass and failure to disperse for their parts in auto row sit-ins last March.

Son Patrick acted as attorney for the family and said he would accept whatever penalty Municipal Judge George Maloney imposed on his mother and brothers.

Maloney sentenced the Hallinans Tuesday after rejecting a plea that the demonstration was non-violent and responsibly led.

Indonesian Navy Officer Caught By Malaysians

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — An Indonesian navy lieutenant was captured Wednesday as government troops tightened a cordon around a strip of mangrove swamps and jungle where the survivors of a terrorist invasion force were believed trapped.

The officer, dressed in civilian clothes and carrying two bags containing a machinegun, a sten gun and several hand grenades, was captured by a Malaysian corporal on a beach near Pontian, a town near the invasion area.

Two other Indonesian based guerrillas, identified as Chinese, were turned over to police by villagers who became suspicious when the pair failed to give correct answers to questions asked them. The two were believed to be former Malaysian residents.

The defense ministry refused to release figures on the number of invaders captured and still at large. However, compilation from official reports indicates that 2 invaders have been killed, 25 captured and an equal number at large.

The invasion force landed before dawn Monday on the west coast of Johore state at a point 30 miles from the Indonesian island of Sumatra.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio charged Wednesday in Jakarta that the invasion landings were "mere fabrications" by Malaysian leaders. The Indonesian government news agency today printed the first reports of the invasion, leading off with Subandrio's denial.

Malaysia's deputy prime minister, Tun Abdul Razak, said he was ordering the mobilization of thousands of adults in "vigilante corps." He told newsmen the captured invaders would be treated as enemies of Malaysia.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

It's Bad Business!

DEAR ABBY: My problem may not sound very serious to you, but it has caused a small war between my girl and me. I am a mechanic, 23 and single. I am going with a very nice girl who is 22 and works in an office. Her office is having a party. (A hayride, of all things.) They decided not to ask anyone who is NOT employed in their office. That isn't too bad. But the clincher is that no wives or husbands are invited. They are all over 21 and drinks are served. If I were a married man working in an office, I wouldn't go to an office party if my wife was not welcome. My girl is on the hayride committee and she says I don't work in an office and I don't know what I'm talking about: that any time you have married couples at a drinking party it always ends up in a drunken brawl. Am I wrong? Or is she? —MECHANIC

DEAR MECHANIC: She is. And, furthermore, if a married person is in danger of becoming involved in a "drunken brawl," he is better off with his own wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am an attractive (I'm told) 23-year-old woman who has more than her share of dates, so please don't think I'm man-hungry. I have a next-door neighbor who is approximately 26. He has been living there with his brother and sister-in-law for about a year. I am not the flirty type, so things have been going slow. I know he is shy, and so far the most I have been able to get out of him is a "hello." I know he is aware of my existence, but that's about it. I don't think he has a steady girl as he's home a lot. How can I go about wrangling a date with him? —INTERESTED

DEAR INTERESTED: Your best bet is to become better acquainted with the sister-in-law. You can always borrow a cup of sugar. Once she knows you better, if the man is available, interested, and normal, you'll have your chance. Otherwise, who needs him?

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know what to do about a neighbor who talks about sex all the time. No matter what anybody says, he always puts a dirty meaning to it, and gets off on his favorite subject. He uses filthy words, too. His wife must think it's cute because she is right there and she laughs right along with him. The rest of us are embarrassed and try to change the subject, but he can turn any subject back to sex again. We are disgusted with him but don't know how to handle the situation. Any suggestions? —"MRS. CLEAN"

DEAR "MRS. CLEAN": A good friend could tell old foulmouth to shape up or shut up. Unless one's around, bow out of his company and avoid him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Sailor on the U.S.S. Kitty Hawk CVA-63": Glad to hear that under that uniform beats the heart of an "old-fashioned" boy who has respect for virtue and womanhood. And you'll be glad to know that there's an "old-fashioned girl for every man in your outfit!

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

When I make grilled cheese sandwiches on my electric grill, I first lay a piece of foil on the grill, put the sandwiches on the foil, cover them with another piece of foil, and close the top.

This is easier than cleaning up the cheese that usually oozes out. —Mrs. G. W.

And you know what? For those who don't have electric sandwich grills, the foil can be put in the bottom of an iron skillet and it's great, too.

You're wonderful to tell us that goodie. —Heloise

Letter Of Thought

The last cigarette before you go to sleep could be your last cigarette . . . period!

You should always chaperone your cigarette and never let it go out "alone" . . . —Dr. Irmagene Holloway, Division of Accident Prevention

Dear Heloise:

We are in a fairly new home, and with two small children you know there are fingerprints!

Our painter told us that instead of trying to wash the plastered walls, to take a damp sponge, dip it in paint to match, and dab the soiled spots.

We have been here two years and our walls are just as pretty and clean as they were when we moved in. —Norma L. Patterson

Dear Norma:

You are sooo right!

Wet the sponge thoroughly and wring it out slightly so that it is not sopping wet, then dip it in the water based paint (the water in the sponge will dilute the paint) and, as you say, dab the soiled spots.

If you wash water-base painted walls often, it tends to leave a faded area where you have rubbed the wall. —Heloise

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Here is an idea for an inexpensive door-keeper.

I painted a large rock with gold paint and it looks like we Alaskans are so rich that we can prop doors open with king-size gold nuggets! —Lu Patton

Dear Heloise:

I have two treated white cotton blouses that have turned a bluish-green under the arms. I have tried everything . . . bleach, ammonia, and you name it . . . but am unable to remove these unsightly stains.

Help! ! ! —Hildegard

Anyone have the answer to this? If so, please write to us in care of this paper. Letters do not have to be signed. Please pick up a pencil and jot off a note today. —Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For those of you who like to wear your blouses out, but find that the bottom of the blouse is so large it sticks out and makes you look pounds heavier, I've found the solution.

I lay the blouse wrong side out on the ironing board, and in the back, down near the hem, I make two pleats. I join the pleats together with a piece of iron-on tape, iron it on, and presto! The blouse takes on a new look and I look pounds smaller. —Carol

Scotch Myths for Girls With Low Views of Education

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (UPI) —Calling all girls of high school age who aren't sold on the merits of study now — for college later.

To a girl, they agree that you don't need a sheepskin to do the dishes, laundry, shopping and other chores while raising children.

But, suggest educators at Central Missouri State College here, such young ladies now in high school owe it to themselves to answer the following question honstly:

"Where are you going, young lady?"

In a booklet by that title, the educators scotch a lot of the myths about the education of women, giving high school seniors especially a realistic view of the future for the typical female.

Here are some of the points high school girls are urged to ponder before turning thumbs down on higher education:

Women in the United States now outnumber men by about three million and outlive them by five to 10 years. Large numbers of women face at least 30 years of life after 40 during which they will want or need to hold jobs and fewer jobs will be available to those who have limited education.

Only one out of every four young women who graduate from high school goes to college. This is startling in face of the world's great need for teachers, nursery school instructors, social workers, writers, doctors, scientists, nurses, other professional workers, and well-trained homemakers.

College today encourages young women to use their minds at their highest level of individual potential — as students, homemakers, teachers, writers, nurses, professionals, skilled workers.

"Educate a woman and you educate the world" is no idle slogan. Look around and see for yourself. Women control the family budget, raise the children, make many important decisions.

Housewives need to be educated. The woman who belongs to the profession of homemaker holds in her hands the future culture. She is a chief transmitter of beliefs, ways of life and customs from generation to generation. Her mind must be rich and flexible to cope successfully with these family responsibilities.

You will work — though married. You can expcet to work at intervals outside your home for a total of about 25 years. You probably will work a few years after you get out of high school or college and until your first child is born. Then, when you are in your middle or late thirties and all your children are in school, you probably will return to work. The more education you have, the better prepared you will get.

If your house awnings flap in the wind, weight them down by sewing small fish sinkers along the inside edges.

Two-Piano Recital to Be Presented Saturday at FAC

Miss Barbara Couey and Bob Narquis will present a two-piano recital at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Fine Arts Center.

Mr. Narquis, currently employed as the jazz pianist for the Marvin Trio in the Antlers Hotel Falcon Room, has a Master's Degree from Northwestern University and received his undergraduate degree at the American Conservatory in Chicago.

Soviets Prevent U.S. Showdown With Red China

By K.C. THALER
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic reports indicated today the Kremlin has frustrated for some time to come any plans Red China may have had for a showdown with the United States over the retaliatory attack on Communist North Viet Nam.

Reports reaching here from Peking said the Chinese Communists are "cooling off" and ostensivly have shelved plans for any major military moves following the U.S.-North Vietnamese incidents in the Gulf of Tonkin early this month.

A key reason for the Peking attitude is the Soviet Union's aloofness in the recent Southeast Asia crisis, the reports said. The Kremlin has shown an apparent unwillingness to help China politically or militarily.

The reports cautioned that China, smarting under the inability to react forcefully to the recent American retaliatory raid, is not likely to gorget.

But instead of open intervention, the Peking regime, to all appearances, is resigned to a strategy of limited assistance to the Vietnamese Reds with arms, planes and some "volunteers" and advisers.

Diplomatic reports said that as far as can be ascertained, the Peking leadership no longer is under any illusion whatever that the Soviet either would back China's push for big power status or get involved in a war for the greater glory of Mao Tze-tung.

Communist China's military means are too limited for any major involvement in war with the United States.

While Peking publicly still holds to its view that the United States is only a "paper tiger" the action in the Gulf of Tonkin appears to have set off second thoughts in high echelons of the Chinese military and political leadership, the reports said.

Big Thompson Crop Values Estimated

DENVER (AP) Crops from the area irrigated by the Colorado-Big Thompson Project were valued at $103,454,856 last year, the U.S. Reclamation Bureau said today.

Both this figure and the value of $143.69 per irrigated area where new highs for the project territory. The total value figure was almost $37 million higher than for 1962.

Beatles Plan to Consolidate U.S. Invasion

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the week that the Beatles consolidate their invasion of the United States. Aside from several million teen-type girls, no one could be more delighted than a former Hollywood press agent named Walter Shenson.

The shaggy Liverpudlians kick off their American concert tour in the Cow Palace of San Francisco tonight. This weekend they will arrive in Los Angeles, causing despair throughout the police force. The bigger the mob scenes, the more Shenson likes it.

I remember Walter as a top-notch publicist for Kim Novak, Rita Hayworth and other local figures. Then one day he disappeared and turned up in London as a producer. He had a rousing success with "The Mouse That Roared" and followed it with "A Matter of Who" and "Mouse on the Moon."

Walter returns to his native California each summer so his two young sons will not become too anglicized. As he was preparing to return to England last September, a United Artists executive asked if he would like to produce a film with the Beatles.

"Who are they?" Shenson asked in all innocence.

Walter agreed to look into the matter and he had the assurance that if the film made a profit only in England, United Artists would be satisfied. After some difficulty, he located the Beatles in London.

"They are piled into my taxi and started talking a mile a minute," Shenson recalled. "I found myself in the middle of a scene from a Marx brothers movie. That was when I decided to make a comedy, not a pop musical."

After the preliminary talks for the movie, the Beatles went to America for the Ed Sullivan show. Shenson realized he was not making a movie to cash in on a strictly British phenomenon; the Beatles were worldwide.

"Then I really got scared," said the producer. "I felt a responsibility to the fans not to harm the Beatle image. I felt responsible to the boys to make a movie they could be proud of."

After observing the Beatles at work and play, Shenson and writer Alan Owen settled on the device of a day in the life of the singing sensations. "A Hard Day's Night" was shot in eight weeks at a cost of a half-million dollars, which makes it a mighty fine investment.

Business has been sensational at matinees, but the film has had some difficulty attracting scream-shy adults. Shenson has proposed a late-night showing for adults only.

Shenson will return to England next month to start preparing Beatle movie No. 2. What will it be about?

"That's a producer's problem," he sighed.

Lavish Musical Planned at White House

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Part of the White House back yard was transformed today into a Broadway stage as President Johnson prepared to extend a lavish musical "thank you" to the 1964 Congress that has dealt kindly with his programs.

Johnson invited some 900 Congress members, Cabinet officers and top federal officials to assemble with their wives at the executive mansion tonight for the half-hour show, written especially for the occasion and imported from New York. Republican legislators were included.

The President told a news conference Tuesday he wanted to give Congress "a richly deserved salute."

Mindful of congressional passage of tax cut, civil rights and antipoverty legislation, plus other top-priority administration programs, Johnson said: "When the record of this Congress is completed, it will place the 88th Congress in the record books as the most productive and, I think, the most constructive in the 20th century."

According to the lyrics, if everyone jumps on the wagon of the good old 88th, "we'll all take a ride."

The show, with music by an oversized pit orchestra otherwise known as the Marine Band, had a couple of noisy rehearsals on the White House lawn Tuesday night.

Chorines in black net stockings and short shorts pranced with male dancers in white slacks while Director Bill McDonald shouted directions.

The production, mounted on a portable outdoor stage, was keyed at campaign songs of yesteryear — "Old Abe Lincoln Came Out of the Wilderness," "Hooray for Bill McKinley," "Keep Cool and Keep Coolidge" and "I Like Ike."

There were even a couple of Democratic numbers, like "I Think We've Got Another Washington, and "Wilson Is His Name." Or Franklin D. Roosevelt's anthem, "Happy Days Are Here Again."

But no "Yellow Rose of Texas."

Where were President and Mrs. Johnson taking refuge during all the din in their back yard.

A definitive answer can't be provided. But it can be reported that, at first, only the parlor lights were on. Then these went out, and the occupants apparently climbed one flight to the solarium on the roof. All, that is, except the President. He went to his office. He did, that is, unless someone flaunted his standing order to keep the office lights out in his absence.

Painting of Dollars Most Expensive

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Painter Salvador Dali, whose works get high prices in the United States, is doing a new one called "Deification of the Dollar."

Dali told the news agency Logos that the painting will be "just dollars and more dollars."

FOR TOMATOES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Peel tomatoes quickly and easily by trying any one of the following methods suggested by food specialists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Stroke the skin with the dull edge of a knife blade until the skin is loosened. Or dip tomato in boiling water for one minute, then cool at once in cold water. Or — run a fork into the tomato and rotate it over head of a cooking unit until the skin is tight and shiny. Cool at once in cold water. The peel will come off easily after any one of these treatments.

President Puts Cabinet Men On Firing Line

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has put his top Cabinet members on the political firing line with every indication he intends to keep them there throughout the presidential campaign.

Although he has excused Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara from making campaign speeches, Johnson is holding them in readiness to fire back any time GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater attacks administration foreign or military policies.

The decision by Johnson is that such attacks will be answered swiftly when the administration believes the GOP presidential nominee doesn't have his facts straight.

McNamara and Rusk are also being used to carry the fight to Goldwater, as they did Monday in appearance before the Democratic platform committee.

Neither Cabinet officer mentioned the GOP nominee's name.

Asked about Goldwater's proposal that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander be given more leeway in the use of tactical nuclear weapons, McNamara replied that the average power of such weapons was five times that of the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

He said he would leave it up to the platform writers to answer the question whether the President must retain control over use of such weapons.

Traditionally any president tries to keep his secretaries of state and defense above the battle on international and security matters.

Goldwater has demonstrated that this is going to be difficult to accomplish.

As a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and as a reserve major general in the Air Force, he has access to detailed information about military- diplomatic operations in such areas as South Viet Nam.

He has ignored Johnson's offer of intelligence briefings in the evident belief these might fence him in on some issues.

Johnson took the unusual course Saturday of naming Goldwater in charging his opponent with doing "a disservice to our national security, a disservice to peace, and for that matter, a disservice to the entire free world."

This was a topper, obviously designed for world consumption, to a joint statement issued by Rusk and McNamara Wednesday. At Johnson's urging they said the GOP nominee had made an "unjustified and irresponsible interpretation" that the President had authorized the use of nuclear weapons in the Gulf of Tonkin military action.

It was Johnson's decision at the time, however, that to answer everything Goldwater said would merely publicize the GOP aspirant.

After Goldwater's nomination at the San Francisco convention, the ground rules were changed.

At a July 31 news conference, Rusk was asked about Goldwater's suggestion that the United States get tougher with the Soviet Union by threatening to break off diplomatic relations.

The secretary replied that he thought it would be unrealistic to assume that the Soviets would "roll over and play dead on the basis of anything we say or do to write off their vital interests."

PLAN OPPOSED

DENVER (UPI) — Psychiatrists John Macdonald and Bradford Murphy, members of the Governor's Committee on Insanity Laws, said Saturday they oppose a proposal for a board of psychiatrists to examine persons who plead innocent to crimes because of insanity. The committee took up this question at a meeting at the Statehouse along with the issues of whether persons pleading insanity should be allowed bail and whether the burden of proof in an insanity case should be placed upon the defendant instead of the district attorney.

Space Link-Up Is Hinted by Soviet Experts

MOSCOW (UPI) — Cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich hinted today at a space spectacular involving several Soviet spacemen in a cosmic link-up this month.

August is "the month of cosmic starts," the spacemen said in a joint article in the air force's journal describing their tandem flight just over two years ago.

That flight, they said, was a first step toward solving the "cardinal problem" of a space rendezvous.

They said that in 1962 Soviet space scientists were able only to orbit two manned capsules in close proximity. Now they have developed automatic satellites capable of in-flight maneuvering, they added.

This technique may now be used with several manned spaceships finally to effect a link-up, the cosmonauts hinted. But they revealed nothing else.

Their remarks followed by a day the launching of three scientific satellites by a single carrier rocket of a "new type."

These probes were the latest in a cluster of scientific launches such as those that preceded the team flight of the world's first space woman, Valentina Tereshkova, and cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky last summer.

"We are dreaming of new flight," said Popovich and Nikolayev. Nikolayev married cosmonette Tereshkova last November and they now have a 3-month old daughter.

"The standby pilots who escorted us and our friends to the cosmos are awaiting the new launchings" they said.

The Greek tourist office in Athens reports that 9,586 foreign yachts and cruise vessels dropped anchor in Greek ports during 1963—triple the number in 1960.

Restraint Issued In Gas Price War

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A temporary restraining order has been issued against the Continental Oil Co. by U.S. District Court in Salt Lake City.

The action came in the wake of a gasoline price war in Salt Lake, Weber and Davis counties.

The order prohibits Continental from selling "Conoco" brand gasoline at less than two cents per gallon above the price of most independent brand service stations.

The court issued the order following a complaint filed by Frontier Refining Co. of Denver. Frontier has a refinery in north Salt Lake.

Frontier, which markets gasoline under the "Frontier" and "Beeline" brands, is seeking $9 million for alleged damages.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The Air Force estimates it costs $100,000 annually to maintain a solid–fuel Minuteman intercontinental range missile to station. This compares with an upkeep figure of $1 million a year for each of the earlier liquid–fuel, more complex Atlas and Titan ICBMs.

District 12 Board Studies Need for More Classrooms

A possible school construction program was discussed Wednesday by the Cheyenne Mountain School District 12 board.

School Superintendent William Callahan said that Cheyenne Mountain Junior High School was built in 1914 to last 25 years.

Said Callahan, on the condition of the school, "There are classrooms we will not use for students."

Board President Bruce Fullerton outlined three projected building needs:

—More elementary classrooms.

Fullerton said the most important project should be the junior high school. He also said it was a mistake to continue finishing work at the high school out of regular operating funds.

It was agreed that a bond issue would be necessary for the three projects. District 12 has four bond issues to be retired.

Before suggesting the size of a possible bond issue, the board said it would meet in closed executive session with architects.

Callahan gave a brief report on the joint vocational program with Air Academy District 20 and Manitou District 14. The board voted to contribute $600 as their unassessed share of a $1,800 deficit in the program.

A seed salesman talked to the board on a drouth and foot resistant grass seed mix especially useful on athletic fields. The board decided to try the grass which the salesman said had a "tremendous root system" and is a "working grass" which crowds out weaker strains.

In other business the board:

—Accepted a new insurance policy.

District 11 Ups Tuition For Outside Students

Tuition will jump $50 for students living outside School District 11 boundaries who attend junior and senior high schools in the system.

The new rates, effective this September, were approved Wednesday by the Colordo Springs school board. Junior high school tuition was raised from $500 to $550 and senior high from $600 to $650.

Elementary tuition will remain at $400 and kindergarten at $200.

School Superintendent Thomas Doherty reminded the board that the $426 yearly cost to educate a pupil in District 11 is still below state and national averages. An enrollment of 25,250 is projected for this September.

The board hired 22 new teachers, completing the District 11 teaching staff except for one vacancy.

Robert Davis, head of personnel, told the board there were "more good teachers" available to the district this year. He explained that while eight per cent of the teachers usually cancel their contracts by this time, only four per cent did so this year. Doherty reported on programs for orientation of new teachers.

In other business:

— Auditors were appointed.

— A report was given on research and experimentation projects.

— Reports were given on eight building projects, including $3.7 million William Mitchell High School which will open in September 1965.

Bickley Hits County Buying Practices

He spoke to the Optimists Club at its noon meeting at the Embers restaurant.

Bickley said the county's failure to seek bids for purchase of supplies and equipment was the result of a "you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" approach to government.

"It's nice to negotiate, especially for those negotiating," said Bickley, "but we, as taxpayers, should demand that competitve beding be used in the procurement of supplies and equipment."

Bickley cited the costs of gasoline for county vehicles as one example. He said the county pays nearly $7,000 more per year for gasoline than does the city of Colorado Springs which buys its automotive and truck fuel on a bid basis.

The Democratic party candidate also urged the county get out of the road-building business.

"The job could be done less expensively and done better if private enterprise did it," he said.

"I don't want the county to spend large sums of money to build up an equipment empire," he said. "These machines are expensive to buy, costly to maintain and a drain on the county taxpayers unless kept constantly and productively in use."

Bickley and L. F. "Red" Quaney are the two Democratic party candidates seeking the two county commissioner posts this year.

Two Injured In Collision On Freeway

A two-car accident Wednesday afternoon at the Fountain Interchange of the freeway resulted in injuries to two persons, the State Patrol reported.

Both the injured persons were taken to St. Francis Hospital. They were Mildred D. Anderson, 41, of Park Rapids, Mich., and Ilea J. Anderson, 16, passengers in the car of John A. Anderson, 57, of the same address. The woman suffered a broken arm and possible concussion and Iles Anderson sustained a possible broken leg.

The driver of the other car, Kathleen L. Dining, 21, of Fountain, was not injured. State Patrolman said both cars were a total loss.

The Anderson car was northbound on a ramp and the Dining car westbound on the freeway at the time of the collision. After the impact, the Dining car crashed through a guard rail and plunged down a 63-foot embankment.

Candidate Urges Property Tax Reduction

Lawmakers will place "a serious handicap on home ownership" if the property tax is not reduced, a Democratic candidate for the State Legislature declared Wednesday night at Security.

Brinton stressed the importance of state aid to develop "our greatest natural resource," the young people of Colorado.

He said the Republican legislature cut state aid to education from 24.4 per cent to 23.5 per cent. The national average, he said, is more than 40 per cent.

Property taxes make up the difference, Brinton said, "and we have reached the saturation point in this regard."

Brinton, a Wasson High School history teacher, asked the average taxpayer to compare how much money he received from the state income tax cut with the increase on his property tax last year.

He warned that further increases are forthcoming unless the trend is reversed. He said Byron Hansford, state commissioner of education, has predicted a 3 to 5 per cent increase this year.

Brinton also lashed out at the Republican record in raising college tuition rates.

Thanks to the GOP legislature, he said the average citizen is paying from 23 to 91 per cent more in tuition rates at state-supported schools.

Noncom Rejoins Mountaineers At Season's End

S. Sgt. Francis E. Baxter, 2911 Hudson St., Colorado Springs, is rejoining Ft. Carson's military mountaineers after 13 months in Korea in time to close what appears to be a new record for spectator seasons in North Cheyenne Canon.

Attendance is approaching 12,000 with six more demonstrations slated through Labor Day. A new high number of visitors — 1179 — packed the natural ampitheater southwest of Colorado Springs on Aug. 13.

Baxter may have learned some new techniques to display in the Tuesday and Thursday morning climbing shows since he taught the 14th Turkish Co. to rappel while in Korea.

The Carson veteran also taught rappeling techniques to men of the 1st Battalion, 12th Cavalry, who lowered themselves from hovering helicopters down 120-foot ropes to the ground in an Army experiment.

Baxter explained that the helirappeling was intended for use by long-range patrols in thickly-forested areas or other sections lacking landing space for helicopters.

This veteran infantryman was assigned to Carson originally in 1956 with the 60th Infantry. He returned for the second time in 1961 and was assigned to the Noncommissioned Officers Academy now the Fort Carson Leadership and Mountain Training School. He received the Army Commendation Medal in Korea for his previous work at Carson including search and rescue missions.

He is well-known to fans of the Carson climbers from previous appearances at the 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. demonstrations.

The American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges have supported the Fund in its effort to mobilize financial support for medical education among American industries, businesses and private foundations.

Demo Platform Writers Urged To Aid Rights

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights leader Roy Wilkins urged Democratic platform writers today to pledge vigorous enforcement of the new civil rights law and give the country a contrast with what he called the "squeamish circumlocution" of the Republican plank.

Wilkins, chairman of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights and secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, declared that "the riots which have shaken several urban communities cannot be condoned." He said they must be understood against a background of deprivation and frustration.

Wilkins' testimony was prepared for the Democratic platform committee as it concentrated on the civil rights issue, considered the most difficult to treat in a plank acceptable to all wings of the party.

A trial balloon floated by some Southern moderates for a compromise statement that might avoid a floor fight appeared to have been shot down when Pierre Pelham, a committee member from Alabama, said Tuesday he could accept nothing less than a call for repeal of the Civil Rights Act.

The Republican platform language that aroused Wilkins' scorn includes a call for "full implementation and faithful execution" of new and old civil rights laws, improvements as needed and any necessary action to ensure the right to vote.

But Wilkins said the slogan, "leave civil rights matters to the states has become the hallmark" of Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate. Goldwater has said he accepts the Republican platform and, as president, would enforce the laws.

Wilkins said the Democrats should pledge "appropriations to insure an adequate and dedicated staff and particularly to provide for the expansion of the civil rights division of the Department of Justice."

He said further action is necessary because in some areas use of local governmental power against those who demonstrate and protest amounts to "a new form of nullification disguised as the enforcement of law and order."

So, he said, those arrested "for merely exercising their rights" should be admitted to bail by federal courts.

Wilkins called also for support of President Johnson's antipoverty program and for reform of congressional procedures to eliminate devices for blocking legislation.

A committee source, who would not be quoted by name, told newsmen he expects the platform writers to agree without a major fight on a plank calling for "genuine, hard enforcement" of the civil rights law, but not recommending additional legislation for the present.

He said he expects the committee also to approve planks condemning extremism and advocating continued exclusively civilian control of all kinds of nuclear weapons. Similar planks were proposed by opponents of Goldwater at the Republican convention, but voted down.

COMPACT PLANE

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (UPI)— Plans for a small aircraft to sell for $2,500 with folding wings that can be towed like a boat on a trailer and kept at home have been announced by Bede Aviation Corp. The company hopes to have the plane in production next year.

Import Quotas Are Praised By Cattlemen

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Brooks J. Keogh, president of the Denver-headquarters American National Cattlemen's Association, praised Congress today for passing legislation placing import quotas on beef, veal and mutton.

Keogh said the meat import bill was a "tremendous contribution to the stability of the livestock industry and to meat prices for the consumer."

He said cattlemen, recognizing the importance of world trade, provided reasonable access to the U.S. market while arranging to discourage "deliberate raids and dumping" by foreign stockmen.

"We are grateful that senators and representatives recognize the need for livestockmen to know future supply situations in order to develop the domestic industry on a stable, healthy basis so that consumers would have constant, adequate supplies of wholesome beef at reasonable prices," the Keene, N.D., rancher said.

PLANE TURNS UP

ALAMOSA (UPI)— Vernon Moncur of Powell, Wyo., whose Cessna 310 was the object of a search Friday night and early Saturday, explained after he was located Saturday that he forgot to close out his flight plan. Moncur was located in Alamosa, where he had flown after a stop in Denver. A search was started because officials were not aware Moncur had landed in Denver and thought his plane might be down somewhere in northern Colorado.

FETCHING FARMER— Farming in France isn't what it used to be and Myriam Ferrer doesn't mind a bit. She's 17, a hairdresser and "Queen of the Corso," whatever that is.

Pictures, Words Illustrate Demo Convention Talk

BY IRWIN FRANK

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — In pictures and in words, the Democrats are illustrating in Convention Hall the issues they may discuss during the election campaign. The national convention starts Monday.

The biggest pictures in the hall will be two 28-by 40-foot photographs of President Johnson on each side of the stage. Above the pictures in letters six feet tall will be three words from the first speech Johnson made to Congress after the death of President John F. Kennedy.

Above these words will be pictures of former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Kennedy and Harry S. Truman, each 20 by 22 feet.

It will be impossible for anyone entering Convention Hall to miss 18 huge photographs illustrating quotes from Johnson speeches. The pictures, each 12 by 14 feet, and the signs, 8 by 1 feet, are being mounted on the sides of the hall.

Next to each black and white photograph will be the quotes in red or blue letters. There will be nine different pictures and quotes, each repeated once.

Those who watch the convention on television will not be able to miss either the pictures or the quotes.

Human rights — A Negro boy about 18. He is the only Negro shown in any of the pictures. "No American can rest while any American is denied his rights."

Employment — A bare-chested workman in an iron hat. "We must press forward in our efforts to achieve full employment in America."

Strength and peace — A soldier with a rifle. "We must always be strong enough to prevent war . . . wise enough to avoid it."

Opportunities for older Americans — An elderly man and woman. "We must help the elderly people of America secure decent medical care under Social Security."

Housing — A happy couple and child with an apartment house in the background. "Our goal is a decent home in a decent neighborhood for every American."

Education — A teen-age boy and girl holding books. "Higher education for every young American with the desire and capacity to learn."

Agriculture — A farmer with some corn. "We must maintain and improve farm income, strengthening the family farm in particular.

Prosperity — An executive-type man. "We have created here in our land the most prosperous nation in the history of the world."

TO ERECT MONUMENT

MOSCOW (UII) — A monument is to be erected in the memory of two Lithuanian fliers who died in a crash in 1933 while homeward bound after a non-stop flight from the United States to Europe, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Friday.

Augustine Lewis, a maid, said she heard screams from the room between 2:30 and 3 p.m. but assumed "they had something to do with the Beatles."

'Space Spectacular' Planned by Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three American space authorities figure the Soviet Union may be ready to launch another "space spectacular."

Dr. C. Stark Draper, president of the International Academy of Astronautics, told a news conference Wednesday there are strong indications the Russians will attempt a major launching before or during the astronautics congress Sept. 7-12 in Warsaw, Poland.

Dr. E. B. Konecci, director of biotechnology and human research for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said there would be a launching "within the next small number of days."

Andrew G. Haley, academy general counsel, said he had been alerted by a British source the Russians would "come out with something spectacular" just before the Warsaw meeting.

None of the three would speculate on the possible nature of the rumored launching.

More American flags are sold in the midwest than in any other part of the nation, the industry reports.

EYE OF A STORM?—An intrepid Air Force pilot looked into the vortex of a storm at 65,000 feet over the Santa Barbara Channel in the Pacific Ocean and snapped this amazing photograph. The storm was spotted during a study of infrared radiance properties of clouds, a project supported by the Advanced Research Projects Agency through the Office of Naval Research.

Small Business Given 'Aid' By Government

The four all have one thing in common. They are thankful to the Small Business Administration for inaugurating what is known as a "6X6" program designed to aid Negroes.

All benefited by the program which provides loans up to $6,000 for periods up to six years with emphasis on substituting character for collateral. Philadelphia was chosen one of the cities for pilot projects.

"If it hadn't been for the administration, I wouldn't be here today," said Edwards. "I think the SBA loan is about the greatest boon that the small businessman could ever receive. Some of the ideas they gave me have really been a boon. They showed me how to buy supplies so you could get the rock-bottom price."

Edwards received a loan of $3,400.

Mrs. Woods said she was able to purchase equipment she might not otherwise have had.

"We were able to get some pointers on how to keep the business going, finance it, and other things like that. I think it's a very good program. It's a good way to get a business started when you don't have enough money," she said.

Mrs. Woods borrowed $200.

Richardson, who was given a loan of $4,000, said, "If not for these people we might not be in business today because it is very difficult for a small business to get hold of the capital. The amount of collateral a bank demands is too great. I think it's the best thing that's come along for people like us. I think it's one of the best things that ever happened."

Coleman, who received $6,000, summed up: "I have better equipment now and I'm able to get around much more because of the loan. Increased profits from the loan can't actually be seen right away, though I am getting customers I've never had before."

Philip Savage, tri-state secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peolpe, said the experimental program will help Philadelphia Negroes demonstrate they are good credit risks for private lending institutions.

He said the new program also will help ease the unemployment situation.

Edward N. Rosa, regional director of the SBA's Philadelphia office says the program has been a "tremendous success." He adds, however, that there has been an apparent reluctance among Negro businessmen to take advantage of the program.

Rosa said, however, that of more than 200 loans made since January, about 40 per cent have been to Negro businessmen. He said that in the first five-month period, there were 55 loans to Philadelphia Negroes, compared with only seven SBA loans to Negroes here in the previous 10 years.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — Special to the Gazette Telegraph — The proposal to transfer retirees from the Department of Defense to the Veterans Administration is now considered a dead issue in spite of the fact that advocates of the proposal believe such a move would be healthy for the defense budget.

The Pentagon has officially rejected the proposal. The Pentagon said such a move would have a bad effect on the morale of military retirees. In addition, leaders of the several veterans organizations have been ready to fight the program because the move would increase the veterans benefits budget and thus could become the target of an economy-minded Congress.

The Air Force Sergeants Association with some 10,000 members, has kicked off its program to try to secure a pay increase for enlisted personnel with less than two years of service when the 1965 pay increase proposal is considered by Congress. The main position taken by the association is that an all-inclusive pay measure would serve to increase enlisted men making the services a career.

Negro members of the Armed Forces believing that they are discriminated against in off-base facilities and who bring civil suits in the local courts as a result will now be entitled to call on their local commanders for assistance with the suits.

All Air Force officer personnel will be asked to make donations to the Air Force Village Foundation. The actual kick-off of the fund drive will be in September. In addition, local base officers-wives clubs will stage activities to assist in raising funds.

Former rated Air Force officers soon will be urged to regain their commissions and return to flying status as members of the Air Reserve and Air National Guard.

STEVE

The U. S. Naval School of Music has been transferred from Washington to Little Creek, Va.

The President has signed the pay increase law for Federal employes.

The Pentagon's official statement that certain charges made by Senator Barry Goldwater about defense policies "are not only without foundation but contrary to the facts" has led to an explosive situation. While Senator Goldwater is a political candidate at this time, he is also a Major General in the Air Force Reserve. It is most unusual for Reserve officers to make public statements regarding the National Defense policies without being held responsible for such statements. In the Lindbergh incident President Roosevelt relieved him of his Reserve commission as a penalty for his statements. Pentagon officials do not believe it would be smart politics at this time to do the same with General Goldwater but the Senator is under pressure to resign his commission. His remarks are not considered good for the Reserve program.

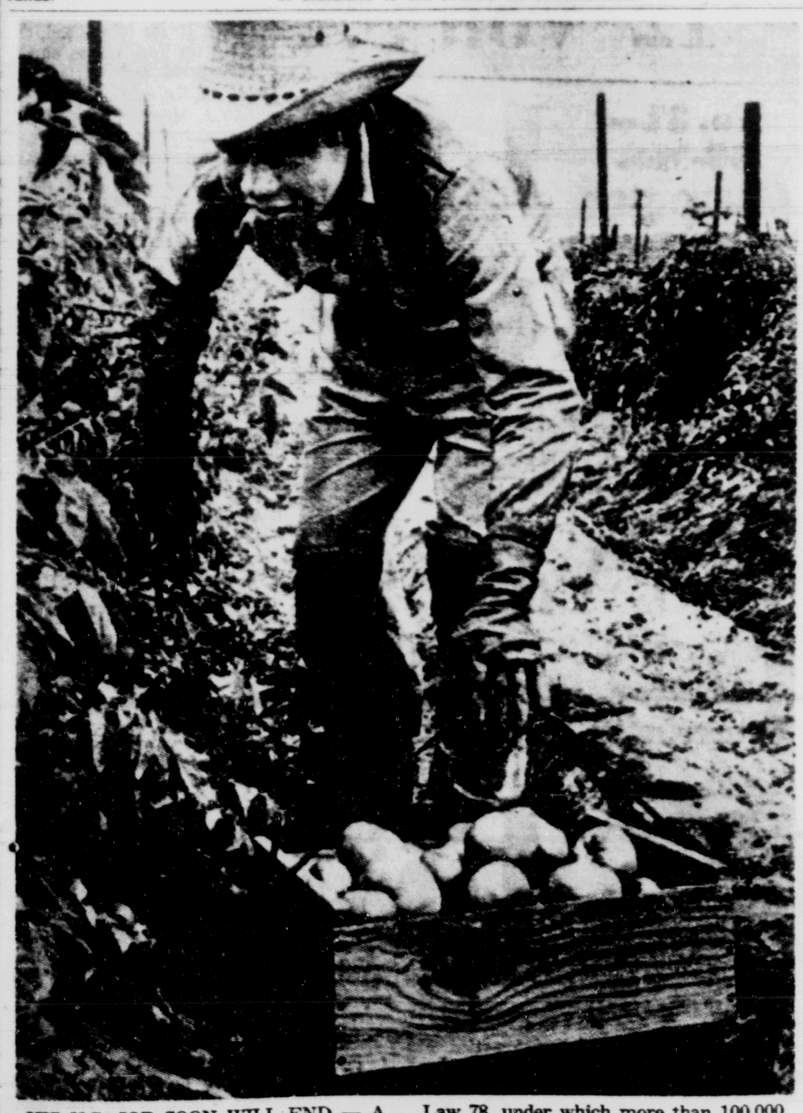

Most Government Federal employes will pay higher premiums for their health insurance benefits effective Nov. 1. The various health insurance companies are now negotiating with the Civil Service Commission on new contracts.

Informed Congressional sources are now of the opinion that Congress will amend the Civil Service retirement benefits either this year or in 1965, which would restore the full amount of annuities to the retired employes. This means that no longer would the Civil Service retirement pension be reduced in order to provide an annuity for the survivors. For those retiring prior to 1950, for example, it might mean an increase up to $1,000 a year in their retirement benefits.

Any success along these lines for the retired civilian employes is expected to start a similar campaign in behalf of the military retirees. With any strong support from an organization, such as either the Association of the U S Army or the Air Force Association, could well mean success to such an effort.

The Supreme Court has been asked to set aside the existing restrictions by the Department of Defense with respect to employment after retirement of regular officers. This is the "Taussig" case. The expenses of this long drawn-out legal hassle are being paid through donations from both active and retired officers. So far the cost of the legal battle totals $10,000, half of which has been donated. As the case gets moving in the Supreme Court it is anticipated that the contributions will increase.

Expectations of retired leaders to "clean house" in the controversial Retired Officers Association situation prior to the forthcoming convention have now dimmed. A recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the association rejected the major recommendations for changes in the by-laws as suggested by the special committee headed by Lt. Gen. Ira Eaker, Air Force retired. The November convention is expected to be explosive. Many fear that the controversy will prove harmful to the hoped-for revitalization of the association to make it a spokesman for career officers. The "Old Guard" that was considered to be on its way out succeeded in defeating the Eaker committee recommendations.

Dirksen Presses For Showdown on Apportionment

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen pressed today for a showdown in the congressional battle over reapportionment — and the Supreme Court — immediately after Democrats hold their national convention.

The Senate, already snarled by a filibuster against Dirksen's proposal for delaying court-ordered reapportionment by population of both houses of state legislatures, received a much tougher proposal from the House Wednesday.

Urged to show its "intestinal fortitude," the House approved 218 to 175 a bill that would strip federal courts of jurisdiction in reapportionment cases.

To try to push his proposal through, Dirksen has offered it as a rider to the $3.3-billion foreign aid bill, one of the measures on the administration's "must list."

Dirksen said the House measure would increase pressure in the Senate for adoption of his amendment and might shorten the fight Senate Democratic liberals are making to prevent a vote on his proposal.

"If the filibuster doesn't stop when Congress reconvenes after the Democratic National Convention next week," Dirksen told a reporter, "I'll have no choice but to file a cloture petition."

He said he was confident proponents could muster the necessary two-thirds majority of senators present and voting to bring the debate to an end.

Opponents of Dirksen's rider, including Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said they would continue their talkathon indefinitely.

The House bill, introduced by Rep. William M. Tuck, D-Va., was sped to the House floor in a power display by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., chairman of the Rules Committee. The quvy Southern conservative invoked a little-used rule to take the measure from the Judiciary Committee.

The Judiciary Committee's chairman, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., complained of Smith's unorthodox procedure, declaring it made the Rules Committee "the poobah, or panjandrum of House proceedings."

Smith, in a fiery speech that brought him a standing ovation, told the House: "If we don't have the intestinal fortitude to stand up and say to the court 'this far, and no farther,' this country is in a bad way."

Smith called the Supreme Court's "oneman, one-vote" decision "the most drastic assault on the Constitution that has happened in my time." He said Congress had a duty to save the nation from becoming a dictatorship.

Celler, on the other hand, described the Tuck bill as an uncontsitutional and "vicious attack" on the court.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C. declared "we're trying to discipline the Supreme Court today—they're sticking their noses into everybody's business."

Dirksen sees little likelihood of Senate acceptance of the House bill, which would take jurisdiction over state apportionment from the lower federal courts and appellate jurisdiction away from the Supreme Court.

Under the Senate rider, reapportionment would be delayed for up to two years "in the absence of highly unusual circumstances."

Dirksen has said its purpose is to "buy time" for congressional adoption of a constituional amendment nullifying the Supreme Court decision.

'Ancient' Decoration Installed in Ballroom

NEW YORK (AP) — Baroque plumes, acanthus leaves, nymphs and cupids — a style that went out with the plush movie palaces built in the 1930's — adorn the rebuilt Hotel Astor's ballroom, ruined by a fire last Jan. 6.

Geoffrey Leeds, in charge of the baroque effects, called the ballroom decor before the fire "very blah." When it opens Sept. 9 it will be "the most beautiful ballroom that was ever in New York," he said Wednesday.

Fred Romagnolli, one of the few ornamental plasterers left in the city, said there hasn't been so much fancy baroque work done since the Hollywood Theater, now the Hellinger, was built 30 years ago.

Lottery Booster Will Oppose Sen. Keating

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Paul A. Fino, 50, the Bronx, N.Y., Republican who is challenging the renomination of Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., calls himself the nation's leading champion of a national lottery.

And there are few, if any, people who would challenge his claim to that title.

A member of Congress for 12 years, Fino introduced his first national lottery bill in 1953, his freshman year in Congress. He spends about one-third of his time in what he calls an "educational crusade" to sell the idea to the public and Congress.

He has delivered more than 200 House speeches on the subject and has no intention of stopping, even though his proposal has never even reached the committee hearing stage.

Fino's battle with Keating has nothing to do with lotteries, however.

IMPROVES

GENEVA (AP) — The United Nations reported a "slight improvement" today in the condition of U.N. Cyprus mediator Sakari S. Tuomioja of Finland.

The 52 year-old Finnish diplomat was taken to hospital Sunday following a cerebral stroke.

Garbage Men To Be Fined For Missing

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — This city's new garbage collecting contract, opened for bids today, has a provision in it that the firm awarded the contract will be fined $1 for every missed garbage can.

The city said the $1 fine was inserted because of residents' complaints of non-pickups.

Interest Rate Cut May Boost Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reduction in government interest rates to 1952 levels would boost the economy and save the federal government $27 billion over the next seven years, a group headed by economist Leon H. Keyserling said Wednesday.

The report by the Conference on Economic progress, a nonprofit organization, also proposed closer supervision by Congress over the Federal Reserve Board. It blamed the board for a substantial rate increase on government securities over the past 14 years.

The group said the administration's policy of high interest rates on short-term borrowing and low rates on long-term securities had failed to stem the flow of dollars abroad, where interest rates are higher. It said the recent tax cut had failed to reduce unemployment.

Russian Doorbells Are Under Attack

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet doorbells are under attack. Even when not ringing, they use up all the power that can be generated by a normal hydroelectric station, a reader writes Izvestia, the government paper.

The reader said that he has discovered that all Soviet doorbells are equipped with tiny transformers which constantly use power.

The writer said he has complained to the government, but was told the design cannot be altered.

Federal Funds Distributed For Highways

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges announced the distribution today of $3.8 billion in federal aid for highway construction and improvement during the next fiscal year.

The apportionment included $2.8 billion for the national interstate and defense highway system and $1 billion for federal aid to primary and secondary highway systems.

The allocations of highway funds included (first figure for primary and secondary roads, second for interstate highways) for Colorado, $14,948,479; $37,023,350, and for Wyoming, $8,707,283; $26,792,850.

The money is provided by the Federal Aid Highway Act signed into law last week by President Johnson. It comes from federal highway use taxes and can be used only for construction or improvements and incidental costs on roads which remain under state ownership and maintenance.

The total highway aid appropriation in the legislation was $125 million higher than for the current fiscal year.

New York Critical Area, Dr. King Says

Other key cities, said King, are Philadelphia, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Chicago and Detroit.

950 Shed Basic Cadet Status At AFA Parade

During the cermony, now an Academy tradition, basic cadets march onto the parade ground separately from the upper three classes. The separation symbolizes the fact that basics are not yet full-fledged members of the Cadet Wing. They form in a colum of squadrons on the north side of the greensward.

When the remainder of the Wing is formed on the wouth side of the parade ground, the Fourth Class salutes the Wing and the Wing returns the salute.

Commander of the Fourth Class Cadet First Class Robert Warren Langley presented the Class to the Wing. Acceptance was made by by Deputy Wing Commander A. A. Rowe. Following the acceptance, Cadet Rowe directed the Fourth Class to join the Wing.

Following acceptance of his command, Cadet Rowe presented the entire Wing to the Superintendent Maj. Gen Robert H. Warren. General Warren, Commandant of Cadets Robert W. Strong Jr., and Dean of Faculty Brig. Gen. Robert F. McDermott then reviewed the entire 2,700-man Wing.

Fall semester classes start Friday at the Academy.

'Perfect Plan' Seen for Donna Reed TV Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "There will not be a single problem on our series that could not be handled by 'The Donna Reed Show,'" said Al Lewis in the earnest, intent manner that endeared him to "Car 54" audiences when he played officer Schnauzer.

But Donna Reed and her sunny, suburban family seemed far away. Lewis' face was covered with a thick layer of mauve greasepaint, his lips were an eerie combination of black and red paste. Behind him as he spoke, his old "Car 54" playmate, Fred Gwynne, totally unrecognizable in a foam rubber and mauve Frankenstein's monster make-up, lay strapped grotesquely in a torture chair in a cobweb-filled dungeon beside a mad scientist's work table where noxious brews bubbled and steamed.

"See?" said Lewis happily. "He's strapped down to keep from eating because he's gone on a crash diet so he can get back into his old uniform for a reunion with his wartime buddies. Later he breaks loose and eats the neighbor's Thanksgiving dinner."

That, kiddies, is the way it's going to be with "The Munster," CBS' comedy series this fall. The basic device is that the Munster family consists of gwynne's Frankenstein type; a wife who looks like a vampire; Grandpa (Lewis), a member of the Dracula family; a weird, mauve-faced son — and a pretty blonde niece, a source of worry because, to them, she looks abnormal.

A few miles away, in another studio, Carolyn Jones in a long black wig and slinky vampire-type dress, was proudly showing to her adoring television husband — John Astin, made up to look like Peter Lorre at his evil best — a sweater with three sleeves which she was knitting. Behind her were a conservatory, where she grows poisonous and man-eating plants, and a display of her husband's toy trains. His hobby is setting up miniature train wrecks.

That, lovers of laughter, is the way it's going to be with "The Addams family," ABC's comedy series, this fall.

"I have long felt that television comedy needed a new look," said creator and executive producer David Levy, who worked with cartoonist Charles Addams to convert his diabolic family from the pages of the New Yorker magazine to the small screen.

"The Munsters," it seems, will be a broader, more obvious spoof on the horror film. Grandpa's easy chair is an electric chair; the family phone booth is an upended, upholstered casket: the sun will shine on all the neat houses in their block, but it will always be stormy around the crumbling Victorian monstrosity where the Munsters live.

Ed Sullivan, who loves to be where the action is, will tape the opening of his convention eve program next Sunday in Atlantic City — but the program itself will be a patchwork of reruns from old shows, including, alas ,the first Sullivan show appearance of the Beatles.

ABC will give Mrs. Lyndon Johnson and Mrs. Barry Goldwater equal interview time: half-hour conversation with the First Lady next Saturday evening, and with the presidential candidate's wife on Sept. 10.

The Treasury Department keeps more than a billion dollar bills in circulation at all times.

PARTNERS — The cowboys grow small in Montgomery, N.Y., and the horses grow big, but what of it? They get along famously. The candid shot was taken at the local fire department's horse show.

Atlantic Alliance Split Danger Seen Eased

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The threat of a serious split in the Atlantic alliance's eastern flank eased today as Greece followed Turkey's decision to return its military units to the command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The move drew swift approval from the United States. It also reduced at least for the moment the chance that the two NATO nations would go to war over the explosive Cyprus dispute, which prompted both countries to withdraw units from NATO.

The Greek government warned that its action Wednesday makes the NATO command responsible for preventing further Turkish air strikes against Cyprus.

"Since Turkey returned her forces to NATO control, we will also return them," said Premier George Papandreou. His office issued a statement that the decision "creates a clear obligation in the future that NATO forbid further air attacks or other intervention on Cyprus by Turkey."

In Washington, a U.S. State Department spokesman commented that "Atlantic solidarity and the peace and security of the eastern mediterranean can only be enhanced by such action."

Earlier, Turkey announced that air units withdrawn from NATO during last week's Turkish air raids over northwest Cyprus would be restored to the alliance. A factor in Turkey's decision was the Greek Cypriot government's agreement to lift an economic blockade against Turkish Cypriots.

Fuel oil was still scarce in this capital city but U.N. observers said Wednesday that water, vegetables, fruit and bottled gas began moving into Nicosia. About 35,000 Turkish Cypriots here had been cut off from supplies.

Supplies were also reported entering the southwestern community of Ktima where 3,000 Turkish Cypriots had been isolated.

Greece's actual withdrawal of units from NATO apparently was limited to a contingent of 150 officers at Southeast Command headquarters, Izmir, Turkey.

Premier Ismet Inonu of Turkey has warned that if the Greek Cypriots resumed advances against the Turkish Cypriots, Turkey would again attack Cyprus.

Makarios, with a pledge from the Soviet Union that it would support Cyprus in the event of a Turkish attack, sent Premier Khrushchev a telegram: "Your unequivocal warning to the aggressor is the most valuable contribution to the cause of international peace which is being undermined by forces acting in their own narrow and selfish interests."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant has chosen Ecuadorian diplomat Galo Plaza Lasso, the U.N. special representative on Cyprus, to replace the ailing U.N. mediator Sakari Tuomioja seeking a permanent political solution in Geneva.

DIRECTOR NAMED

WASHINGTON (UPI— Richard L. Herman, 44, of Omaha, Neb., Wednesday was named regional director for the Republican Party and the Goldwater-Miller campaign. He will direct the GOP party's activities in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Oklahoma.

Tuskegee Race Integration Is Quiet in Schools

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A year ago, time ran out and Alabama came face to face with classroom integration in an angry climate of fear and violence.

Gov. George C. Wallace mobilized his state troopers to keep the Negroes away, but the racial barriers came down as the federal courts said they must. The tensions eventually subsided and, except for Tuskegee, the Negroes went to class almost unnoticed.

Another school year is at hand; there will be still more integration — much more. But the atmosphere has changed. The muttered threats have been muted. Community leaders have spread the message that violence will accomplish nothing.

There is a changed climate in the governor's office, too, although Wallace has not conceded the workability of integration.

Nevertheless, he no longer stands in the schoolhouse door, as he did at the University of Alabama last year, to fulfill his inaugural pledge of "segregation forever."

He — and those under his command, such as the highway patrol — are under a federal court injunction against any overt act to interfere with court-ordered school desegregation as he did a year ago at Birmingham, Huntsville and Tuskegee.

When the spring semester ended last May, schools were still segregated throughout Alabama except at Birmingham, Huntsville, Mobile and in the rural communities of Notasulga and Shorter in Macon County.

Tuskegee High School, also in Macon County, had been integrated at the start of the school year last September. The 250 white pupils walked out, leaving the two-story brick building empty except for 12 Negro pupils and 13 white teachers.

The State Board of Education ordered the school closed as an economic liability. A federal judge then transferred the Negroes to Notasulga and Shorter where white pupils promptly joined the boycott.

Since the summer vacation began, the federal courts have ordered more grades included in presently integrated schools. The court also directed school desegregation in other communities — Montgomery, Gadsden, Bullock County, and in the rural areas surrounding Mobile and Huntsville.

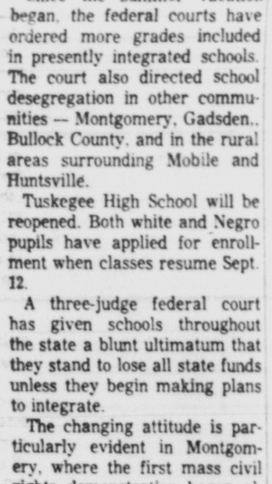

Tuskegee High School will be reopened. Both white and Negro pupils have applied for enrollment when classes resume Sept. 12.

A three-judge federal court has given schools throughout the state a blunt ultimatum that they stand to lose all state funds unless they begin making plans to integrate.

The changing attitude is particularly evident in Montgomery, where the first mass civil rights demonstration began almost a decade ago with a year-long Negro boycott of segregated city buses.

There was violence then, climaxed by the bombing of four Negro churches. Later there were the bloody "freedom rider" riots of May 1961.

The county school board has made it unmistably clear in the face of the desegregation order that the schools will remain open. There has been no violence this time.

SHAKESPEARE STAMP—To commemorate the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth, the Post Office Department will issue a five-cent stamp on August 14 at Stratford, Conn., home of the American Shakespeare Festival Theater and Academy. The stamp is a portrait of the bard in ornate ruff and doublet, standing before the proscenium of an Elizabethan theater. It is printed in brown on tan paper.

Demo Platform Drafters Avoid Split in Party

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democratic platform drafters were optimistic today that a party-splitting fight over a civil rights plank can be avoided.

As the platform committee moved here to wind up hearings begun in Washington, members from both the North and South spoke hopefully of reaching agreement on a generally acceptable plank.

The civil rights issue, however, may spark a sharp fight in another area — the seating of delegates from Mississippi and Alabama.

The platform drafters' optimism was due in large part to testimony by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy that he saw no need for a platform promise to seek new civil rights laws. He said he felt the 1964 Civil Rights Act was broad enough to cover the party's 1960 pledges in this field.

Civil rights leaders in their testimony emphasized enforcement of the 1964 act and legislation to provide more and better job opportunities for Negroes rather than new civil rights measures.

However, Frederick G. Dutton, the White House aide who i executive director ofthe platform committee, still tagged the writing of a civil rights plank as the most difficult task for the group.

The committee completed three days of hearings in Washington Wednesday and were to start taking additional testimony here this afternoon with Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze and Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia among the witnesses.

The hearings are to be concluded Friday and the committee hopes to finish its drafting work late Saturday or early Sunday.

Kennedy testified Wednesday that what is needed in the platform is "not so much a promise to seek new civil rights laws as a promise to generate the spirit of determination in which our country can and will solve its racial problems."

Pierre Pelham, an Alabama delegate, asked if he meant that no new civil rights legislation is necessary now. "That is correct," Kennedy replied.

The attorney general also stressed respect for law, calling for "a clear reaffirmation of our belief that lawless disregard for the rights of others is wrong when it is used to deny civil rights and that it is wrong when it is used to obtain civil rights."

At the same time, he said outbursts of racial violence often have deep causes and "the causes will not go away simply because we may put more policemen on the street or write a platform affirming respect for the law."

"We must continue to work, as we have worked, to eliminate the frustrations that create the outbursts," Kennedy said.

This theme was threaded through the statements of Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Martin Luther King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality.

Pelham later told a reporter he was pleased Kennedy had not asked for any new civil rights legislation. This sentiment was echoed by other Southerners on the platform committee — David McConnell of North Carolina, Robert R. Richardson of Georgia, Yancy McLeod of South Carolina, Mrs. Carey Salmon of Louisiana and others.

McLeod, the South Carolina Democratic chairman, said there now appears to be "a very good chance" of writing a platform that will be generally acceptable in the South. If so, he added, "it could have a profound effect on the outcome of the election."

Birth Control Drug Tested in Prison

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP) — A Cornell University scientist said Wednesday a new birth control drug has been successfully tested on 15 volunteer prisoners at the Oklahoma Penitentiary.

Dr. John MacLeod said the male inmates were rendered infertile for at least four months. MacLeod is associated professor of anatomy at Cornell's Medical School in New York City.

He said injections of the drug, depo-provera, made the men infertile five weeks after the first injection and that the drug's contraceptive action lasted 120 days and longer. Further tests are being made.

Kenney Will Be Endorsed By Wagner

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner returns to New York City late today amid reports he will then endorse Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Kennedy has said he wouldn't think of running without "express approval" by Wagner, New York State's top Democrat.

There were newspaper reports that Kennedy would announce Friday his resignation as attorney general and his candidacy for the nomination.

Kennedy backers say he has more than enough delegate votes to win the nomination at the state convention, which opens in 12 days.

The New York Herald Tribune today quoted Stephen P. Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law, as saying in an interview with Jimmy Breslin:

"I would think that everybody would like this thing cleared up before the convention starts in Atlantic City. By the end of the week, both indicate. Then the mayor will make a statement and the attorney general will resign, by Friday probably, and become available to run for the Senate here in New York."

Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester announced Tuesday he would seek a second term and do it independently of the national GOP ticket, headed by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said Wednesday in Washington that the committee will support Keating, if he is the nominee.

Keating has opposition for the nomination from Rep. Paul A. Fino, GOP chairman in the Bronx, who said Keating's stand was "tantamount to bolting the Republican party."

This raised the possibility of a floor fight at the convention, but Keating was expected to win handily.

Burch also said he does not expect Clare Boothe Luce, former ambassador and wife of publisher Henry R. Luce, to enter the contest on the Conservative party ticket.

Mrs. Luce, cochairman of the Citizens for Goldwater Committee, has announced no decision on whether she would run.

Wagner was in Minneapolis and in Fargo, N.D., Tuesday and Wednesday on a speaking trip.

He repeated in Fargo his statement that he has no timetable for revealing whether he will support Kennedy. "I'm not making the selection," he said. "That will be done by the state convention."

Teamsters Hear About Hoffa's Legal Trouble

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Teamsters Union's executive council hears a report today on the question of who pays President James R. Hoffa's legal expense.

Hoffa said Wednesday the report will be submitted by attorneys to the 15-man board at its quarterly meeting here.

Hoffa agreed several weeks ago to stop using union money to pay his lawyers. Since then he has been convicted in Chicago of conspiring to defraud the union's pension fund in a $20-million loan scheme.

Hoffa was sentenced to four terms of five years each to run concurrently. Earlier, he was convicted in Chattanooga, Tenn., of jury-tampering charges and sentenced to eight years. The Chattanooga conviction has been appealed and attorneys said they would appeal the Chicago sentence.

In Washington Wednesday, nearly 500 union members from nine locals filed a petition asking to join a suit seeking recovery of a union funds spent defending Hoffa and other union officials tried on criminal charges. The amount is estimated at $3 million.

The suit filed several months ago by six members of Local 107 in Philadelphia, charges a violation of a federal labor law provision which requires that union funds be spent solely for the benefit of the union.

Hoffa hotly denied there was a movement to replace him as president.

"There's no question in my mind about who's running the union," Hoffa said. "There's no question in anyone's mind in the Teamsters Union. The revolt is in the minds of you reporters and you're not members of the union.

"There is no revolt and there will be no revolt."

DIVIDEND

DENVER (AP)—Great Western Sugar Co. directors voted today payment of the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on preferred stock and 35 cents per share on common stock.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♣

A somewhat unorthodox defensive maneuver by East accounted for the defeat of South's game contract in today's hand.

The four spade contract was reached in easy stages. South's response of two spades to the one no trump opening is in the nature of a sign-off. North was near the maximum for his bid, however, and he decided to give his partner another chance, even though it involved the slight risk of getting overboard. South accepted the invitation and bid four spades.

West opened the four of clubs, the deuce was played from dummy and East's king won the trick. A quick examination of the North hand revealed that, aside from the ace of trumps, the defense must rely solely on the heart suit for additional tricks.

East realized that, in order to defeat the contract, he would have to find his partner with the ace of hearts, and a shift to that suit was clearly indicated. If declarer had two hearts, the cashing of four tricks of course would become routine. If South has only one heart, however, hope need not necessarily be abandoned, for pressure can be applied against his trump holding provided that East defends in a somewhat unusual manner.

At trick two, East shifted to the king of hearts and, when this held the trick, he continued with a small heart. Declarer ruffed and led a trump. East was in with the ace and another round of hearts reduced declarer to two spades, which was one less than his opponent held. There was no way to prevent East from ultimately scoring the setting trick with his long trump.

Observe that, if East makes the normal return of his fourth best heart—the deuce—at trick two, West is in with the ace and on the heart return dummy's ten will force out the king as declarer ruffs. The queen of hearts now becomes a stopper and enables South to retain control of the hand. When the ace of spades is driven out, East is unable to exert any further pressure against his opponent's trump holding, and South can draw all of East's spades when he regains the lead.

DISTRICT STARTED

Famed Hostess Will Sit on Demo Sidelines

By JOY MILLER

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Betty Hughes, New Jersey's hostess with the mostest children, had planned to spend her first Democratic National Convention sitting in a corner taking notes.

That was before the Democrats picked Atlantic City for their convention opening Monday, thereby thrusting the state's First Lady into the limelight as official hostess.

The humorous, extroverted wife of Gov. Richard J. Hughes, his, 3 hers and 3 theirs — describes her role this way: "I'm in charge of keeping everybody happy, women and children first."

Actually, she insists, she isn't the official hostess.

"As far as I can see, there are three: Thelma Parkinson Sharp, national committeewoman and chairman of the New Jersey Civil Service Commission, who has attended every Democratic convention since 1924, when she was a delegate-at-large with her first time to vote; the beautiful Mrs. Charles Engelhard, wife of the chairman of the host committee, and me.

"I'm the only one who has not been to a convention. I'm certainly glad to have their support."

Except for Tom, 2, most of the Hughes children will take turns going to Atlantic City because "there isn't enough room, and we don't have enough tickets for them all at once."

Bob, 26 and second oldest, is committeeman from his district in Clifton, N.J., and will be there on his own, with his wife.

"Our kids, except for Mike who's 15 and the real political nut of the family, are pretty much more interested in seeing the horse jump off the Steel Pier in Atlantic City."

Among her social efforts at the convention will be parties for the New Jersey delegation, a contingent of the diplomatic corps and the Credentials and Platform Committees; breakfast for the press women and a fashion show for women delegates and their alternates.

Two young Hugheses, Brian, 8, and Honey, 7, will be hosts at a children's pool party on the last day.

Mrs. Hughes and her secretary, Mrs. Devey Chafey, designed the costumes — white drip-dry dresses and skimmer hats — for the convention's girl greeters, the Jersey girls.

"They are 250 of the state's prettiest and most intelligent young women between 21 and 35," Mrs. Hughes says.

Mrs. Hughes says that at Moven, the governor's mansion at Princeton, "I feel like a hotel or restaurant manager a lot of the time, but I know that in retrospect I'll look back at it as a wonderful experience. Look at what exciting years they are. We've been here 2½ years and have had one baby and one national convention. What more could you ask?"

GOVERNMENT BLAMED

PARKER (UPI) —Dr. Frank E. Stranges, a featured speaker at the Unidentified Flying Objects convention here, Friday charged government officials were withholding information from the public. Stranges, who said he personally has seen three flying saucers, said government leaders had talked to inhabitants of the space craft. He said he could not understand why they had not revealed this information to the public.

Dominicans Arrest Seven Union Chiefs

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Dominican authorities have arrested seven union leaders in an effort to halt a mushrooming strike which has idled 6,000 drivers of public transport in this capital city.

The Federation of Christian Unions had called a strike of workers in the stores and factories of Santigo, this country's second largest city. The strike started Monday and has spread to stores, factories and the capital's transport system.

The strike started as a protest against a government measure which almost doubles employer and employe contributions to social security funds. The transport drivers are striking because of an increase in gasoline taxes.

DROWN

CORNWALL, N.Y. (AP) — All four children of Mr. and Mrs. John Perrone drowned Wednesday after Dolores, 12, fell into a creek and her three brothers, John Jr., 13, Tony, 10, and Rocco, 5, jumped in to save her.

None of the four could swim.

BETTER

ROME (AP) — President Antonio Segni's doctors said today he had been able to feed himself in the past 24 hours.

The 73-year-old president was felled by a cerebral stroke Aug. 7.

JOHN: All is forgiven. I miss seeing you at the Broadmoor's Main Dining Room Buffet. No one does it justice like you do. Harry can only sample four courses and misses a lot of delicious selections; by the way, I think he left town with the money he owes you. See you Sunday there at noon Mary. adv.

Qualifying Starts For World Seniors

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Competitors for the second annual International Team Match which will be played at the Broadmoor Golf Course this weekend continued to arrive today after nearly half of the overseas entries were greeted Wednesday.

Meanwhile, qualifying rounds for next week's World Seniors Tournament which will follow the International Match, were launched over the Broadmoor Course this morning. Contestants in the tournament have their choice of qualifying throughout the day today and Friday or in the mornings Saturday and Sunday. All entries will be required to shoot an 18 hole round.

The tournament will start match play Monday morning with the low 64 qualifiers in the Championship Flight. Action will continue throughout the week with the 18 hole finals scheduled for Sat., Aug. 29.

Among the early favorites for the title in this fifth annual Seniors Championship for golfers 55 years old and over will be defending champion George Haggarty of Detroit, Mich.; two-time former champion Howard Creel of Colorado Springs, and top-ranked U. S. senior, Merrill Carlsmith of Hilo, Hawaii. Carlsmith was the 1963 USGA senior titlist.

One of the oddities of the World Seniors over its first four years is the fact that it has been a paradise for lefthanders. Creel and Haggarty, who own three of the four titles between them, are both southpaw swingers. The lone right-handed champion to date was Harry Strasburger of Coffeyville, Kan. who captured the crown in 1960, the first year the tournament was played.

Even while the qualifying rounds are in progress, attention this week is to be focused on the International Team Match which had its start here a year ago as the result of the combined effort of Francis H. I. Brown of Honolulu, Chick Evans, the founder of the World Seniors, and Broadmoor president William Thayer Tutt. Brown donated the $10,000 traveling trophy which goes to the winning team and serves as a symbol for the competition.

Just six teams were on hand for the first match a year ago, with Japan capturing the championship. At least twice that many nations will have four-man teams competing this weekend. The title will be decided over 36 holes with 18 coming Saturday afternoon and the concluding 18 Sunday.

Expected among the arrivals today was Bing Crosby, the famed entertainer from Los Angeles. Both Crosby and comedian Bob Hope will be members of the United States team during the International Match. They will be joined by Creel and Haggarty. Adrian McManus of Windemere, Fla. and Adrian French of Los Angeles will serve as alternates.

Other arrivals today were to include the four-man team from Bermuda, three members of the team from India, and two members of the Australian foursome. Thursday complete teams from Japan, Mexico, New Zealand, and the Philippines arrived along with players from Peru and Hong Kong.

Calhan Speed Trials Sunday Postponed

The Calhan Speed Trials scheduled for this Sunday, Aug. 23, has been postponed until further notice, Jeff Jacobs, The Stockers Car Club president, announced today.

The Stockers were to sponsor the event from the Colorado Springs area but due to poor track conditions the speed trials Sunday had to be postponed. Jacobs said an announcement would be made in the near future for the reschedule of the speed trials.

Japanese Fighter Dies After Bout

Featherweight Takashi Hasegawa was the second Japanese pro boxer to die after being knocked out.

Juniors Hit Air Academy For Western Tournament

Jim Wiechers and Hale Irwin Jr. each will have "something" going for them next week when they tee off in the 47th annual Western Junior Golf Tournament over Eisenhower Course at the Air Force Academy.

Wiechers, 19, comes from Atherton, Calif. He was medalist in last year's tournament with a record 136, but failed to make the finals as he bowed in the semifinals to eventual champion George Boutell.

Irwin, also 19, hails from Boulder and is the state college medal play champion. He won the title on the Eisenhower Course and certainly won't feel much compunction against trying for two straight wins.

Wiechers played in the Trans-Miss tourney held this year in Colorado Springs, losing by an upset in the first round. He also was U.S. National Junior champ in 1962.

The field of 147 hopefuls begin 36 holes of qualifying Tuesday after practice rounds on Monday. Qualifiers will be the low 32 shooters for the two rounds of play ending Wednesday.

Match play starts Thursday, with 18 holes in the morning and 18 more in the afternoon, cutting the field to eight for Friday's 18-hole quarterfinal and semifinal rounds. Saturday the finalists will meet in an 18-hole match.

At the same time as the qualifying the Team Championship will be held, as accredited associations, clubs or schools vie for the R. A. Wood Trophy, won last year by the Golf Association of Michigan. In the team championships, three to five boys play on a team, with the low three scores over the 36 holes counting toward the trophy.

Wiechers and Irwin aren't the only talents which will come out from under their bushels over the rolling 7,158 - yard course.

Among the entries to watch will be 17-year-old Greg Pitzer, who defeated Walker Cup player Billy Joe Patton 7-6 in the recent Western Amateur at Tucson. Pitzer is from Santa Monica, Calif.

Arnold Abel, 19, from Denver, won this year's Pikes Peak Invitational, beaitng out Gary Polumbus of Denver. Polumbus' younger brother Tad, also 19, will be on hand for the tournament.

Colorado Springs has three entries in Gregory Johnson, 18, Gregory Nelson, 17, and Thomas Harden, 17.

Boutell yas passed the age limit (19) for entering the tournament, but eight others of last year's qualifiers, including Wiechers, are entered in this year's meet. They are Joe Porter, 19, Scottsdale, Ariz.; Steve Maymew, 19, Indianapolis; Jim Carlson, 19, Hopkins, Minn.; Dave Schumaker, 19, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Chuck Rea, 18, Meridian, Miss.; Pete Smith, 18, Niles, Mich.; and Pitzer.

Firemen Clinch Industrial Title; Tourney Set Tonite

The Fire Department softball team, behind the one-hit pitching of Howard Gosnell Wednesday night, tied with the Denver Equipment nine for the Industrial League second round lead but the Fire Department softballers' first-round leadership gave them the league championship.

Both the Fire Department and Denver Equipment compiled 8-2 won-loss records in the second round of competition in the Industrial loop. The Firemen snatched the championship title based on their 8-1 record in first round play. The Denver Equipment squad posted a 6-3 mark in the first round.

Behind the strong arm of Gosnell, the Firemen wrapped up their league slate with an 11-0 shutout over the Telephone Company aggregation in a twin bill make-up Wednesday night at Memorial Park diamond 3. In the second outing, the 425L Gofers thrashed the Simms Super group, 17-3, to conclude the regular 1964 campaign.

Tonight, the Church-Industrial Softball Tournament opens with two games on tap at Memorial Park diamond 4. In tonight's opener, the Gazette Telegraph team takes on Bethany Baptist at 7 p.m., followed by the AT&T-Village christian game at 8:15 p.m.

In addition, the City Softball Championships continue after Tuesday's first round. Tonight's agenda calls for two games on diamond 3 when defending champion Benardo's takes on Budweiser and the Havajo Hogans clash with Lorig's. The Benardo's-Budweiser game is scheduled for 8:15 p.m., and the Hogans-Lorig's contest is at 7 p.m.

Three Jets Out Of Game Lineup

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — Three New York Jet regulars will miss Saturday's American Football League exhibition game against the Boston Patriots at New Brunswick, N.J. coach Weeb Ewbank said Wednesday.

The three are Don Maynard, flanker back, suffering from a sprained wrist; Mark Smolinski, fullback, who had a pulled muscle, and tackle Jack Klotz, who is out with a groin injury.

Ewbank also announced the probable return to the line-up of Dan Ficca, the regular left guard, who has not played so far. Ficca has been out with a pulled muscle.

Site for Clay-Liston Bout Undecided, Says Promoter

NEW YORK (AP) — Garland Cherry, a spokesman for Intercontinental Promotions Inc., said Wednesday night he has accepted an invitation to appear at the World Boxing Association Convention in connection with a proposed Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight title rematch.

"The return bout between Clay and Liston was tentatively scheduled for late September," Cherry said, "and while we had offers from several cities, it was decided not to pursue any further negotiations in deference to the WBA which has scheduled a hearing on the match."

Intercontinental holds the contract for the first title bout by Clay, who scored an upset sixth round technical knockout of Liston. They have signed for a return bout in the fall, with the location and date left open.

Return of Baseball??

Only the foolish and the naive could really take seriously the report of late last week which indicated Colorado Springs may be the future site of minor league baseball.

It's true that the Springs was under some consideration for the move of the San Antonio franchise in the Texas League. But don't count on it ever coming off.

In the first place, there's few who even want professional baseball to return. Certainly those who were deeply associated with the Sky Sox when they were here would hesitate for a long while before getting back into that rat-race of pinching pennies.

But perhaps even more important, the other city mentioned in Paul Richards' slip of the tongue is standing first in line for the switch in franchise. It was promsed two years ago that Amarillo would be the next city admitted should there be any change in the Texas League and its seems only logical that this should be carried out.

However, in the past few weeks there have been definite inquiries into the situation here in the Springs, and officials from the Houston Colts have given the area a hard look. Their opinions undoubtedly will remain confidential, but obviously it's not completely hopeless or the mention wouldn't have been made.

Richards was in the party which visited Colorado Springs not long ago, and he was the one to let it slip after others involved were told to stay mum on the whole affair. The cat jumped out of the bag apparently when the Houston pilot became somewhat miffed at the lack of interest in San Antone' this past week.

His idea for wanting to pull up stakes from the Alamo City was because he must have felt another town would support the club with more enthusiasm. But in considering Colorado Springs, either he talked with people with short memories or he took little time to review the surrounding circumstances.

As I understand it, the main hinge that will swing the transfer of the San Antonio franchise owned by the Colts to one city or another will be the playing field.

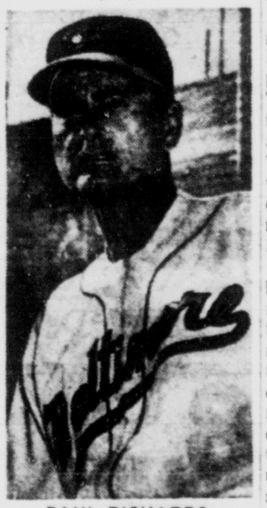

The first reaction of most would naturally be the thought that should another professional club adopt Colorado Springs, and vice versa, the home games would be played on the Memorial Park diamond (formerly Sky Sox Field). This is not necessarily so, however.

The word from those fairly close to the situation indicates it probably would take a "rent free" lease on the park to bring any franchise here. The Sky Sox had a lease from the city on Memorial Field, but since the demise of that White Sox farm club the park is back in the hands of the Colorado Springs' administration.

Understandably, officials in the City Recreation Dept. would be reluctant to give up this facility as it is only one of two lighted diamonds available for evening games in their program, which is crowded for playing fields as is. The other is at Monument Valley Park, which is inconvenient for spectators with parking nearly a block away at best.

I doubt that any firm promises were made along the lines of "free rent" by the city officials when the people from Houston visited here recently, but evidently there was encouragement given or the Springs would have been erased from the mind of Richards and the rest of the Colts' front-office people.

Then, there is the thought of some that should a team from the Class AA Texas League come here, they would build another stadium with more modern facilities than at the old home of the Sky Sox. Unless they had this financed by the Houston organization, however, it's doubtful that would come about.

PAUL RICHARDS
His Tongue Slipped

Certainly, the situation has changed for the minor leagues since the death of the Sky Sox here, but the future of the game is anything but rosy and anyone in the know would hesitate before taking on any team.

Now the minors can get assistance from the mother club to the tune of $150 per month per player, salary of the team manager and any coaches, uniforms, expenses for spring training and other items under the Player Development Contract for a Class AA club.

If this type of arrangement had been in force in 1958, undoubtedly the Sky Sox and the entire Western League would still be alive. But it wasn't and the paid admissions were hardly meeting the bills.

This aid has come far too late, and thus the number of minor leagues has slipped from 59 in 1947 to but 16 now. Such high-handed shenanigans as the recent sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting Co. certainly looks like an avenue to further decline of the minors.

When they eventually get to where the major leagues would like to get — nation-wide pay TV — it will wipe out the last of the hangers-on. And then the only hope for new players coming up would be through college teams . . . but not until it can be worked out for a general summer league system. The couple months collegians play in the spring is hardly enough to develop skilled players.

At any rate, the minor leagues are all but out. And dreamers who would have another club here with one foot in the grave should awake to reality.

Amperex To Run at RMKC Tonite

Joe Mamino's Amperex, a greyhound that made its first history on the Colorado Springs' Rocky Mountain Kennel Club oval, will be in the 11th schooling race tonight on a 15 race card. Only one more night of the present schooling session remains before the running of the 16th Annual Inaugural Classic this Saturday, to open the official racing meet.

The 11-race card on will give greyhound racing fans of the Pikes Peak region their first opportunity to wager the famous Twin Quin, a regular nightly feature at RMKC on the 10th and 11th races this season. The Twin Quin is a new, multiple-wagering combination with the object being to select the winning quinielas on the 10th and 11th races.

Winning tickets on the first half of the Twin Quin (the 10th race) must be exchanged for the patrons selection in the 11th race. The Twin Quin is an entirely separate pool from all other wagering pools and has no relationship to any other form of wagering. Some pay-offs at tracks where the Twin Quin is used have reached into the thousands of dollars.

The new Tote Board, electronically controlled from within the main calculating room behind the grandstand, is being used this year for the first time. This new board will allow as many as a dozen odds changes for each race where only four or five were possible with the old manually operated board used in past seasons.

Phillies Take Biggest Lead in Pennant Run

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies were nursing a six-game lead today in the National League pennant race.

The San Francisco Giants and Cincinnati Reds were nursing welts.

The Phillies built their lead over second-place San Francisco to the biggest of the season by whipping the Chicago Cubs 9-5 Wednesday after the Reds handed the Giants their fourth straight 7-1 in the biggest beanball battle of the season.

The Reds-Giants game was still in the top of the first inning when Cincinnati's Frank Robinson was hit on the left arm by a Ron Herbel pitch. Robinson started toward the San Francisco pitcher but was restrained by Umpire Chris Pelekoudas while Giant shortstop Jim Davenport grabbed Herbel as both benches emptied.

The umpires had to step in only a few minutes later when Robinson started from first base toward Herbel. And, later, when Robinson was retired at second base on a double play, he and Davenport had a few words.

"I know when I'm getting thrown at," said an angered Robinson after the game.

"He was yelling things at me I can't even repeat," said Herbel. "I was ready to fight him."

Reds' starter Bob Purkey was hit by a John Pregenzer pitch in the fourth inning, bringing a warning from Pelkoudas and an automatic fine. Purkey, meanwhile, evened the struggle by hitting Jim Hart twice.

In between, Robinson hit two homers and Chico Ruiz collected four hits in support of Purkey's six-hit pitching, pulling the Reds to within one game of the Giants in the standings. The Giants skid has brought them closer to sixth place than first.

Elsewhere, Jim Hickman's grand slam homer gave the New York Mets a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh, Houston edged the St. Louis Cardinals 8-7 on a run-producing single by Nellie Fox in the 10th inning and the Los Angeles Dodgers outslugged Milwaukee 7-6 with a 14-hit attack.

Robinson was hit by Herbel after Vada Pinson had doubled home two runs for the Reds in the first. Robinson then did some of his own hitting, slamming his 23rd homer in the third inning and No. 24 in the seventh.

Purkey brought his record to 7-7, allowing the Giants only run when he threw wild on a grounder after Hal Lanier doubled.

The Phillies got the job done in the eighth inning, overcoming a 5-4 deficit with a five-run explosion. Clay Dalrymple and Tony Taylor triggered the rally with singles before Wes Covington drove in the tying and winning runs with a pinch double.

The Cubs had snapped a 4-4 tie in the top half of the inning on singles by Joey Amalfitano, Billy Williams and Ron Santo, who earlier hit his 24th homer.

The Mets won their fourth straight — their longest winning streak of the season — when Hickman blasted a Vern Law pitch into the parking area beyond left field with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

That was more than enough for Tracy Stallard, who had a shutout until Bill Virdon hit a two-run homer in the ninth. Stallard brought his record to 7-16 with a six-hitter.

White Sox Dump Yankees to Move Within One-Half Game of Orioles

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

While the Chicago White Sox are rushing rapidly toward the top of the American League, the New York Yankees are having trickle troubles.

The White Sox moved to within one-half game of first-place Baltimore Wednesday night, taking advantage of three Yankee errors for four unearned runs and a 4-2 victory. The Orioles lost to Boston 4-3 in 10 innings.

Pitcher Jim Bouton and third baseman Clete Boyer were the Yankees who had the trickles.

The malady first appeared in the third inning after the White Sox loaded the bases with two out. Pete Ward grounded to first baseman Joe Pepitone, who tossed the ball to Bouton at first. The throw was in time, but Bouton missed the base, allowing Ray Herbert to score.

His error upset Bouton so much that he threw the ball down in disgust. As it trickled near the first base coaching box, Jim Lndis, who had reached third on the first miscue, dashed home with the run that gave Chicago a 2-1 lead.

The trickles mushroomed into catastrophe again in the seventh inning when Chicago scored two runs, breaking a 2-2 deadlock.

With runners at first and second and none out, J. C. Martin bunted along the third base line. Bouton grabbed the ball, but his throw to third for the force was too late. But wait. Mike Hershberger slid past the base.

Boyer alertly pounced on the runner, tagging him for an apparent out. But wait again. The ball trickled out of Boyer's glove, and the White Sox had the bases loaded.

Bouton settled down briefly, striking out Gary Peters. Then, however, he walked Landis for one run, and Pete Mikkelsen replaced him. Don Buford ended the scoring with a sacrifice fly that scored Ron Hansen.

The loss kept the Yankees four games behind Baltimore. In other AL games, Detroit defeated Los Angeles 5-2, Minnesota downed Washington 3-1 and Cleveland outlasted Kansas City 6-4.

The Orioles also experienced difficulty with a trickling baseball. In their case it was a couple of bunts that rolled foul. They came off the bat of Boston rookie Tony Horton in the 10th inning with Carl Yastrzemski at first. After he failed to sacrifice, Horton slammed a double into the left field corner, scoring Yastrzemski with the winning run.

Baltimore sent the game into overtime on Jerry Adair's triple and John Orsino's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning. Orsino earlier had homered for the Orioles as did Boog Powell.

Detroit grabbed sole possession of fourth place behind Don Demeter and Norm Cash. Demeter's pinch single drove in the tie-breaking run against the Angels in the seventh inning while Cash added a two-run homer in the eighth. Jim Fregosi had tied the game 2-2 with a homer in the Angels' seventh.

Jim Kaat and Al Worthington pitched the Twins past the Senators. Kaat, 13-6, had a shutout until the ninth. Worthington replaced him after Don Leppert walked and Dick Phillips got his fourth hit, a single. Jim King singled in a run, but Worthington got the next two Senators.

Vic Davalillo drove in three runs and Joe Azcue two for the Indians. All of Davalillo's RBI came on a third-inning single with the bases loaded and two out. The hit broke a 2-2 tie, putting the Indians ahead to stay. Jim Gentile socked his 22nd homer for the Athletics in the fourth.

Barbara McIntire Scores Second Round Golf Victory

By JOE MCKNIGHT

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Two confident former winners insisted they are just playing steady golf as they charged into today's quarterfinals of the U.S. women's amateur golf tournament.

"I just played fairly steady," said Barbara McIntire, 1959 winner, of Colorado Springs, Colo., after defeating Mrs. Scott Probasco of Chattanooga, Tenn., in the second round of the match play tournament. "Everything has worked well up to now."

"I was just playing for par golf," three-time winner JoAnne Gunderson, Seattle, Wash., said of her 1 up defeat of Barbara White, Shreveport, La., in the second round. "That's what I aimed for.

"It was a real good matchup. We got a little sloppy on a couple of holes but it was nip and tuck all the way."

"I think I'm playing good," she added. "If I get beat it will be by someone who plays well."

"My chances are as good as anybody else," Miss McIntire said.

Mrs. Jason Weiss, of Indianapolis and a Curtis Cup player in 1956, upset Brigitte Varangot of Paris, France, British amateur champ, 1-up in the second round.

In another upset, Marcella Rose of Jefferson City, Mo., defeated Carol Sorenson, a high school golf teacher at Battle Creek, Mich., 3-2 in the second round. Miss Sorenson downed Judy Bell of Colorado Springs 5-3 earlier in the day while Miss Rose defeated Carla Glasgow of Whittier, Calif.

In the third round today, Miss Gunderson played Mrs. Robert Ihlanfeldt of Seattle. Wash., Mrs. Pete Dye of Indianapolis played Susan Gregory of Pine Bluff, Ark.; Miss McIntire faced Mrs. Weiss and Miss Rose was matched with Robbye King of Jefferson, City, Mo.

The semifinals will be played Friday and the 36-hole finals on Saturday.

Actor Bostock Meets Champion

SASKATOON (AP) — Frank Bostock, a partime movie actor from Scottsdale, Ariz., drew a featured role today in the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship, meeting defending champion Nick Weslocsk of Toronto in a key second round match.

Bostock advanced Wednesday by eliminating Robert Stimpson of Ottawa 4 and 3 while Weslock, protecting an ailing back by swinging easily, whipped Robert Esdale of Edmonton 7 and 6.

European Champ Fails To Make Olympic Team

LONDON (AP) — Bruce Tulloh, European 5,000-meter champion, failed to make the squad of 36 named Wednesday to represent Great Britain in track and field in the Tokyo Olympic.

Tulloh, who has suffered from a rash of injuries all year, failed to finish in two recent 5,000-meter races after recovering from measles.

Shortstop Commits First Error; Denver Wins, 3-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wide throw to first base ended Tacoma shortstop Gil Garrido's record-breaking stretch of error-free baseball as the Giants lost to Seattle 7-0 in their Pacific Coast League meeting Wednesday night.

Garrido's second-inning error was his first in 281 chances and 63 games since May 27, a league record.

In other PCL action, Dallas beat Arkansas 4-1, San Diego downed Portland 5-1, Indianapolis bested Salt Lake City 11-1, Denver blanked Oklahoma City 3-0, and Hawaii edged Spokane 2-1 in 14 innings.

Seattle's Wilbur Wood held Tacoma to two hits. He walked two and fanned five. The Rainiers took a 4-0 lead on three walks, a single and Tim Cullen's double in the first inning.

Dallas right-hander Lew Krausse held Arkansas to four hits and swatted a three-run homer in the second inning.

Paul Schal lined a single in the bottom of the 14th inning scoring pitcher Jack Spring from third base and giving Hawaii its victory over Spokane.

San Diego's victory over Portland regained for the Padres their 2½ game lead in the Western Division. Veteran Ray Rippelmeyer held the second-place Beavers to six hits in pitching his fourth straight victory.

The Indianapolis Indians banged out 17 hits at Salt Lake City. Indian pitcher Bob Howard held the Bees to five, allowing no more than one hit in any inning. Howard struck out six batters and walked none. Salt Lake lone run came in the sixth on a triple by pinch hitter Don Eaddy and an infield out.

Denver, Paducah Win In Pony League Meet

DARAMIE, Wyo. (AP)—Denver, Colo., and Paducah, Ky., won first round victories Wednesday night in the Central Division Pony League baseball playoffs.

Denver fought off a late Hamtramck, Mich., bid to preserve a 5-4 victory, and Paducah used the big bat of Steve Seltzer to down Glenview, Ill., 6-1.

Denver jumped to an early lead scoring once in the second and four times in the third inning. Randy Jacobsen's three-run double highlighted the uprising.

Denver pitchers Fred Burns and Steve Kaiser held Hamtramck scoreless for the first four innings, both pitching perfect ball. Hamtramck scored three times in the sixth inning on three singles, a double and one error.

Thursday's action pits Denver against Paducah in the winner's bracket and Hamtramck against Glenview in the afternoon losers bracket game.

Selter, 6-3, 190-pounds and 13 years old, put Paducah ahead 2-0 with a home run in the first inning. In the fifth inning he hit a towering 320-foot drive over the centerfield scoreboard for two more runs. Seltzer batted in his fifth run of the game with a double in the sixth inning.

New High Is Reported For Personal Income

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Personal income hit a new high in July — officially. And this leads many to wonder: Whose income rose?

Many persons reading the government report that personal incomes went up $1.5 billion to a record annual rate of $490.8 billion noted little, if any, change in their own income. Most families probably found the bills just as hard to meet in July as in June.

But the government deals in totals rather than in individual cases. And it says the totals went up. They didn't climb as fast as they were rising in the early months of 1964 but still got a bit higher on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The government always adjusts such figures to take account of the usual variations at different periods of the year. And in many lines incomes change markedly from season to season. Without seasonal adjustment the charts of many government statistics would have more of a roller-coaster look than the steady rise that most show now.

The greater part of the July gain appears due to the rise in the number of employed. It was the new incomes that boosted the total rather than any notable change in the individual take of those already on the payroll.

Others who are better off than awhile back also include those who have benefited from increased dividend payments by many corporations, and those who cashed in on the six months-rise in prices of many stocks.

The biggest share of the July rise in income totals was in the wages and salaries division. This went up, at an annual rate of $1.2 billion to a total of $331.3 billion. Factory payrolls alone increased $200 million in July, putting the annual rate at $102.9 billion.

The Department of Commerce says that farm income slipped by $200 million in July to an annual rate of $17 billion.

Since personal incomes are the chief ingredient in the nation's economic mix, the prospects are good for a tasty dish this autumn — and hopefully, or at least the first part of 1965.

CIG Revenue Has Increased in '64 First Half

Colorado Interstate Gas Company's operating revenues for the first six months of 1964 showed an increase over these for the first half of 1963, according to the Company's interim report issued today.

Operating revenues for the first six months of 1964 totaled $66,752,376, an increase of $2,689,510 over the same period in 1963. For the 12 months ended June 30, 1964, operating revenues were $128,323,529, an increase of $4,377,157 for the 12 months ended June 30, 1963.

"These increases are representative of the general improvements in all areas of the Company's operations other than marketing of refined products," CIG President W. E. Mueller said.

"Gasoline price wars this year in the Company's midcontinent market area have been the most severe in history. The result of this chaotic situation is reflected in consolidated net income."

For the first half of 1964, consolidated net income was $4,949,624, or $1.08 per common share after provision for preferred dividends, as compared with $5,120,478 or $1.13 per common share for the same period last year. For the 12-month periods ended June 30, 1964 and June 30, 1963, consolidated net income was $9,728,149 and $10,044,868 respectively.

Customer load growth and colder weather resulted in an increase of 20 billion cubic feet in gas sales during the first six months of 1964 to a total of 171 billion cubic feet, Mueller said.

Unique is the fast that you step down the stirway to the penthouse shop, to find new fall fashions for back to campus and back to career. In Perkins-Shearer's new penthouse fashions, and "Plez-zur" sportswear you will find dresses for the junior figure, and the junior petite. Car coats and coats for the junior and junior petite are also a new feature of this shop. There is also a wide selection of sportswear, pants, skirts, sweaters, blouses, and shirts, from the finest and best known brands of the nation. With Massey-Ferguson he has held the positions of business management specialist, Central Regional Office, Kansas City, Kan.; retail store operations manager for the company-owned retail stores in the United States and, most recently sales manager, United States. In the latter capacity he was responsible for all agricultural product sales and credit in the U.S. market.

In his new capacity with Federal Services, Franklin will be responsible for all the automobile sales finance business of the company. Sales finance offices are presently located in eight states, the District of Columbia, Germany, France, Italy Spain, Okinawa and the Bahamas.

Here in Colorado Springs the Federal Services office is located at 18 W. Colorado Ave.

Chamber Will Sponsor Museum Display Here

The Chamber of Commerce reports that in co-operation with the Henry Ford Museum of Dearborn, Michigan, the retail merchants committee will sponsor a 6-day appearance of an elaborate display housed in two converted railway express cars.

The cars will arrive on Sept. 23 through 28.

The display consists of retail store fronts and shop windows of early American shops on one side of the center isle and their modern counterparts on the other.

Bond Group Punches Hole In Taxpayers Safeguard

By SAM CAMPBELL

Large chain banks, certain large law firms, certain large engineering firms, and public relations agencies of a specialist character comprise the vested interests that palm off bonded indebtedness on the unsuspecting multitude.

Of course, there is nothing wrong per se in a vested interest if that interest is properly vested in a proper objective. However, to induce a part of the citizenry to impose a debt upon individuals who do not want the debt is both an economic error and a moral wrong.

Consent Lacking

It is a moral wrong because it lays a claim upon private property without the owner's consent. It is economic error because it lays a tax that subtracts from the individual's incentive to own and to produce.

In addition to the perennial, persistent and continuing vested interest in municipal debt, that operates on a state - wide and national level, there is also a local vested interest.

The local interest is temporary, but in any given community the same names seem to crop up again and again. Such interest can be subtle and difficult to trace.

I recall one incident in which the supervisors desired to go in debt in order to buy land for a county hospital when the county already had land at an even more convenient location. Furthermore, they had important support. Why?

Investigation showed construction of the hospital at the new site would result in extension of a sewerage line past the country club. Building of that sewerage line at the taxpayer's expense for the privilege of the few was the actual objective of that particular bond issue.

Powerful Force

Taken together, the temporary and the permanent vested interest comprise an almost irresistible force that burdens the thrifty, the low - income groups, particularly the aged, the invalided, and the widowed.

An evidence of the power of such combines occurred most recently in California. In 1949, Californians enacted a constitutional amendment that tightened restrictions on municipal bonds.

The amendment provided that no governmental unit could incur debt exceeding one year's revenues without assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors.

The amendment (section 18 of article 11) said specifically "any indebtedness or liability" could not be incurred "in any manner or for any purpose" unless the vote were taken. The terms, "indebtedness" and "liability" referred to sums exceeding one year's revenue.

That language seems perfectly clear and comprehensive. It was so clear and so comprehensive it threatened plans of at least a portion of California's billion - dollar municipal bond community.

So the attorneys went to work to burrow a hole through this safeguard. They rigged up a non - profit - corporation type of thing which assumes paper responsibility for the debt, but which ties the actual obligation for the payment of that debt onto taxpayer's property.

This is the so - called lease-purchase arrangement that allows politicans to indebt their constituents without so much as a ceremonial vote.

How in the world the bond-community lawyers persuaded the court to reason that a lease-purchase agreement secured by the taxpayer's property is not a liability shakes confidence in the English language.

Two-Car Mishap Injures Four

A two-car accident at Cimarron Street and Nevada Avenue Wednesday night resulted in injuries to four persons and an estimated $1,000 in damages.

The driver of one car, Keith D. Andrews, 36, McDonald, Kan., was ticketed for following too closely and treated at St. Francis Hospital for a head laceration.

Three passengers in the second car were slightly injured. All were treated at St. Francis Hospital. They were Ann McMahon, 58, Lindenhurst, Ill.; Lorraine McMahon, 32, Chicago; and Michael C. McMahon, 7, also of Chicago.

The driver, Raymond F. McMahon, 33, Chicago, was not injured.

The McMahon vehicle was traveling south in the 400 block of S. Nevada when it was struck on the rear by the Andrews car, police said.

Man Reports Assault To Sheriff's Office

Leroy Babcock, 16 Brookside St. was assaulted by an unkown man at his home, the sheriff's office reported this morning.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Eldon McCune and Bob Snuggs, Babcock drove into his back yard Wednesday night and after he got out of the vehicle and started towards his door he was attacked.

Thieves Break Fuel Tank Caps, Take Gas

Ray Seese, 2412 Byers Ave., told the sheriff's office Wednesday that for the past five nights someone has broken off the locked gas caps of his Jeep and automobile and stolen the gas.

He also added that there is a lot of drag racing on his street late at night and that the racers make so much noise he is unable to sleep.

Steel Market Is Seething, Iron Age Reports

On the surface, the market is deceptively placid. Order rates are far from sensational and some products are soft. Seasonal declines can be expected to offset upturns in other products.

But the national metalworking weekly says that under the placid surface, currents are building up that could create a demand strong enough to tax the steel industry's capacity.

Iron Age says this can happen this fall:

Steel users are going to build up about half a million tons of inventory in the fourth quarter. This buildup will come at a time when chew-up rates will be testing the mills.

The fourth quarter will start with the lowest ratio of inventories to consumption since early spring — about 60 days. A safe level, taking into account expected rates of steel use, should be at least 70 days, Iron Age says.

The important auto companies are down by one million tons from last year. They have less than 30 days of steel stocks on hand. If the auto industry should attempt a buildup at the time of peak consumption, the market for cold-rolled sheets and galvanized would go out of sight, Iron Age says.

Then, there is the factor of steel labor negotiations in 1965. The contract cannot be terminated before May 31 and a 120-day notification is required.

When the present contract was signed, it was assumed that the 120-day cushion would leave ample time for any strike hedging. But with delivery promises extending into months, not days or weeks, some users are already making plans to build up steel stocks.

This points out that the effectiveness of the four-month cushion is only relative. In an easy market, it's ample; in a tight market, it's scarcely adequate to avoid long-range inventory building.

Iron Age says total shipments of steel in October, including imports, could be the largest in a year and a half.

Iron Age says that, while it isn't generally conceded, mills have been producing close to capacity of their efficient facilities. This takes into account the summer months.

In spite of a seasonal lull in demand, shutdowns for repair and maintenace have been compounded by labor shortages caused by the extended vacations provided in the labor contract. Mills have been hard-pressed to meet demand for many products this summer.

This is underscored by the fact that lead times and backlogs have actually lengthened during the seasonal lull. Steel inventories have not varied more than 70,000 tons from the average for the past 10 months.

Iron Age says the mills undoubtedly can meet almost any emergency. But they will certainly face decisions on whether to activate old, high-cost facilities, whether to bring on and train new crews, and other problems that have not been faced since the boom years of the 1950's.

Journal Reports Aircraft Merger May Be Near

A merger of Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., a large diversified builder of aircraft and space systems, and Kaman Aircraft Corp., a leading independent builder of large helicopters, may develop as the result of a joint project for the army, according to a recent report in the Wall Street Journal.

The report states that: A bidders' conference is being held in Washington to hear company ideas on the armed helicopter known as AAFSS, for advanced aerial fire support system. The conference, which began yesterday and continues today, deals with the contract definition phase of the program. A development phase usually ensues, and then procurement.

The armed helicopter would have more speed and range than any helicopter currently in the Army inventory, and presumably would be used in limited warfare, as in Southeast Asia.

Grumman, when asked about industry reports that a merger might be in the offing, issued the following terse statement: "Grumman and Kaman are both attending the AAFSS bidders' conference. After the bidders' conference we will then determine the best course of action."

While Grumman declined to amplify this statement, it is known that the company for years has been closely watching the rotary wing (helicopter) field, although it hasn't had any such capability of its own.

Kaman has built a number of types of helicopters for the armed services. In 1963 it had sales of $64,297,000, down from $75,279,000 in 1962. Kaman had a net loss of $1,447,000 in 1963 following a long series of profitable years, but the company has returned to black figures this year. Total assets are about $32 million and there are about 507,800 common shares outstanding.

Grumman's sales were $468,175,000 last year, and net was $7,607,962, or $3.40 a share on the 2,233,000 common shares outstanding. Both sales and net are up this year over 1963 to date.

Rio Grande Freight Schedule Speeded Up

A report appearing in the August "Green Light," a Rio Grande Railroad publication, indicates that the company has speeded up its freight service.

The report states that:

Freight train schedules on the Rio Grande are becoming more like passenger train schedules. Recent introduction of an expedited frieght service, both eastbound and westbound, is making oldtimers shake their heads and swallow such phrases as, "It can't be done."

The new, symbol freight train, the FMS—Forwarder Merchandise Special—was introduced to Rio Grande shippers to replace the familiar ACD. Scheduled specifically for movement of hot-shot merchandise from various freight forwarders from midwest origins, the FMS departs North Yard at Denver at 4:30 a.m. four days weekly, arriving at Roper Yard in Salt Lake City at 5:40 p.m. and at Ogden at 6:50 p.m. the same day, an elapsed time of 13 hours and 10 minutes to Salt Lake and 14 hours and 20 minutes to Ogden. This compares with a 15 hour and 10 minute schedule of the Prospector from Denver to Salt Lake City.

The Rio Grande link is part of a transcontinental schedule in connection with the Burlington on the east and the Western Pacific and Southern Pacific on the west that provides for third evening arrivals in the San Francisco Bay area of merchandise from Chicago. This allows fourth-morning deliveries some 2,000 miles from origin.

Additionally, eastbound schedules have been similarly speeded up with introduction of the MWM — Midwest Manifest — a symbol freight train designed to reduce transit time from West Coast origins to consumer centers in the populous midwestern United States. This train replaces the WPF symbol train.

Operated from a direct connection with the Western Pacific, the MWM is scheduled from Roper Yard at 6 p.m., arriving North Yard at 9 a.m. and Pueblo at 11 a.m. the next day, with over-the-road elapsed times of 15 and 17 hours, respectively.

Keating May Oppose Bobby For Senate

By JOHN MORGANTHALER

NEW YORK (AP) — Will Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., run for re-election?

Will Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy seek the Democratic nomination to oppose him?

Will Clare Boothe Luce challenge them on the Conservative party ticket?

After weeks of speculation, some answers may be around the corner.

Keating scheduled a morning news conference today and a usually reliable source in Washington said Keating will announce for a second term.

The question has been in the air since the Republican National Convention. Keating said he wouldn't support the GOP presidential nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater, unless Goldwater changed his views on civil rights and extremism.

Kennedy flew from Washington to New York Monday and had another talk with Mayor Robert F. Wagner, the state's leading Democrat. Neither man would talk to reporters about it.

The New York Times said authoritative sources stated that Wagner promised to support Kennedy for the senatorial nomination.

An aide to Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, strongest of the announced Democratic aspirants, challenged the Times report, and said he had been assured that Wagner had not made up his mind.

A Wagner aide said the mayor would issue a statement "in a few days."

Kennedy has said he won't run without Wagner's approval. Wagner has said that Kennedy's early support came from "political bosses" and he wants to be sure that his fight against bossism will continue.

J. Daniel Mahoney, chairman of the New York Conservative party, said Mrs. Luce — author, former ambassador and former congresswomen from Connecticut — will decide whether to enter the race on the Conservative ticket when she learns whether Keating will support Goldwater.

Mahoney said he didn't believe Mrs. Luce's candidacy would necessarily help the Democrats.

"A lot of Democrats disappointed in Kennedy would come over to our side," Mahoney said.

There were reports that a group of reform Democrats from New York City, anxious to stop Kennedy, had unsuccessfully urged Wagner to run for the Senate himself.

Rep. Stratton, who has been campaigning for the Senate nomination for months, has promised a floor fight against Kennedy, and a court challenge of the attorney general's voting address in Massachusetts.

The Democrats will name their candidate at a state convention on Sept. 1.

The Republican convention, originally set for the same date, has been moved up to Aug. 31 to get better publicity.

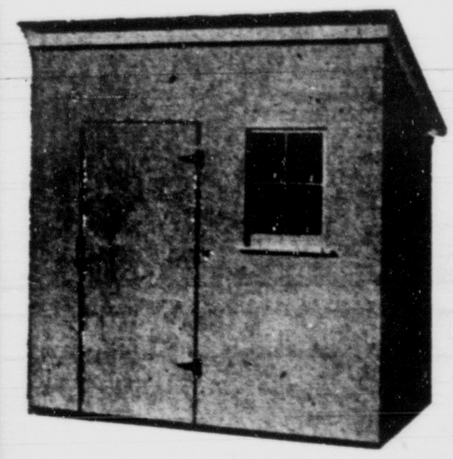

Easier Divorce Seen By Psychiatrist

LONDON (AP) — A Los Angeles psychiatrist says the increasing U.S. divorce rate may be caused by easier divorce procedures, rather than a rise in unhappy marriages.

Prof. Norman Brill told the first international congress of social psychiatry, that many people used poor excuses when seeking divorce.

He claimed that interfering mothers-in-law, money problems, nagging, drinking and sexual incompatibility were danger signals, but not the basic causes of divorce. He said immaturity at the time of marriage played a big role.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

Karen Million and Elaine Smith called at the Roy Chismans' home Tuesday, Aug. 11. Karen is entertaining at a miscellaneous shower at the Hanover Church basement Thursday for Sharon Fossinger and Bobby Day who will be married Sept. 1.

Services were held in the Hanover Church Sunday evening with Doyle Huffmaster speaking and giving the devotionals.

Mrs. Robertson and her grandson called on Mrs. Ethel Milne one afternoon last week. The grandson spent several days with the Robertsons and they took him to Colorado Springs Sunday. The Fillmore children from north of Boone have been taking turns staying with their grandparents.

School time is drawing close and vacation time is getting short for the children.

The Roy Chismans were surprised Sunday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Chase Chisman, Roberta and Rosetta, drove in. They had been with two other neighbor families on an outing near Mora, N. M., and as they were part way to Colorado, wanted to drive up for a little visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman, Brenda and Sheryl, and Grace Finch were visiting at the Chismans. The Charles Chismans of Colorado Springs and Robert Chisman of Pueblo arrived later, so they and Myra Woods joined the rest to have a short visit with the Chismans. Also Charles Chisman showed his colored slides of the World's Fair. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chisman and family had just arrived home from a three-day trip to Wyoming to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reble, David and Mark of Colorado Springs attended church and had dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reble, Virginia and Timmy. The Paul Chismans also attended church.

Mr. and Mrs. Nickles, Mr. and Mrs. Wasson and families of Dodge City have been visiting with the Bill Bakers the past week. Sevilla Baker and one of her little cousins sang "In the Garden" Sunday morning at church.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dickson and five children of Lawton, Okla., arrived Aug. 13 for a week's visit with the Bennie Dicksons. On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Allen Dickson and family of Morrison arrived to stay with the Dicksons. On Saturday they all visited with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dickson of Colorado Springs. Debra Dickson received an injury the past week when she went through a glass door thinking it was open. Several stiches had to be taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Dickson also stayed over the weekend with Ruth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perriman of Fountain.

One of Rosa Baker's sisters, of Dodge City, and her family visited at the Bakers, and attended church Sunday morning.

Elaine Smith of California called on many relations and friends the past week. She will spend this week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Forrest DeGroot and Lynne of Howard, and returns to California by jet.

More than 150 persons attended the Drennan Community homecoming Aug. 9, including Mr. and Mrs. Dave Million and Dwight, and Elaine Smith.

Congratulations are extended to Ardith Bruce of Fountain who seems to be top barrel racer in Colorado.

Treasurer of U.S. Breaks Her Knee

The former Pennsylvania congresswoman, widow of Rep. William Thomas Granahan, D-Pa., was reported to be in satisfactory condition.

Gould Mansion Will Become New Museum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a tax settlement by which the government would acquire the Tarrytown, N.Y. mansion of railroad magnate Jay Gould and open it to the public.

It would also save the estate of Gould's daughter, Anna, Duchess de Talleyrand, about $700,000. She died in Paris in 1961.

Under the settlement the house would be transferred to the National Trust and be deductible as a charitable contribution from the estate valued at $1.3 million.

The legislation, sponsored by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., as an amendment to a minor tax bill, was returned to the House for consideration of the changes.

HOME BECOMES MONUMENT

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The late President Woodrow Wilson's ancestral home in northern Ireland will be preserved as a national monument, it was announced Wednesday.

Satellites to Keep Watch on A-Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — With four U.S. sentry satellites orbiting the earth it is no longer possible for a nuclear explosion in space to go undetected, a Defense Department expert reports.

"If the Russians fired anything we would know about it," Dr. R. L. Sproull, director of the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency, told a National Space Club luncheon Tuesday.

The two U.S. satellites launched a month ago 65,000 miles above the earth and two similar satellites put into orbit last October are capable of detecting nuclear detonation more than 200 million miles out in space.

Scientist Named To Seek Wyoming Governor's Post

By BOB LEERIGHT

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — John Wold, 47, a boyish-looking Casper oil geologist, was nominated Tuesday by Wyoming Republicans to oppose Democratic Sen. Gale McGee in the November general election.

McGee easily defeated I. W. Kinney, former chemist with the U.S. Bureau of Mines laboratory at Laramie, in the Democratic contest.

Kinney had tried to withdraw from the race, but ballots were already printed.

Wold and Sailors both campaigned primarily against McGee and the Johnson administration, criticizing McGee for what they termed a liberal voting record.

William Henry Harrison, Republican incumbent, and Teno Roncalio won nominations from Wyoming's lone seat in Congress. Harrison, unopposed in his bid for a fifth term in Congress, rolled up a vote of 40,340 on the basis of returns from 606 precincts.

Roncalio, the son of an immigrant Italian coal miner, defeated three opponents for the Democratic nomination.

Television Work Nets $100,000 For Bernardi

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is a lot more to television than meets the eye. In the case of character actor Herschel Bernardi it adds up to an annual income of areund $100,000.

Bernardi, who has been the guest star in television series ranging from "Bonanza" to "Dr. Kildare," is particularly remembered for his portrait of the weary, cynical and soft-hearted Lieut. Jacoby of 114 "Peter Gunn" adventures.

His semi-secret career a profitable one, started about eight years ago when he learned there was a demand for "character voices" to be used in television commercials.

"I made a tape recording of some material I'd developed for a comedy routine that used 22 different voices," he recalled. "Then I jumped on my motor scooter and went from agency to agency selling myself."

The "gag voices," as Bernardi calls them, started a whole new sideline. His face never is used. He has produced the voices of a rejected tuna, a service station, a candy bar, a sick automobile and a squirrel, among others.

"This turned into my freedom crusade," said Bernardi. "It made me free to do the things I really wanted to do as an actor."

But after a time, fashions in commercials started to change — gag voices, even 22 of them, were no longer in such great demand. Bernardi's voice was caught in that deadly theatrical trap: type-casting.

"I invested about $300 in another tape, still a comedy sketch, and did a lot of other voices with a 'soft sex sell,' the new big thing," he said.

That worked, too. "It's a joy to go to the mailbox and see it stuffed with those lovely residual checks."

Meanwhile he has been working steadily in featured movie roles, many television assignments and has even found time for summer stock.

Raymond Burr's infected tooth, now removed, and swollen jaw are causing the "Perry Mason" producers almost as much discomfort as he is experiencing. To keep from falling too far behind schedule by shutting down production for another week, they have signed Mike Connors one time hero of "Tightrope," to replace him in one program.

Burr's absence will be explained as an emergency business trip to Europe.

Delaware Demos Open Convention For Nomination

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Delaware Democrats open their state convention today, and Gov. Elbert N. Carvel is expected to be nominated for the U.S. Senate.

Chief Justice Charles L. Terry of the Delaware Supreme Court appears to be the leading candidate for nomination to the post to be vacated by Carvel. He is not an announced candidate, but has said he would consider it his duty to run if he were drafted, and his supporters have been attempting to mount such a draft.

Opposing Terry in State Auditor Ernest E. Killen, who received a boost Tuesday when Dover businessman Robert Reed withdrew and threw his support to Killen.

Killen supporters made a concerted bid yesterday for support in the 60-member Kent County delegation. Killen said "We have a majority, but it's slim."

The leaders of Terry forces in Kent County Chairman Vernon B. Derrickson, said however that at least 38 delegates will vote for Terry.

The State chairman, Secretary of State Elisha C. Dukes, also disagreed with Killen's statement that a majority of the Kent delegation would vote for the auditor.

Other nominations to be filed are those for U.S. representative, lieutenant governor, treasurer and state auditor.

Statisticians at Keep America Beautiful figures it cost $300 million last year to clean litter from streets in urban communities.

Respect for Law Is Demanded by U.S. President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying it is time to speak frankly on racial troubles, President Johnson has declared the nation's fate will not be decided "by street rioters and night raiders."

"We demand — and we are going to have — respect for law and order in this land," Johnson said Tuesday in addressing members of the Citizens Committee for Community Relations that will help implement the new Civil Rights Act.

Using the occasion to lecture the country on the racial issue, Johnson spoke sharply about speculation on the effects of the "white backlash" in the forthcoming election.

He said it is time to "cease this cynical guessing of who will be helped — who will be hurt — by disorders and disobedience and disrespect for the decency of our society.

"All will be hurt — none will be helped — if responsible citizens sit on the sidelines regarding the stability of our society as a spectator sport."

The question facing the nation, he said, is not how whites or Negroes will vote in November, "the question is how we shall work together and succeed together for the next hundred Novembers to come."

Americans, he said, can master the racial problem "or we can leave it to master us" and the question all citizens must ask themselves is "are we prepared to give up our prosperity and peace and let our prejudices make paupers of us all?"

"Are we of this generation to be remembered for allowing America's progress to run aground on the shoals of race?"

A nation of courage, compassion and common sense, Johnson added, "must not and will not allow its greatness to be degraded by those who work only for its division."

Johnson said the nation has chosen to meet the problem "by the answer of law" and explained that the Civil Rights Act does not control human relations.

It says simply, he added, "that voting booths and classrooms, public parks and public places, and programs supported by public funds shall be open to the public — all the public — on an equal basis."

The President returned to the subject of racial problems later in the day when he spoke to some 90 U.S. marshals, in town for a conference, gathered on the White House lawn.

He reminded the marshals "that lawlessness is found in many places and many forms" and added "sophisticated syndicates which systematically evade the law are no more tolerable to a law-abiding society than spontaneous street demonstrations which degenerate into disregard for the law."

Rocket Shielding Gets Test in Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space scientists expect to obtain a wealth of information about shielding manned spacecraft from the 11-minute space ride a payload of special shielding materials took Tuesday.

The early morning test from Wallops Island, Va., was quickly labeled a success. In fact a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space administration said analysis would take a considerable amount of time because of the large amount of data obtained.

Included is information normally lost during the "radio blackout" of a re-entering spacecraft.

The special shielding materials sent aloft from Wallops are of the kind designed to protect manned spacecraft from intense heat on reentering the earth's atmosphere.

The payload reached an altitude of 130 miles, then was accelerated downward by the firing of the Scout rocket's two upper stages and an extra spacecraft motor.

Cyprus Mediator's Condition Is Worse

GENEVA (AP) — A further deterioration in the condition of Cyprus mediator Sakari S. Tuomioja was reported today by U.N. officials.

A brief medical bulletin said Tuomioja had suffered pulmonary complications. The 52-year-old Finnish diplomat was stricken by a stroke Sunday.

U.N. officials awaited the return of Pier Spinelli, director of the U.N. Geneva office, from a special mission in Yemen. He will serve as a temporary replacement for Tuomioja.

Most Diversified Line Unveiled By Chrysler Corp.

NEW YORK (AP) — Chrysler Corp. unveiled the most diversified line in its history today as it became the first auto maker to show its 1965 models to the press.

Lynn A. Townsend, Chrysler president, told newsmen at the opening of a four-day preview in New York that Chrysler spent more than $300 million in developing its 130 models in nine series. This compared with $125 million spent in engineering and styling the 1964 line.

Townsend said much of Chrysler's emphasis had been focused on the "great central price range — between compacts in the Valiant and Dodge price-class on the one hand and so-called medium price cars like the Dodge custom 880 and Chrysler on the other."

"At Chrysler, we are going to avoid at all costs the mistake of becoming known as a company that builds cars for the very young or only for the middle-aged and successful. We build cars for everybody."

The 45-year-old Townsend, who took over as Chrysler president in July 1961 and directed its comeback in the auto market, said Chrysler's share of the auto market rose to 13.9 per cent in the first six months of this year, its highest point in four years.

He told the newsmen that more than eight million car sales, including imports, "the industry's sales could rise from the level of six million cars which was the average number of new car registrations in the late 1950s and right through 1961, to an annual average of about nine million registrations in the late 1960s and early 1970s."

"We at Chrysler see no reason to anticipate any dropping off for cars in the months ahead," he said.

In discussing Chrysler's 1965 line, Townsend said cars would be offered in nine price lines in 89 body styles and would give the firm better balanced representation in each segment of the auto market.

Keating Faces GOP Challenge

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Paul A. Fino, Bronx County Republican chairman, has challenged Sen. Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester for the GOP nomination to the U.S. Senate.

Fino says Keating, who formally announced for a second term Tuesday "cannot and should not" ask for renomination as long as he continues to withhold endorsement of presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

Until Fino declared his candidacy in a statement in Washington, Keating had been expected to win unanimous nomination at the Republican State Committee meeting here Aug. 31.

Fino's move raised the possibility of a floor fight at the meeting, but nomination of Keating appeared certain. Keating's announcement won favorable reaction among party leaders, including Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, State Chairman Fred A. Young and Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

Fino said "Keating's failure and refusal to support the national ticket is tantamount to bolting the Republican party."

Fino declined to estimate how many of the 300 members of the Republican State Committee might support him. He said, however, that he expected backing by two congressmen from Nassau County on Long Island — Frank J. Becker and Steven B. Derounian.

Later, Becker issued a statement in Washington saying he could not support Keating because of the senator's failure to endorse Goldwater and his vice presidential running mate, Rep. William E. Miller of New York.

Miller said Tuesday that Keating's announcement that he would campaign independently of the national ticket would not hurt it. Miller expressed confidence that he and Goldwater will win New York State's 43 electoral votes.

Miller, who spoke at an impromptu news conference, said Keating's decision might cost him some votes. He noted that the New York State Republican organization is supporting the national ticket.

Keating, in announcing his candidacy at a news conference, spoke of "deep differences" between him and Goldwater.

Questioned by reporters, however, Keating said: "I hope very much that I can support the national ticket. I've always left the door open and it's still open. I simply do not know what the future may hold."

A major threat to Keating's chances in the general election is the possibility that Clare Boothe Luce, a staunch Goldwater supporter, will run for the Senate as the Conservative party candidate.

Keating conceded that Mrs. Luce would draw votes that otherwise might go to him.

Mrs. Luce — playwright, former Republican congresswoman from Connecticut, ambassador to Italy during the Eisenhower administration and wife of publisher Henry R. Luce — said Tuesday she would have to give more consideration to the Conservative party invitation to run.

The Conservative party, in which there is big Goldwater support, will hold its nominating convention at Saratoga Springs on Aug. 31. The Party was formed in the state two years ago mostly by Republicans. In the 1962 election it ran candidates against Rockefeller and Javits, contending they were too liberal to be real Republicans.

Kennedy has said he would not run without "express approval" by New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner, the state's top Democrat.

OOD INVESTMENT

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—An investment of $2 or $3 a year in wood preservatives can extend the life of a house by as much as 40 years, according to Texas A&M forester Bill Smith.

Miller Demands Firmness in Red Dealings

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller, making his first campaign appearance in his home state since he won the Republican nomination for vice president, called for "firmness" in dealing with Communist countries.

He also criticized Democratic handling of foreign aid and overseas information policies.

He said no one in the United States can consider himself "wholly free" until the people of Poland and the other Communist satellites are free.

Miller said U.S. aid to the Communist government of Poland does not help the Polish people, and added: "Our aid should be to the people — it should be people-to-people, not to the government."

Also, he said, "you don't tear down communism by selling wheat to Russia on credit."

He said "the right of self-determination" is what Americans want for people in Poland and all other countries.

Persecution of Jews Denied by Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass today issued a denial that Soviet Jews are persecuted — and contrasted their life with that of Negroes in the United States.

Tass said claims by some U.S. senators about maltreatment of Soviet Jews were an attempt to divert world public opinion from America's own race troubles.

Some U.S. quarters, Tass declared, "have made it a habit to resort to insinuations against the U.S.S.R. every time there is an outburst of racist terror in the United States."

Comparing the lot of Jews in the Soviet Union with Negroes in the United States, Tass said:

"Are Jews attacked by police dogs as are the Negroes of Texas or Alabama? Are they being lynched?"

Tass said Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., "pretends to be terribly incensed by the following fact: Some people who are sentenced by Soviet courts from time to time for different crimes are Jews. This is what he means by 'persecution of Jews in Russia.'

"But this argument holds no water. It is common knowledge that criminals in any multinational state may be of different nationalities. They may include Jews, too. The same happens in the United States."

Tass admitted atheistic propaganda was conducted in the Soviet Union, but it said this was directed against religion in general.

Turks Return Force To NATO Control

PARIS (AP) — Turkish air units withdrawn from the Atlantic alliance defense system last week were returned today to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization command.

The Turkish units were withdrawn for use in carrying out sorties over Greek Cypriot positions on Cyprus.

A spokesman for Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe — SHAPE — said Turkey informed NATO early today it was returning the units to NATO control.

CHANGE OF RESIDENTS

PHELPS, Wis. (AP)—The secluded northern Wisconsin home of Al Capone's attorney, once the scene of extravagant gangland parties, now houses priests and novices of the Society of the Catholic Apostolate.

Homer Galpin, who was legal counsel to the late Chicago gangster, built the 14-room home in the early 1930s at a reported cost of $200,000. After it was sold by Galpin, it was operated as a resort just before the Society bought it.

The master bedroom has been converted into a chapel.

Vatican and Mexico May Seek New Ties

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Diplomatic sources speculated today that the visit of Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals may be a prelude to re-establishment of formal relations between Mexico and the Vatican.

The sources said there seemed to be more than just an "archaeological interest" in the Cardinal's 17-day visit. He arrived Monday night and received a tumultuous welcome from 300,000 persons.

Breakthrough In Leukemia Research Seen

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new cancer research development, which a Senate group says foreshadows a likely major breakthrough in pin-pointing the cause of the highly fatal leukemia of childhood, became known in detail today.

The Senate Appropriations Committee referred to the development in general terms in a report released Tuesday. Commenting on it and other scientific findings reported in recent "Effective methods of prevention and cure (of leukemia) seem distinct possibilities in the light of several observations, some old and some new."

Perhaps the key finding — made so recently that the scientists involved have not yet had their findings published in medical literature — is that virus-like particles found in the blood of some human victims of leukemia can apparently be made to grow in laboratory test tubes.

The development — climaxing three years of effort dating from the time when such particles were first found in leukemia patients — is a necessary prelude to pinning down whether the particles are truly viruses and whether, indeed, they are directly or indirectly involved in causing human leukemia.

It could also be a first step towards trying to develop a vaccine against leukemia.

Officials of the National Cancer Institute supplied the information when asked by a reporter what the Senate committee was referring to in its report.

NCI said: "The most profound and exciting research development reported to the committee in this year's (NCI appropriations) hearings is the likelihood of a major break-through in the identification of the causal agent for at least one form of cancer, the highly fatal leukemia of childhood . . . (There is) most authoritative testimony that a viral causation of leukemia is very close to full scientific proof."

The Senate committee gave its views in a report to the Senate recommending a $140,011,000 appropriation for NCI, plus $10 million more for the institute's special cancer-virus research programs.

In answering questions, the NCI officials made available to a reporter their latest summary statement of the status of leukemia treatment and research.

In one section, the summary declared that there is an intriguing long-range prospect in view, the practical prevention of leukemia.

It was in this section that reference was made to the facts that:

1. At least five different mouse-leukemia viruses are known today. But it was only after a long and tedious process that scientists learned to make them grow in quantity in the laboratory, for further research on them.

2. Virus-like particles can now be demonstrated in at least 30 per cent of human sufferers from the acute leukemia of childhood.

Publication of Clean Books Urged by Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI says clean books and healthy amusements are needed to counter juvenile "decadence."

Speaking to a group of Italian Boy Scouts at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, the Pope said much juvenile "decadence" existed because young people "have not had good companions, wise friends, patient and courageous teachers, serene amusements, clean books, a positive experience with life . . ."

Pediatrics Congress Is Joined by Soviets

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The Soviet Union was included at the last moment as a participant in an African-Asian pediatrics congress which opened here today.

The Soviet Union was originally listed as an observer. Its elevation to full membership in the congress was made in handwriting on the opening speech by Indonesian Dr. Sudjono Puspenegoro, president of the organizing committee.

Efforts have been made — notably by Communist China — to exclude the Soviets from all African-Asian conferences ostensibly on the grounds that the Soviet Union does not belong to Asia.

Six Persons Die As Auto Slams Across Barrier

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — A convertible shot over a median barrier near the Ohio gateway to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Tuesday night and slammed head on into a station wagon, killing six persons and seriously injuring three others.

A truck driver directing traffic around the wreckage was also injured when he was hit by a car.

The dead were: Jerry Tinsley, 18, of Cleveland, Ohio, driver of the convertible, and these passengers in Tinsley's car:

Parnell Lewis Days, 17; Morris D. Lanier, 18; Robert Carl Price, 18, all of Cleveland; and Isaac Reznick, 50, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who police said may have been a hitch-hiker. Another passenger, Kenneth Francis, 15, also of Cleveland, was listed in serious condition at Providence Hospital in Beaver Falls.

The eastbound Tinsley car was passing another on a portion of the turnpike that curves slightly upward about eight miles from the Ohio line. The car began fishtailing, went out of control and leaped the 30-inch high steel median without touching.

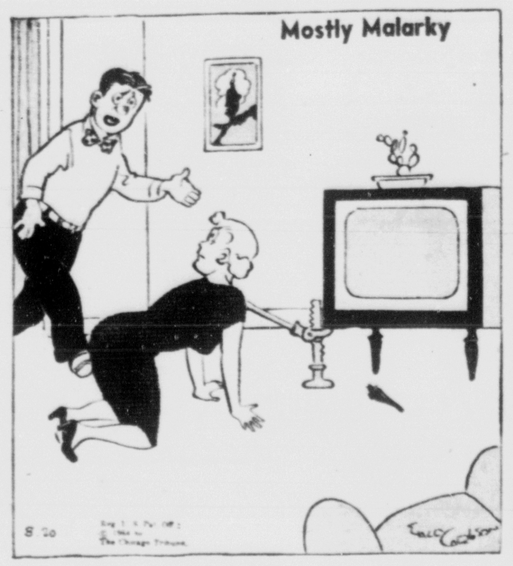

It slammed into the westbound Heinz car.

State police said they did not know the destination of either car. Families of the boys in Tinsley's car apparently didn't know either.

Francis's father, Willie, said in Cleveland that he had no idea his son was out of town.

"He was supposed to come home about 10 o'clock and help me close the drugstore where I work. When he didn't come I closed up alone and went home and waited for him," Francis said.

Larry Days, 14, brother of Parnell Days, said he saw his brother and the other boys at a roller skating rink Tuesday afternoon and they asked him to go for a ride, but he declined.

Debate Sought By Goldwater

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater challenged President Johnson today to debate foreign policy, and accused him of leading the kind of administration that has tempted aggressors "to plunge the world into war."

The Republican presidential nominee charged Johnson's televised announcement of retaliatory U.S. air strikes on North Viet Nam gave the Communists time in which they could have bolstered their defenses for the attack.

And he said a Republican would not have let U.S. policy in Southeast Asia "become so confused" that the Communists would risk torpedo boat attacks on U.S. destroyers.

Goldwater, in a speech prepared for delivery at the Illinois State Fair, said the Democrats want to shelve foreign policy as a campaign issue.

"I say that foreign policy is a major issue in this political campaign," he said. "I say it must be discussed. I only wish it could be debated by both the candidates for the presidency."

"And I am willing," the Arizona senator said. "But I can understand why this administration doesn't want to talk about it and why it's leader won't debate it."

"This nation has gone to war under the leaders of only one party," Goldwater said. "Only under administrations such as this one have we become so weak that aggressors have been tempted to plunge the world into war.

"Only under administrations such as this one have we closed our eyes to reality and had to open them to the sound of gunfire."

Goldwater said his political foes charged he is preoccupied by war "or eager to start one."

"There is no greater political lie," he said.

While in Washington Tuesday, Goldwater conferred with 13 college professors about major issues likely to come up in the campaign. Aides said the meeting was off the record — a closed session — and they could not provide details.

In another development Tuesday, Garry Kidwell, Goldwater's transportation officer, said newsmen who travel with the senator during the campaign will be required to post $3,660 advance deposits for seats on his plane. Deposits will be required, too, of reporters who travel with Rep. William E. Miller, the vice-presidential nominee, Kidwell said, but the amount has not been determined yet.

ROME (AP) — Italy today observed the 10th anniversary of the death of Alcide de Gasperi, the premier who guided Italy through its precarious postwar period.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — In all the conjecture about President Johnson's running mate, too little attention has been given to the attributes of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

We bring this up mostly because the President has been deliberately confusing everyone by saying nice things about so many fellow Democrats he considers worthy of consideration.

As a result, the ultra-nice things he has had to say in the past about Mansfield were in danger of being forgotten. It is our guess that Johnson's previous appraisal of Mansfield's stature holds good today. And if so, then the Senator from Montana must be considered as a definite Vice Presidential possibility.

But let Lyndon Johnson's own words, delivered on March 16, 1959, speak for themselves.

"Those of us who were privileged to serve with Mike Mansfield in the House of Representatives and who have served with him in the Senate, know there is no greater patriot in this country than Mike Mansfield. He is a kind man. He is a fair man. He can be aggressive as a tiger and as mild and meek as a mother."

Mike Mansfield never loses his head or his heart, and he has the heels to carry into effect the program that constitutes the greatest good for the greatest number.

"Mike Mansfield did not have the benefit of a formal education. He came from humble surroundings. He went down into the bowels of the earth and worked in the mines, and he worked as a day laborer. He reflects his early contacts in his judgments on public questions.

"He loves the people—spelled 'P-E-E-P-U-L' — and he always votes for them. He wears no man's collar. He is a rugged, independent, individual thinker.

"Mr. President, if I had more than three minutes at my disposal, I should like to say some other things about Mike Mansfield. But I am going to sum all of it up by saying that, although Mrs. Johnson and I have never had a boy, if we had a boy and if he grew to manhood, we would like to have him become the kind of man Mike Mansfield is."

LBJ has had no reason to change that opinion of Mansfield. The latter was his chosen successor as Senate leader. So it is a little difficult to believe the planted reports that the President's "personal choice" for the Vice Presidential nomination as of this time is Sen. Eugene McCarthy (Minn.). It is hard to believe this for, while the President has said many nice things about McCarthy, none has the emotional thrust of his appraisal of Mansfield.

A little levity should be permissible in this Vice Presidential guessing game anyway, if for no other reason than that the game has been getting a little dull and repetitious.

MONTANAN A DARK HORSE TO WATCH

One day McCarthy is in the lead, because he is a Catholic, personable and was for Lyndon in 1960 and not JFK. The next day Sen. Hubert Humphrey (Minn.) has the edge because he is the more experienced legislator and more acceptable to the Kennedy faction of the party.

But, seriously, Mansfield is a definite dark horse and must be reckoned with.

Mansfield is a Catholic, like McCarthy, but his selection would be far less controversial than that of the junior Senator from Minnesota. Should McCarthy be chosen instead of Humphrey, a Protestant from the same state, the impression would be left that it was purely on religious grounds. Certainly the record shows that Humphrey is far more experienced than McCarthy. And, therefore, he meets more concisely LBJ's stated requirement of a running mate fully qualified to succeed to the White House if fate so decrees.

Mansfield definitely comes closer to meeting the President's criteria all along the line than even Humphrey. He would work more in harmony with Lyndon, and there would be distinct political advantages. Not only is he a Catholic and a native of New York, but he comes from Montana, a state in the region where Barry Goldwater is considered strongest.

HUMPHREY THE SENATE PROD BEHIND MANSFIELD

Moreover, one of the reasons why the President is supposed to hesitate about taking Humphrey is that he needs Humphrey as a Senate leader. There is little argument that as Senate party whip Humphrey has been the live-wire activist behind the somewhat benign and definitely gentle leadership supplied by Mansfield.

Much more would have been heard about Mansfield and the Vice Presidency if he had taken the same active interest this summer in seeking it that Humphrey and McCarthy have. But this would be contrary to his philosophical nature.

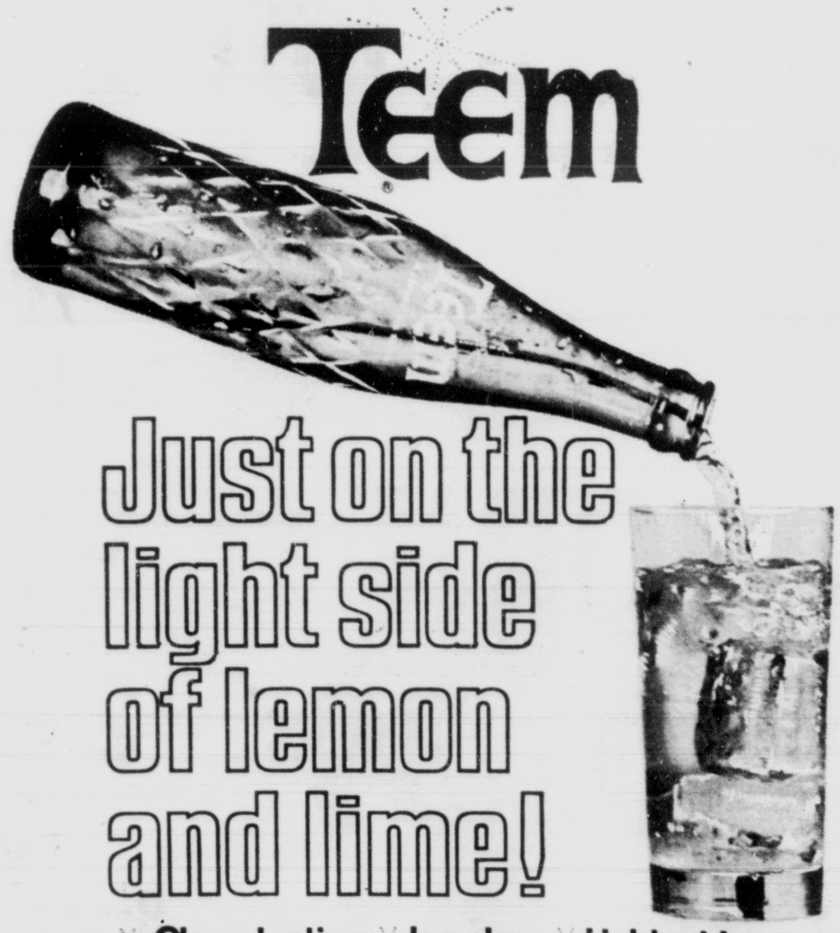

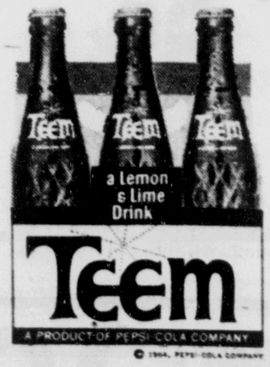

On the Meet the Press television show last Sunday Mansfield made it doubly clear that the job would certainly have to seek him, meaning he was most happy to stay in the Senate if the voters of Montana so decided in November when he is up for reelection.

Barry's Son Would Not Accept Federal Post

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Barry Goldwater Jr. says there'll be no government job for him if his father is elected president.

"I would have too much self-pride" to accept, the 26-year-old son of the Republican candidate told newsmen. "I want to make it on my own."

Two Bank Robbers Lose Every Penny

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two pistol-waving young men wearing cowboy hats and dark glasses made off with $40,000 Tuesday from a bank in Westbury Square, but lost every penny of it.

The men apparently got jittery when a teller at the Gulf Coast National Bank followed their getaway car. They abandoned the car, and moments later stashed the money in a garage as they fled between houses and over backyard fences.

The money was turned over to police within 15 minutes after the robbery occurred. The holdup men remain at large.

Dillon Still Regards Himself Republican

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon still regards himself as a Republican even though he appears to be working for the election of President Johnson.

Dillon gave a glowing report Tuesday to the Democratic party platform committee on how the economy has fared under four years of Democratic administration.

In answer to a question, a spokesman for Dillon said the secretary "still regards himself as a liberal Republican. He worked like the devil to get Eisenhower elected over Taft. I suppose if he had been a Taft man, he would be for Goldwater now."

Hoffa's Legal Expenses to Be Discussed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Teamsters Union Executive Board and Union President James R. Hoffa meet today for what could be a showdown on who pays Hoffa's legal expenses.

A group of Philadelphia Teamsters filed suit in U.S. District Court at Washington seeking to make the entire 15-member executive board account for and repay an estimated $3 million spent to defend Hoffa.

Hoffa agreed several weeks ago to stop using union money to pay his attorneys. Since then, he has been convicted in Chicago of conspiring to defraud the union's pension funds in a $20-million loan scheme.

He was sentenced to four concurrent terms of five years. He also has been convicted of attempted jury tampering charges in Chattanooga, Tenn., where he was given an eight-year sentence.

Hoffa has denied there is a move afoot to oust him as Teamsters president. "I don't hear of any problems except what I read in the papers," he said.

Harold J. Gibbons of St. Louis, Teamsters vice president who resigned last winter, is in Miami Beach for the executive board meeting and has been mentioned as a replacement for Hoffa.

Gibbons commented: "There's no vacancy so how could I be a candidate for one?"

A move to get rid of Hoffa needs 10 of the 15 votes. Hoffa could appeal an executive board decision to the membership.

Boost in Personal Income Is Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income in July rose $1.5 billion over June's rate, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said Tuesday.

The rise, due to higher employment and wages, was somewhat below the average gain for the past 12 months. However, the seasonally adjusted annual rate of $490.8 billion hit a new peak.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Use of Highways - Right or Privilege

Attorney John Young has raised a most interesting and valid point respecting the difference of meaning between a privilege and a right.

In a series of legal actions, which he has conducted, the question of the right to make use of public highways, as opposed to the idea that making use of these facilities is a state-granted privilege, is one of the major areas of contention.

Mr. Young's position, as we understand it, is identical to our own. He contends that since the taxpayers pay for the highways they have a right to use them. Rights, as he sees it, derive from the nature of man as it is. Thus, the public highways, although owned by the state, are paid for by the taxpayers. Therefore, the state has no valid power to deprive a man of his right to use these facilities.

What has happened, of course, is this. Through the years, the state has imposed a licensing procedure upon drivers. In order to regulate those who drive on highways for which they themselves have paid, the state examines drivers and issues licenses to those it approves.

Mr. Young, so far as we know, does not object primarily to the regulation of the use of the highways. What he does object to is the practice, recently invoked, of naming the use of the highways a privilege bestowed upon the people by the state.

If you find yourself about to be examined by a state representative in connection with a driver's license, you will note that all published literature refers to driving on the highway as a privilege that can be revoked by the state. Mr. Young contends that this procedure is in violation of the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights.

We believe he is correct.

To some degree, highways are paid for out of gasoline taxes. However, in many instances, additional funds are obtained through other taxing procedures. This means that certain taxpayers, the buyers of gasoline, pay a portion of the cost of highways. It also means that all taxpayers, regardless of the kinds of taxes they pay, help to pay for the highways.

It has been held, in the question of integration and segregation, that since Negroes pay taxes in support of schools, Negroes have a RIGHT to attend a school their funds have helped to provide. This argument is valid. It is wrongful to compel a person to pay for a good or a service which he may not use.

For the government to behave in a moral fashion, it can only do two things. It can refuse to collect taxes from the man who is banned from the use of either schools or highways. Or it can state clearly that taxpayers all have rights to the things their funds provide.

In racial matters the decision has been correct. In matters respecting the use of highways, the practice has been to the contrary. The government is claiming that no one has a right to use the highways unless the state extends them the privilege through the licensing procedure.

If the Declaration and the Bill of Rights are to stand, then we are about to discover that the entire practice of issuing licenses for any purpose whatever is a basic intrusion into the concept of human rights. If a man has a right to go into business, to practice medicine, to operate his own motor vehicle, the granting of a license awakens the concept that without that license he has no right to proceed. This moves the operation of any business, the pursuit of any profession, the control and management of one's property, into a condition of privilege granted by the state. This turns man into a creature subordinate to the state. It assumes that the state has rights and may grant them or withhold them at will.

Our nation was founded on the concept that rights are a matter of natural endowment; that all men have them equally; that governments have only a confided power; that men may alter their governments to suit themselves; that they may even do away with their governments and provide "new guards" for their safety and happiness.

The attempt to deny a person his fundamental right to operate a motor vehicle by claiming that such right does not exist, but that, rather, only a privilege exists, strikes right at the roots of the American view of life, liberty and property.

LET GEORGE DO IT

To the Editor:

It seems, sir, that you have contradicted yourself whilst coming to the aid of a friend who has contradicted herself. As bounds of fairness, I will use the pen as a weapon as you and Mrs. Harris have been doing.

I will not cancel my subscription to your paper as you have the finest newspaper in the nation. Other newspapers which I have not had occasion to read may equal your quality, but no one is perfect so you can't be excelled.

Now, in reference to your editorial, "Self-Protection," which proceeded to debase my claim that a firearm is the best means of self-protection and protection for one's private property ever invented: Many readers may have gathered from your editorial that you believe me to be ignorant of the facts, but if you look over what you said, I think you will find yourself much further from the target. I may have "shot from the hip" in faulting Mrs. Harris' statement on protection, but I'm a pretty fair shot when going from the hip. It appears that you, mine editor, fired with your pistol still in your holster causing the target to remain unscathed except for powder burns.

I recognize your right, sir, to join Mrs. Harris in living your life without the possession of firearms and I thank you for establishing (in print) that I have the right to own as many firearms as I wish, that I have the right to use *a fire*arm for protection.

Granted that Mrs. Harris wrote a fine letter and was trying to convey a good idea, but many lives and reputations have been ruined because of a "word in passing." Maybe "ridiculous" was a poor word to use in regards to Mrs. Harris' statement but I did use it, so I'll stick to my guns. And since I've only had the average government schooling, I cannot come up with anything good in Mrs. Harris' ridiculous statement. Death is just as deadly whether by means of a ray gun, rifle, club, rock or whatever.

Now, sir, what is protection? You seemed to have passed up logic in scolding me. Obviously, you dislike use of force in protecting your property. But I am a pessimist when it comes to the life of society. Until there is but one person on earth or surrounding planets, man will need to protect his property from unwanted trespassers with force, if need be.

And is not your newspaper a "protection by force?" If people go along with your beliefs, they are placing their lives in jeopardy because if they stand up for their rights, socialist-communists will go as far as killing to silence a freedom-loving man. You dislike force but at the same time you are welding people together in order to stand up for their right to live their life as free men and women. Are you not an instigator saying, "Let George do it?" "Let George fight for freedom!" The Gazette Telegraph will just tell George how it should be as a free man. To fight on another's property is wrong; to fight on one's own property to keep one's property is not wrong.

Again, I ask, "What is protection?" I have quoted Webster's dictionary but you have not yet grasped the meaning of protection.

To have any degree of protection which amounts to anything, you must instill fear into your potential trespassing evil-doer. How much protective force you maintain depends on how much fear you instill and how good your word is for enforcing your protective measure.

Now, say you are 5 feet tall and weigh 100 pounds, and your trespasser is 6 feet tall and weighs 275 pounds. Personally, your protection scale is reading close to "0".

So, you obtain a club. Now you have a better protection reading but you may get some pretty good ulcers.

With the employment of a knife, your protection scale reading goes up. Bow and arrow use reads higher. Then comes a pistol and crossbow. Next is a rifle. A "ray" gun will come in somewhere but I know not where. Apparently, the "ray" gun will be effective within the line of sight (which is limitless almost) but the noise factor will not be there that contributes to fear. I do not think that you feel that you have basis for the statement that my ideas fail to keep up with progress. Did you not read a previous letter wherein I mentioned use of the "laser beam"? What else is a ray gun? Insofar as the "ray" gun goes, do you really believe that anyone besides the sanctioned government, police and criminal element will be permitted to own a deathly ray gun which I remember seeing being used in old issues of Buck Rogers as a youngster? And don't you believe, sir, that civilization tends to outdo itself and they just might have gone too far with the "A" and "H" bomb and the coming "laser beam ray" gun? What is progress? A faster way to die? A longer way to live with drugs?

As far as tear-gas weapons go, have you never heard of a gas mask? And if you use a pellet, which breaks the epidermis, don't you think a light plastic armor would deter a nerve tranquilizer? If you use a larger force to propel a nerve pellet, in order to penetrate a shielding armor, then you are getting into an explosive powder firearm class, therefore you have the capability of killing or maiming.

Now, back to "let George do it." To protect one's property or life, one must be able to hit harder or move faster as in the case of karate and so on. If everyone, including criminals, were adept in the use of karate, what good is this for protection?

If using a firearm for protection, one must be able to shoot first or shoot straighter than his trespassing opponent. In other words, whatever the means of protection, the rougher and tougher that a trespasser be, the rougher must the property owner be. If the property owner is not rougher than his opponent, he loses his property and maybe his life. Haven't you ever heard the saying, "There's no honor among thieves"? There is no limit to how low a thief will go to take what belongs to someone else. So to protect your property, you must be willing to go as far as giving or taking a life.

Of course, you can "let George do it." You can let George, or Dick, or Harry protect your life and property for you. Yeah, let George do it! You don't want to stick your neck out but old George can put his life in jeopardy to protect you and yours. So what if George gets caught in a riot now and then or gets shot at, or even gets killed? After all, George is getting paid for it. George is getting paid to protect you. If he can't make a criminal into a "mama's good little boy," that's his tough luck. He deserves to get killed.

And where was George, the cop, when you got robbed? Well, he could have been four or five blocks away investigating another robbery that happened at about the same time. After all, those owners of property were paying George to protect them and theirs.

And what happens when you hire a pack of Georges who depend on brawn rather than weapons for administering protection? What happens if the "George pack" comes face to face with a bigger pack of toughs or a pistol-packing pack of toughs? When the "George pack" is beaten to a pulp or killed out entirely where does the individual property owner stand then? Where does a man stand when George isn't around to protect him?

Well, a man can always keep a dog nearby to protect (?) his life and property. Let George, the dog, do it. Of course, I know many fine decent citizens who have shot bears which would make hamburgers out of any dog. Even heard of bears coming out second best when man was armed with a knife only. Granted that they make some pretty vicious dogs but one or a couple dogs don't stand a chance with a bear. So I would say that a man with a club, knife, or firearms is superior to a dog.

As a good man is good, so he has an opposite equal, inasmuch as a bad man is bad.

When it comes down to protecting, dogs, geese, and the like, just don't have it. Fowls and animals are all right for warning devices but rarely make a distinction between good and bad people. When it comes down to outright protecting, you must protect yourself unless you wish to settle for less.

I feel that the British economy is supported admirably by U.S. taxpayers. If we supported England and other moochers less, our poor taxpayers would not need to resort to stealing and eventually "armed crime." That's my opinion of England's crime rate and unarmed police.

PARKING METERS

To the Editor:

I enjoyed very much reading the editorial about St. Petersburg, Florida, and its success in the removal of the parking meters. It happens that parking meters have long been a pet peeve, and I believe rightly so — for any considerable study of their use by any city will show that they do NOT help the parking problem — but are purely and ILLEGALLY a tax-gathering device. In fact, there are some cities that have been forced to remove them, by legislative action initiated by an aroused citizenry.

Any careful study will show that their use makes mandatory the employment of new employees by the city and, further, that several city police officers (who no doubt could be more usefully employed) are needed to mark tires against overtime parking, to write the "tickets," etc.

Further, the situation whereby the meter law is enforced is nothing more than illegal coercion. There are no witnesses — only the initials, or name, of the officer who writes the ticket; thus, his or her word is all that alleges the offense having been committed.

Then, when the alleged "offender" goes to the police traffic office to answer the preemptory summons, he or she is greeted by a chart on the wall which automatically lists the amount of the "fine."

In other words, it is presupposed that the person is guilty!

As a matter of principle, let's take an imaginary case of the type of reasoning that says meters are "necessary for the proper control of the parking problem." Horsefeathers! Why not by the same reasoning, place a turnstile on each sidewalk corner so that in order "to control pedestrian traffic" anyone walking downtown sidewalks on a busy day would need to pay a toll before entering the next block? This foolish and entirely imaginary suggestion of course is no more far-fetched than the use of parking meters!

Going even beyond this premise, the money gained by the city from meters is NOT money needed by the city but only money they LIKE to have. Without it, they would get along very well. But if it is so easily available, under the "armed robbery system," certainly they very soon find an urgent need for its spending.

To mention just one business that is certainly harmed by meters, consider the movie theatre. I, myself, have many many times decided not to attend a show that I would like to see for the simple reason that I walk with some difficulty and I can not park within decent distance of ANY theatre under a two-hour meter — a show lasts longer — or without paying a parking fee to a private lot. Why should citizens have to put up with this?

Now, it is always wise, whenever anyone complains of an existing condition, to ask them what they could do, or rather what anyone can do to correct the situation.

In the case of parking meters — as in the case of the "inspection" law on automobiles, or any other city or state tax gimmicks — the solution is very simple.

Should the good citizens of this area, even a few hundred of them, finally get the courage back to become independent Americans once more, instead of herded sheep, all that would be necessary is for these same few hundred citizens to refuse to put money in a meter — or answer a "ticket" — and then just stand pat.

The police can arrest a few people — they can impound a few cars (which is in itself illegal) — but just what could they do against a few hundred of us? There are not enough police, or jails, to handle a group of any size.

Of course, now, this is a radical thought. It is an extreme solution — as is any solution that tends to go against the entrenched political and economic hacks who keep taxing us.

But, since it is our money, our freedoms, and our country, perhaps it is time to be again a little radical.

I seem to remember, from the distant past when Americans would stand up for what was right, that the Boston Tea Party was considered RADICAL—the leaders of the revolution were outright traitors, etc.

The case of meters, and the case of inspection stickers, of course involve the taking away of only small liberties. However, if anyone will care to take time to examine a piece of inch rope (often used to hang someone) it will be found that it, too, is composed of many small fibres. The comparison should be obvious!

As always, when I write to your column, there will be some who will say that I should not — because I am a minister. Let those same ones do a little reading of the scriptures, for I seem to remember considerable discussion on many occasions about the "publicans" and "tax gatherers." Yes?

The Duel

Mr. Chechak, the indefatigable gun wearer and user, is back with us in another letter to the editor. But Mr. Chechak is not content to let people go their own way without guns even though he recognizes their right not to possess them.

And in a discussion with Mr. Chechak, when he delivered his letter in person, we uncovered the problem he has. He wants to carry a gun with him. Fine. We would not for the world interfere with his right to do so.

And, to his credit, he agrees that we do not have to carry a gun if we don't want to. But we got rather closer to the meat of the matter when we informed him verbally that if he came waltzing into our office packing a gun, we would tend to waltz out ourselves.

Mr. Chechak insists that he doesn't trust humanity. But, in the same breath, he says he does trust the man with a gun if he "knows" the man is trustworthy.

Our approach here is rather to the contrary. We tend to trust men until we discover that they are carrying a gun. When we find they are carrying a gun, we are going to avoid them.

We may be willing to take a chance, even with a man who may be potentially evil, if he is unarmed. But if a man is armed, our trust of him seeps out rapidly. When he is carrying a gun, he has the capacity of committing instant murder. And we cannot read his mind. We have no idea what he intends doing. Thus, we tend to work with people, giving them the benefit of the doubt, until they appear with the ability to murder at their finger tips.

Even a "trustworthy" man is still a man. When his capacity for murder is multiplied by his having a gun in his immediate possession, he worries us.

And we hold that we have a right to avoid such a man. We don't trust him. Our trust disappears, not because of what he has done, but because of what he could do if a fit of rage engulfed him or a deliberate intention lurked in his mind.

Mr. Chechak seems to feel that protection is enhanced by instilling fear in the minds of other people. We believe he is absolutely wrong on this point.

When we find our neighbor arming to the teeth, putting machine gun emplacements around the borders of his property (which he has a right to do), we tend to discount his protestations that he means only to defend himself. Some of those machine guns are pointed at our property. Since we had no intention of harming him and have demonstrated our peaceful intentions by not pointing guns at our neighbor, his arming against a potential aggressor convinces us that in his mind he fancies that we might be just such an aggressor.

If we extend this concept to the national scene, this is precisely what we see in the world. Russia is arming to the teeth. She says she is doing this because of the "warmongering" activities of the "decadent capitalistic" United States. So we arm to the teeth. Russia uses our arming as an excuse to increase her armaments. We use her increase of armaments for an excuse to increase our own. The arms race is on.

Nor is there any stopping it on the grounds Mr. Chechak offers. He admits, and he is quite right, that if an aggressor is bigger or more numerous than his victim, even if the victim is armed he will be defeated. So, the only possible solution here would be finally for one power to become so powerful that it could, and doubtless would, enslave everyone else. It would do this out of fear that if this did not happen, then it would be victimized.

This is the very thinking behind the United Nations. The United Nations, in theory, is supposed to become big enough to whip any aggressor or any combination of aggressors. By this kind of reasoning Mr. Chechak should be an ardent supporter of the United Nations.

The major difficulty Mr. Chechak has is in recognizing the ultimate futility of power and arms races individually or collectively. These things lead to war. And we ask, rhetorically, if it is not true that the more we arm, the less apt are we to preserve the peace.

The difference between an aggressor and the man aggressed against relates to the matter of timing. Any man is capable of murder. If he THINKS that another man is going to murder him, he may become the aggressor to prevent the other party from being an aggressor.

The fact is that property and life have been made safe in this world, not by imposing fear and terror on others, but by demonstrating that we do not intend to aggress. The man who is held in terror will stand this just so long. Then he will commit aggression if only to avoid being victimized.

A man named Smith, in the early days of Abilene, Kansas, demonstrated this to perfection. As sheriff of that rough and brawling town, he refused to wear a gun. And so long as he did not wear a gun, he successfully disarmed and tamed every rough and ready bandit or cow-poke who appeared. But he finally took to wearing a gun. And he was ambushed and killed in a gun battle.

Peaceful missionaries have gone into savage areas and, without weapons, have tamed and taught the most bloodthirsty of cannibals. Had they permitted fear to master them, or had they sought to instill fear in these cannibals, they would have accomplished little if anything.

The Golden Rule has more application than a gun. We can never know what is passing in the mind of another man. We cannot tell whether he is peaceful or warlike. But we can judge him on the basis of his capacity. And if he has the capacity to commit instant murder, we will avoid him.

One final point, and the major one: Mary Harris and ourselves in our respective treatment of this problem have not sought to "let George do it." On the contrary, both of us have held that we have a right to manage our own affairs and to provide our own kind of protection.

Frankly, and speaking only for ourselves, we would feel a good deal safer without the kind of protection any number of present-day Georges are offering and compelling us to support financially. We think that the kind of "protection" we are getting these days may very well erupt into a bomb attack. And how much "protection" will we have if this occurs?

Time Out for Conversation

Don't Let Them Get You Down

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Talk with an average, run-of-the-mill defeatist, one of these days, and you will probably accept defeat, too. This is not because the defeatists have logic on their side but because of the weight of their numbers. Just mention anything which might provide you with an opportunity for individual accomplishment and the defeatist will tell you a hundred reasons why failure is certain. Despite their numbers, defeatists want more company; success emphasizes their inadequacy.

Probably, if you have children, you have discussed the idea of trying to find ways and means to educate your children privately. You may have discussed the creation of a small private school. You have examined all of the areas into which government intrudes and a dozen defeatists have told you nothing can be accomplished unless you can raise at least a million dollars or more. Well, let's look at a few things, one at a time.

In most states, compulsory school attendance ends at age 16. This means you can employ a tutor or find other ways and means of educating your children after that age and at this point you may wish to consider the fact that no building, no edifice or campus has ever educated anybody. A school building provides a place at which students and teachers assemble, it provides protection against the elements, but it does not provide an education. Are you interested in a school building or an education, for yourself or your children?

For some strange reason a lot of people seem to forget that courses for home study of hundreds of subjects are available. Probably this is because information on courses and methods and teaching aids is rarely included on the comic pages of newspapers, but don't let this get you down. For just a few dollars (eight, to be exact), you can obtain information about more different courses than you can absorb in a life time from Dr. Carl H. Hendershot, 4114 Ridgewood Drive, Bay City, Michigan. The subject is "Programmed Learning." A Bibliography of Programs and Presentation Devices," 3rd Edition, 1964. The loose-leaf bibliography includes information concerning hundreds of courses, law, certain aspects of medicine, psychology, philosophy, various types of business training, primary, high school and college subjects plus information about devices used for presentation, publishers and manufacturers. All of the material is available for school or private study at home and the information provided will give you plenty of ammunition with which to defeat the defeatists who try to give you a hard way to go. As a matter of fact, the information may even prevent you from defeating yourself.

It is also possible to teach your children and others everything you know, and I hope you will not forget this important fact. An uncle with whom I went fishing many times was instrumental in encouraging me to want to learn. While many of the subjects about which I wanted information were not readily available within the limitations of the "school system," the urge to learn has never been diminished and I believe this is an entirely natural condition.

Once you become fully aware of the fact that courses are available which cover just about every subject you can imagine, without becoming involved in the socialist school system, you should be able to decide just how you want to use the tools which are presently available. Of course, it will not be easy to teach your own children or yourself, or to try to create a small school, but knowing you are not limited by the "system" should encourage you to put your imagination and your creative thinking ability to work.

And while you're at it, don't forget the need for more private schools of every kind and the many opportunities for teaching what you have learned privately and in your own family. Every person who learns to deliberately think, finds more and more to learn, in freedom.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

QUESTION No. 571: "Why does the Gazette Telegraph contend that collectivism, state socialism, and communism start in the local community?"

ANSWER: The reason is that we believe these things start in the minds of men and women in the local communities. When men in the local communities believe in initiated force, which is a form of collectivism and is the essence of state socialism and communism, it is only natural for this belief to spread out from the center and gravitate to the state capital and finally to the federal government.

Now what are the real trade marks of state socialism and communism? We are not against individuals engaging in voluntary communism, but state communism is based on initiated force. They make people comply to it.

There are ten planks in the Communist Manifesto and those people who don't think that state socialism and state communism start in the local community, we wish they would name one of the ten planks which they oppose.

The most important and harmful plank in the Communist Manifesto is, we believe, the tenth plank which reads, "Free education for all children in public schools. Abolition of child factory labor in its present form. Combination of education with industrial production, etc."

Of course we do not have the figures but it is doubtful whether one out of fifty people do not believe in tax - supported schools. Of course, they are not free, nor are they education. They are indoctrinated to believe that we get our rights from the state rather than from nature or from God. It would be impossible for the state schools to teach respect for each person.

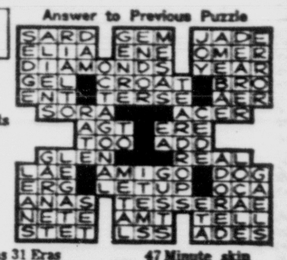

In the first place they deny God or nature and put men or the majority or the proletariat as superior to every other individual. But under a free enterprise system all people are equal before the law as they are before God and they have an equal right to own property and help establish values.

That is the reason that state socialism and state communism start in each community and spread to the state capital, and federal government. And if we continue it will spread to the United Nations and we will all be pawns for those in control of the United Nations. That is, those who have the most guns and the most power.

Questions are limited to general human relations, questions that will improve the well being of all mankind on this earth.

'Equal Time' For Debate Is Killed by Vote

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats have relieved President Johnson of the burden of deciding whether to debate Sen. Barry Goldwater in a radio-television campaign confrontation.

They locked horns with Republicans over the issue of who is chicken.

By a 44-41 vote the Senate tabled Tuesday night — and thus killed — legislation to suspend equal time provisions of the Communications Act.

The death blow for the measure — similar to the one which paved the way for Kennedy-Nixon debates in 1960 — came after some sharp, loud but unusually good-natured partisan exchanges.

Twelve Democrats joined 29 Republicans in opposing the tabling. All the 44 votes to kill were cast by Democrats.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., charged that it was "very evident some influence has been ordered from higher up to junk this bill because of the exigencies of this campaign."

"You are voting now by orders from higher up not to permit this kind of confrontation because somebody has decided it is better to be 'chicken' than to be strong and forthright about it," Cotton added.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., the keynote speaker for the Democratic National Convention opening Monday, voted against tabling the compromise measure which he had supported.

But he tore into Cotton for suggesting the Democrats were chicken. He thundered: "Why did not Goldwater debate with Scranton at the Republican convention? Why did Goldwater say no? Why does Cotton now say that Goldwater says yes?

"The chickens were hatched in the Cow Palace at San Francisco."

At times, both Pastore and Cotton were shouting.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., Goldwater's floor manager at the Republican convention in San Francisco — said the Republican presidential nominee made the practice of "reserving his debates for the opposition party and not to create strife among the Republicans."

Pastore said Goldwater had once declared on a television program the president of the United States should not be placed in the position of debating an opponent.

The rejected bill would have suspended for 60 days the requirement that if a network offered free time to any presidential candidate, it would have to give equal time to all, including those of perhaps a dozen minor parties.

Although nobody concerned would say publicly that Johnson wanted the bill killed, the action came after Democratic legislative leaders had conferred with him at the White House.

The House originally had passed the measure in June 1963 after the late President John F. Kennedy said he would be willing to debate his 1964 opponent, just as he had former Vice President Richard M. Nixon in 1960.

The Senate passed the measure in October 1963, but it was not until last May that a Senate-House conference committee agreed on the final version that the Senate dumped Tuesday.

Red China Trades With South Africa

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet News Agency Tass accused Red China today of trading with South Africa and tolerating colonialist oppression in Hong Kong and Macao.

Denouncing Chinese expressions of support for "national liberation" movements as faked, Tass said: "It is not secret that the British colony of Hong Kong would have perished within months but for China's support.

"The Chinese champions of freedom actually share the profits with the imperialists who exploit the Chinese population of Hong Kong."

Tass charged that foreign ships transported goods from China to South Africa, including "great quantities of dynamite" for use against the African population.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman sees unmistakable signs of "communist Chinese inspiration" in tactics employed by rebels in the Congo.

In remarks Tuesday to the International Congress on French-speaking Africa, the administration troubleshooter called on African nations to take the lead "in helping the government of the Congo restore order and unity in the country."

"All of Africa," he said, "has an interest in seeing that an outside power is not successful in upsetting a newly established government or of dividing a nation."

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Albert's case history should give hope to the millions of homosexuals and their relatives, so scrapbook this case. And you parents should all send for the booklet below, for homosexuality often starts at the age of 8 to 10 years! Parents, be on guard!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-452: Albert W., aged 23, is the homosexual who wished to change into a normal heterosexual way of life.

"Dr. Crane," he vowed, "I'll follow your prescription to the letter.

"For my mother is heartbroken and I realize life will be forever miserable unless I change."

So I helped him pick out a girl who was quite suited to Albert in religion, background, education, etc.

Then I prescribed that he rush this gilr by dating her as much as possible.

Albert agreed. His mother was pleased at once to think he was going with a girl.

And they both were fond of swimming as well as tennis, so they had a great deal of fun.

"But, Dr. Crane," Albert protested, after a few dates, "I haven't been able to force myself to kiss her.

"She seems like a pal but I don't have any romantic regard for her. In fact, the idea of kissing her makes me feel vaguely nauseated."

To which I replied rather curtly:

"Kiss her, anyhow. Action begets feelings. You can't control your emotions directly, nor can anybody else.

"But you can control muscular action. Kissing is a muscular act, so go ahead and try to put on an act till she thinks you mean it.

"As a smart college man, at least assume you are playing a role for the movie cameras in Hollywood.

Albert shook his head doubtfully, but he agreed to try my prescription.

On the next date, he kissed her, diffidently at first. Then he remembered my suggestion about being an actor before the Klieg lights, so he put a little forced fervor into his encore.

Later he admitted he had to grit his teeth to carry on, but he found that with each succeeding date, it grew easier.

"At last," he confessed, "I reached the place where I began enjoying her kisses.

"In fact, I began to look forward to dating her so I could relish her kisses.

"That was the most influential moment of my life, too, for then I knew I had conquered this long-time homosexual fixation.

"I had grown up to the heterosexual level of emotions. So I proposed and we are to be married next month."

Maybe some of you wonder as to the outcome. Well, they now have three youngsters and are a happily married couple living in a congenial suburban neighborhood.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

You parents should all have it on hand to help steer your children through their "gang" stage into the normal mid-teen heterosexual level of emotional maturity.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Compromise Housing Bill Faces Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise $1,115,000,000 housing bill continuing major federal programs for an additional year comes up for final action in the Senate and House today.

Senate - House conferees agreed on the measure Tuesday. In the most important compromises, they went below Senate and above House figures to settle on $725 million for urban renewal grants and on 37,500 new low-rent public housing units.

The bill, which President Johnson put on his must list for the 1964 session, does not include such far-reaching Johnson proposals as aid in the construction of satellite towns in metropolitan areas.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., long a leader in housing legislation, said that such advanced ideas would be considered in a big bill scheduled for next year.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD. — O. K. you breathless Beatle fans here's the latest from Walter Shenson, producer of "A Hard Day's Night." So great is the demand for prints of the film that before it's over 1,600 will be circulating 'round the world. Usual number of prints for a hit in the United Kingdom is 70-The Beatles got 166. Before the picture was finished, Shenson turned over the music to United Artists. The profits of that album exceeded the cost of the film. Shenson said, "I could have burned the picture and they'd still have made money." At the New York premier, little girls ran up and touched the screen. . . . . The Beatles play the Cow Palace (sure it's sold out) in San Francisco the 19th; Hollywood Bowl, 23d. While here they'll huddle with Shenson on their next picture which starts in February. Before that they'll tour the United States and England and do a Christmas show. On the personal side, Shenson says the three bachelors will remain that way for at least two years: "They're very bright and will play the string out with this success."

Now, girls, you can't say Glenn Ford didn't warn you. Home from a European vacation with son Peter, Glenn said, "I'm a bachelor and have no intention of changing." He'll go to work in "Scratch a Thief" with Ann-Margret and Alain Delon, that sneaky Frenchman who romanced Romy Schneider for five years, then up and married Nathalie Bartholome last week. He's en route to Hollywood with his bride. Delon was tagged the world's most eligible bachelor. . . . .Eddie Fisher will sing for the imperial family of Japan at the Olympic ball in Tokyo, probably the most lavish ball ever given in the orient, before the opening of the Olympics. Which reminds me, I got myself in a peck of trouble the other day by using a favorite expression "a Chinaman's chance." The Chinese community here let me know in no uncertain terms they didn't like it.

Mitch Leisen, who's directed some mighty fine pictures (one was "Midnight" with 12 stars including Jack Barrymore, Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche), goes to Spain for his next film, "The Spring of the Tiger," taken from one of Lord Byron's stories. One of Spain's leading stars, Espartaco Santori, will be in it and co-starred with him Hedy Lamarr. It starts in Madrid come November. . . . . Arthur Godfrey, back from a six-week tour of Africa and Europe, takes a big show to the Pittsburgh Civic arena for five nights beginning on the 24th and the following week plays "Our Town" in Buck's county. He'll emcee the stars' entrance at the premiere of "My Fair Lady" here in October.

What the brides will wear: Amanda Blake's wedding dress is 35 yards of blue mist silk satin and she'll have a 3½ foot cake with icing the same shade. Edie Adams will be done up in a long sleeveless empire beige crepe with chantilly lace by Mainbocher. Plus a diamond tiara. Ernie Kovac's two daughters will be maids of honor.

Cigarette Sales Skyrocket Back Throughout U.S.

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigarettes have rocketed back from the slump that followed a government report in January linking them to lung cancer and heart disease.

U.S. factories shipped almost 45.2 billion cigarettes in June — an increase of about 8.5 per cent over June 1963, the Internal Revenue Service announced today.

Small cigars, to which many switched early this year, took a nosedive. Shipments dropped from 190 million in May to 38 million in June. But the June figure was still double that for small cigars in June 1963.

The slump in cigarette sales had set in right after the government committee headed by Surgeon General Luther L. Terry issued its report in January. There was a considerable rebound in April, but June was the first month to show a sizable increase over the corresponding month of 1963.

June's 8.5 per cent increase compares to a normal year-to-year increase of 2 or 3 per cent.

Total sales for the fiscal year which ended June 30 were 495 billion, 8 billion below the preceding 12-month period.

The new monthly report was the first this year to show a decline in cigar smoking. Cigar sales had boomed from January through May.

For the fiscal year, shipments of small cigars were 865 million, compared to 182 million in the previous 12-month period.

Other cigars shipped during June numbered 699 million, compared to 731 million in May and 509 million a year ago.

Shipments of cigars during the fiscal year totaled 7.4 billion, an increase of 1 billion over the previous year.

A report issued by the Council for Tobacco Research — U.S.A., said 10 years of tobacco industry-supported studies had produced no laboratory proof of a link between smoking and lung cancer or evidence that smoking contributes significantly to heart and circulatory ailments or stomach ulcers.

Dr. Wendell G. Scott, president of the American Cancer Society, said Tuesday in New York that the report by the industry group was "self-serving and published without regard for the public welfare."

"The unfortunate, indeed the tragic, aspect of publishing such a report," Dr. Scott said in a statement, "is that many people who smoke cigarettes and find it difficult to quit will seize on the report as justification for their continuing to smoke."

The American Cancer Society has said cigarette smoking is a serious health hazard.

Indian Tobacco Aids Research About Cancer

By AL LANIER

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — The American Indians, unaware that smoking might be a health hazard, contentedly puffed a species of tobacco that would make a wooden Indian cough sawdust.

This Indian tobacco, with a nicotine content twice that of today's varieties, is being grown by Clemson University specialists in a cooperative effort to furnish researchers with various obscure types for experiments aimed at eliminating possible cancer-causing factors.

The Indian leaf, grown by Clemson officials under carefully controlled conditions, is shipped in 50 or 100 pound lots to the Tobacco Research Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md. There the leaf is broken down into component parts and the differences and similarities carefully compared with other species.

South Carolina is officially proceeding on the assumption that tobacco will continue to bring well over $100 million annually into the state's economy. The U.S. surgeon general's report calling smoking a health hazard was discontinued recently by Robert C. Edwards, president of Clemson University, in an address to tobacco exporters.

At the Clemson Pee Dee experiment station near Florence, in the heart of South Carolina's tobacco growing ara, cooperative experiments with seven tobacco companies are under way. These experiments are aimed at developing tobacco lines with high quality that appeal to smokers and manufacturers.

Dr. John Pitner, director of the Pee Dee experiment station, said the major contribution of the tobacco companies is data. Most of the funds for the experiment, he added, come from the state.

The new tobacco lines grown under supervision of Clemson specialists are carefully analyzed by manufacturers of chemical makeup, physical characteristics, quality and texture.

Dr. Pitner said quality in tobacco is hard to define. The new leaf must have a nicotine content that is not too high nor too low, is not to dark or too light, and has a soft, silky feeling, he explained.

Most of all, it must have flavor — the thing that led the Indian to put tobacco in his peace pipe and smoke it.

Girl Says Two Car Driving Is Just Fine

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — Once upon a time there was this girl, see.

She was driving two cars at the same time when a policeman stopped her.

"Why," said the policeman, "are you driving two cars at the same time?"

"Because," said the girl, obviously irritated, "it is easier than driving one car home and then walking back to get the other one."

"You're under arrest," said the policeman.

"Why?," said the girl.

Fiction? Not quite.

It actually happened this way: Gayle Andrews, 24, was spotted by Police Sergeant Emmett R. McLane driving down a main thoroughfare of this Washington suburb in the early morning hours.

Actually, Miss Andrews was not technically driving, she was being pushed by a driverless car behind her car.

It seems this was the best way to solve a problem — at least that was the way Miss Andrews told her story to the court Tuesday.

She said she wanted to move two cars a distance of about 10 blocks last July 27. Since there was only one of her and two of the cars this is what she did:

1. Started the motor of the rear car and put the automatic shift into drive.

2. Hopped into the front car as the back car started to push it.

3. Kept jockeying the front car so that it would guide the back car, keeping it in the front car's wake.

Miss Andrews told the court she felt that this was a perfectly safe way of travel. However, she admitted it was hard on pedestrians.

She told the judge that one man appeared startled as she drove past.

He did not think anything of it until he noticed that "the car behind me was doing the driving," she told the judge cheerfully.

Judge Berton V. Cramer was not laughing, however. He fined her $25 for reckless driving.

But Miss Andrews "definitely disagreed" with the verdict.

Said the judge, with an air of finality, "If that isn't reckless driving, I don't know what is."

22 Job Corps Camps Will Be Established

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Interior Secretary Stewart Udall and the Job Corps today announced that 22 Job Corps camps which the administration is setting up as part of its war on poverty will begin accepting trainees in October.

Udall listed 14 of the camps which will be located on federal land administered by the Interior Department and the Job Corps listed eight more that will be on other federal lands.

One of the camps will be set up at Collbran in Mesa County, Colo., and another will be set up at Casper in Natrona County, Wyoming.

Udall said the camps, announced last Saturday by President Johnson, will eventually accommodate a total of more than 1,300 men at sites in national parks, wildlife refuges, reclamation projects, Indian reservations and other public lands administered by the Interior Department.

The secretary said each site will originally take about 100 trainees for a combined work and education program and that a few would be built up to eventually handle as many as 200.

The program will include a wide variety of conservation projects such as developing outdoor recreation facilities, reforestration, wildlife habitat development and stream clearance, Udall said.

Probation Department Is Probed in Denver

DENVER (UPI) —Police Captain Glenn Archer, a handwriting expert, was studying the signatures of 135 employes of the Denver Probation Department this weekend to determine if they compare with the signatures of what is believed to be six forged department checks.

City Auditor Charles Byrne earlierin the week announced a possible shortage of at least $1,341 in department funds. Private interviews of department members are not expected until after Captain Archer has checked samples of all the handwriting.
